WOODILL BROTHERS,

Are the proprietors of the everywhere celebrated

Woodill's Worm Lozenges.

They are celebrated not only for their speedy, but safe and pleasant action. They may be given at all ages, and under any circumstances. Their great superiority consists in the simple and harmless ingredients of which they are composed, forming one of the best and most simple purgatives. And as the presence of worms in any person must be only conjectured before worm remedies are given, it is desirable to have a medicine upon which for certainty and harmlessness full reliance can be placed when there is a doubt whether worms do exist, and there must always be, until they are actually seen, WOODILL'S Lozenges will clear it up, if present, proof of it will soon be visible after their administration, if not, the effect will not be quarter that would arise from Castor Oil or Salts. So that independant of their Anthelmintic action, they are a harmless and excellent purgative.

WOODILL'S WORM LOZENGES are used and prescribed by the Medical profession, which is proof positive that they are

Certain, Safe, and Effectual,

N. B.—Ask for WOODILL'S, they are put up in boxes at 25 cents, and of a pink color.
