or more probably at Beanport; but in either case not writing from personal knowledge, and says: as soon as the troops in the flat bottomed boats had got well under way a number of the ships under Admiral Holmes' Division moved slowly up the river, followed eagerly by de Bougainville, and in due time reached Pointe aux Trembles."

Foligné says that Bougainville and all his people went to Pointe anx Trembles, and Mr. Donghty repeatedly emphasies the statement which many considerations show to be quite impossible.

September 9. (civil time) -2 P. M. Made the signal for all brigade-majors and officers of the flat bottomed boats. At 4 the troops embarked, in order to land on the south shore; $\frac{1}{2}$ past, weighed and dropped further up; anchored in 14 fms. water, St. Augustine Point W. $\frac{1}{2}$ N., I mile from shore.

roth -3 P. M. Made the signal for all officers of the flat bottomed boats. At 7 the remainder of the troops on shore at St. Nicolas's.

12th — 10 A. M. Made the signal for all adjutants. 4. P. M. Made the signal for all lieutenants. At 9 the troops embarked in the boats.

13th — ½ past 1. A. M. Made a signal for all the flat bottomed boats to assemble alongside of the "Sntherland". At 2, the boats all put off and dropped down the river. ½ past made the armed sloops signal to follow them. At 3, made the signal for "Lowestoft," "Squirrel," "Seahorse," and transports to drop down. At 7, weighed and came to sail. At 8, anchored about two miles above Chandière, in 15 fms. water.

September, 11. — Cape Nicolas W. 6. S.; St Angustine Church W. N. W.; Cape Red River N. E. 6. N. Distance of south shore, 1 mile.

8