WHAT Our Girls * Ought to Know.

By MARY J. STUDLEY, M.D.

Graduate, Resident Physician and Teacher of the Natural Sciences in the State Normal School, Framingham, Mass., also Graduate of the Woman's Medical College, N. Y.

12mo, Cloth, 201 pp. Price, $1.00, Postpaid.

The authoress, Mary J. Studley, M.D., was a physician of large practise and great success. Parents, Teachers, Clergymen and others, who have the education of girls, or who have occasion to address them in sermon or lecture, will find this book "cramped with usefulness."

"Every sensible mother will wish to place a book like this in her daughter's hands" — School Journal, New York.

"It derives its principal value from the fact that Dr Studley was a firm believer in the possibility and duty of so regulating the details of every-day life as to secure and preserve physical health and vigor, and that such a course is essential as a foundation in the higher moral and intellectual development." — Boston Woman's Journal.

SOME REPRESENTATIVE OPINIONS:

"FRESH FIELDS AND PASTURES NEW."

"THE HOMILETIC REVIEW is in theology what the railroad is in modern life. It stimulates production, hastens and broadens distribution, and opens certainly fresh fields and pastures new." — JESSE B. THOMAS, D.D.

"ESPECIALLY INTERESTING AND STIMULATING."

"The symposiacs on the chief books of the Bible, and on the religious questions of the day are especially interesting and stimulating." — PHILIP SCHAFF, D.D.

"THE BEST PUBLISHED."

"A first-class help to ministers, the best published" — Rev. CHAS. H. SPURGEON.
