r the canoefiner route l plan would Trout lake. d trip before ere a trifling ere a portage m, whence he retofore deself where the or "the Sea," h the mighty vers.

try, countless e of the Cananad. But our rt can be obme and money on river, which f Lake Tama-On and on, es by the score; m Lake Matar, which drains ssaga (outlet of haugama river ior), and Steel, hich is a stream nese waters, not , Jackfish bay, we finally come to the Nepigon river, the outlet of Lake Nepigon, which empties its icy flood into Nepigon Bay. Nowhere can the fly-fisher find better employment for his rod and skill than on the Nepigon.

That famous stream is too widely known to require any special description of its attractions, but a trip once taken there will surely be repeated when the season swings round again. Great fish are taken there, a six-pounder being not by any means such a rarity, and the river is easily fished. Canoes, guides, etc., can be readily obtained at Nepigon station for moderate prices, and the whole trip can be arranged for a comparatively small outlay when the quality of sport is considered.* Of the fishing, enough has already been said by enthusiasts who have tested it for themselves. It is quite certain that trout weighing six pounds are frequently taken, and a five-pounder is not anything out of the ordinary. Three and four pound fish are common. There is only one drawback, and that is the buzzing tribe of mosquitoes, which ever attend the angler. Were it not for these, you would indeed be in an angler's paradise; but even as it is, there is sport enough, and ten times over to repay the trial and make the mosquitoes utterly forgotten.

Rates of Fare.

We give a list of railway rates as a guide to the intending tourist, to which he can add living expenses at from $1 per day upwards according to what accommodation he requires as to guides, boats, etc. At the most, hotel rates will average $1.50 per day, and men and boats about a dollar respectively. Toronto to Havelock, single fare $3.10, return $5.20; Toronto to Sharbot

^{*} Particulars of cost, routes, character of the fishing, etc., etc., with a map and many illustrations, will be found in a pamphlet by W. F. Whitcher, Ex-Minister of Marine and Fisheries, of the Dominion of Canada. It is entitled "Nepigon Trouting," and will be sent free to any address upon application to the Passenger Traffic Manager of the Canadian Pacific Rail-way, Montreal, or any of its general agents.