United States Stamp Tax.

Toronto, July 23.—Some recent decisions given under the new revenue war tax enforced in the United States are of interest to Canadians who may tavel from United States ports to a foreign country. Under the new measure tickets issued in the United States for passage on a steamer not salling from any port of the United States but from another port are not subject to the stamp tax. Moreover, tickets issued in Canada for vessels sailing from a United States port are not subject to the stamp tax. The only passenger tickets for which a stamp tax is required to be paid is a ticket issued for the transportation of the passenger by any vessel from a port in the United States for a foreign port. When to such a passenger ticket there is attached another ticket entitling the passenger after his arrival at the foreign port to transportation to various ports in Europe or elsewhere such additional tickes is not anbjected to stamp tax. Bills of lading for export by railway to ports in the Dominion of Canada require a ten cent stamp. Stamp duties imposed upon manifests and bills of lading do not apply to steamboats and to other vessels plying between the ports of the United States and the Dominion of Canada.

The world's wasaat crop is estimated at the will not longer correct with the forces under dentity as he did before the American troops landed in Cuba.

Another of his grievances is the action of General Shafter in which he declares that he is disgusted at his treatment at the hands of the Americans and will consequently with draw his own forces to the hills, being no longer willing to submit to the indignities to which he has been subjected. ### Correspondence.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the cals were given us to be used in the industrial arts, and hundreds of herbs and most of these same chemicals, besides many other drugs not useful for industrial purposes, were given to us to be used for medicine when required.

Alcohol is used very advantageously for mechanical, medicinal, and scientific purposes, and, as such, no temperance organization that I know of pledges its members to abstain from its use; but they nearly all pledge total abstinence from its use as a beverage. This is our view of temperance. Alcoholic drinks, as beverages, are of no use whatever. They contain no food, and do not quench, but rather increase, thirst—as do alt other poisonous drugs.

If those who preach moderation and take a glass now and then, and claim that they do not drink to excess, were to see some person go into a drug store and deliberately taste of all the drugs on the shelves, (all of which are good, at times, for medicine when dispensed in the proper proportions), for fun, even if he did not get enough of either to kill him, would they say that he was taking drugs in moderation? Would he be a temperate man? or would only he be such who wholly abstained from the dangerous practice and only took such things when ab-who wholly abstained from the dangerous practice and only took such things when ab-solutely necessary to preserve or restore solutely necessary to preserve or restore health?

The man who followed such rash practices as the above would not only be very foolish, but would be committing a greivous sin. He would be tempting God! Flying in the face of Providence. Alas! How many thousands die annually from that very practice as regards alcohol!—not the quick. est or most deadly, but the most stealthy, the most powerful to lure on its victim. Just as a very few might be able to take small doses of other poisons habitually and never suffer sudden death, because they were preserved by luck or Providence more than by good sense, so it is with the imbibers of alcohol. A very few indeed manage to go through life drinking lightly and not being actually killed by its poison; but how many hundreds of thousands are annually killed outright, and other hundreds of thousands have health impaired and life shortened! So, I claim, Mr. Moderation, that one practice is just as dangerous as the other; or, if there is any choice, I would say that alcohol is the most dangerous of all drugs, because it is an enemy in disguise. It has the power of allurement, while most other poisons are obnoxious to the taste and so deadly that we give them a wide berth. Alcohol is sold in preparations that makes it pleasant to the taste and gives the whole body a temporary exhilaration very flatter ing indeed.

When we put all these facts together and When we put all these facts together and consider them with others qually as strong that I haven't room to mention, we cannot but say that to drink slocholic liquors at all, as a beverage, is drinking in excess—and, if in excess, not in moderation. So I emphatically resent the accusation of the moderate drinkers when they say that the temperace people have no right to the word "temperace," when used in connection with the name of a society which has for its first principle "total abstinence" from alsoholic liquors as a beverage, and I am proud to say that I am a member of a total abstinence to say the say that I am a member of a total abstinence to say that I am a member of a total abstinence to say that I am a member of a total abstinence to say that I am a member of a total abstinence to say that I am a member of a total abstinence

BRIDGETOWN RACES AGAIN.

To the Editor of the Monitor:

DEAR SIR—In reply to the letter which was published in the MONITOR July 20th, and signed, "One of the Judges," I have only to say that the learned gentleman had better once more read the National Association rules carefully that he may, before quoting those rules to amateurs like myself, be sure he is right. I do not pretend to be a driver or a professional horseman, having had very little chance for experience. I am willing to learn, but not from the professional gentleman who signs as one of the judges, but does not seem to know what the "home stretch" is in a mile heat of a race.

Vancouver, July 21.—A. C. Tremont, salmon canner, has brought word to the city that the lives of many fishermen were lost in a recent gale a mile off the mouth of the Fraser River. In one case the boats were bunched by a violent squall and the occupants thrown into the sea. There was a score of fishing smacks in the vicinity containing Indian women "klocchmen," who set up a death wail peculiar to the natives, which was a weird accompaniment to the howling of the storm. Five fishermen went down. Ten others have not been accounted for. Full particulars will not be obtained until the home-coming of the fleet to Westminster on Saturday. Two hundred boats were in full fury of the gale.

EASTER BEEF

As I am determined to supply my customers with the very best that the market will afford. I have purchased for Easter this year a pair of "heavy beef cattle" which will probably surpass in quality anything before offered to the public in Bridgetown.

In addition to the above you will find my Meat Market well supplied with a first class stock of Salt Pork, Sugar-cured Ham and Bacon.

DRY AND PICKLED FISH.

and in fact almost anything usually found in a well appointed meat Inspection solicited and satisfaction guar-ateed.
