

the term. The following year saw even greater efficiency and progress, and then came the scourge of influenza. Physicians were few and far between, the one in the neighbouring town east was stricken ill, and the one in the neighbouring town west died. Obtaining what medicine he could at Theodore, and using to the utmost his scanty store of medical knowledge, the community teacher went in a car from door to door throughout the settlements with food, medicine, advice, working alone in a district extending seventy miles. But even his giant's strength gave way, and influenza made rapid conquest of a depleted constitution. After a few days of delirium during which he kept repeating, "the foreign problem can be solved," Peter Yemen joined the ranks of the immortals.

"There's a legion that never was listed,
That carries no banner nor crest,
But split in a thousand battallions
Is breaking the road for the rest."