

A FAIR PROPOSITION

would seem to be, that if any preparation is good enough to serve as a model for all others of its kind to be made after, then it is good enough to be recognized as the best. Such is the position of

Stearns' Cascara Aromatic

THE ORIGINAL

introduced by us in 1889, and now paying the penalty of success by having its title appropriated by its innumerable imitations.

Should not a Preparation which all Others
Endeavor to Equal, be Good Enough for You?

If not familiar with it, let us send you a sample, with literature.

FREDERICK STEARNS & CO.,

Manufacturing Chemists

DETROIT, MICH.,
LONDON, ENG.,
NEW YORK CITY

Windsor, Ont.