

BOOK FIFTH.

CHAPTER I.

THE ANGLO-AMERICAN COLONIES.—1690.

Preliminary notices.—To persecutions in the mother country must be attributed the rapid increase of population in the English colonies of America.—Foundation of Virginia, as a royal colony.—The London and Bristol Companies.—Captain John Smith and other early governors of Virginia.—Vicissitudes of that colony; first introduction of female emigrants, and how disposed of, with observations thereon.—Foundation of Maryland, as a proprietary colony, by Roman Catholics.—Fair character of its founder, Lord Baltimore.—Colonisation of New England.—A few notices of the Puritans.—The "Pilgrim Fathers," and their expedition; they land on the "Rock," and found the colony of New Plymouth.—Settlement of Massachusetts Bay.—The ex-persecuted become persecutors in their turn.—Nature of the three forms of government established in the different English colonies.—Account of the early commerce of British America.—The New England plantations lose their chartered rights for a time; but these are renewed, soon after the Revolution of 1688.—Concluding reflections. 314

CHAPTER II.

THE SIEGE OF QUEBEC.—1689-1696.

League of Augsburg formed against Louis XIV: which Britain joining, active war follows between the colonists of New France and the Anglo-Americans.—Disproportion of the belligerent relative forces.—Plan of the French operations against the British possessions.—Intended conquest of New York; it proves unfeasible, and is abandoned.—Miserable state of Canada and Acadia.—Vigorous administration of M. de Frontenac.—First hostilities; two British vessels captured.—Pemaquid taken by the Abenakis.—Schenectady sacked.—Destruction of Sementels.—Fort Casco taken and razed.—Wavering polity of the Western tribes of Indians.—Raids in Canada by the Iroquois; they are well resisted by the French colonists.—Retrospective Notices of Acadia.—Sir William Phipps captures Port Royal; he attacks Quebec, but is repulsed, and retires.—General Winthrop advancing simultaneously by Lake George to join Phipps, has to retreat also.—Disasters befall the fleet of Phipps.—Humiliation of the Anglo-American colonies; their exhaustion, as well as that of New France, at this time.—The Iroquois and the Abenakis; their depredations.—Major Schuyler defeated by M. de Varennes.—New