

after his studies or during his studies, at Padua is a fact of interest to McGill. The first Botanical garden in the world was established at Padua in connection with the University.
 The mineralogical & geological collections are splendid, & the professors at Padua would be pleased to exchange rare specimens ^{of Italy} with McGill.
 Collections of fossils, &c.
 The old dissecting room of the medical Faculty at Padua has still great attractions, &c.
 &c. If you desire a brief written Report on the Celebration I shall be glad (D.K.) to prepare one for you.

very sincerely,
 H. M. Ann, July 18, 1876.