TORONTO NEWSBOYS PLEAD THEIR CAUSE

Address Appeal to Board of Works for Street Corner Rights.

Toronto newsboys have sent a copy of the following statement to each member of the board of works pleading their right to retain places on the Toronto streets in preference to veterans. Both parties are to appear before the works committee today.
"We are asked to appear before your board next Friday, Dec. 5, to answer certain statements made by Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Burrell, who claim to have sold papers before they were overseas, and desire stands now.
"We beg to say, with all due respect to these gentlemen as returned soldiers, that we have, after investigating, found that they used to work for the Union Station Company before going overseas, in a different occupation than that of newsboys. We strongly resent the statement of these gentlemen.
"If it is true that some of our boys were not born in Canada; nevertheless they came here as children and were brought up as real Canadians, not only by their naturalized parents, but being on the streets morning, noon and night, and in touch with the best of citizens, have naturally adopted their ways, and we think it a very unjust statement that after these boys being on the street corners for 12 to 20 years, and their action as being loyal as young Canadians and beyond question, that the name foreigner be used against them. In regard to being born in a foreign country, surely no one is responsible for the place of their birth." Old Tin Lizzie.
"Statements are reported that $100 a week is not rare, one newsboy in an expensive car, and they have boys working for them on salary and take small boy's profit. We wish to say that newsboys would certainly have to go some to make half of the above amount, even if they do work an average of 14 hours each day and from 17 to 20 hours Saturday. The most expensive car we know of, a newsboy to have is a two and one-half year old "tin Lizzie"—and that is some expensive flivver.
"In regard to having boys working, allow us to explain that boys make more money and have less trouble selling for the other newsboy than they could make themselves, as all they do is sell for a few hours; the papers are brought to them, they need no capital, and stand no loss on unsold copies, and are paid a liberal commission. Three boys are the most employed by any one newsboy.
"We feel that the whole trouble started because the newsboys, after being addressed by Commissioner Harris and Controller McBride, on behalf of Victory Loan, subscribed about $27,000. The amount naturally looked so big for newsboys, that certain people got the idea that the game is a "peaches and cream" proposition.
"It will be a pleasure for us to come before you, and we trust we will receive due consideration."

CITY HALL NOTES

A deputation from the Wychwood-Oakwood Ratepayers' Association, the Ossington Ratepayers' Association, the Citizens' Freight Campaign Committee, North Riverside Ratepayers' Association, New Citizens' League, a representative of the G. A. C. and Sergt.
Hill, D.C.M., of the imperial force, yesterday waited upon the mayor to ask him to again run for the mayoralty.
As every member of the deputation made a speech, the mayor knew after they were all finished exactly what his virtues were and how good it was of a kindly Providence to send him above all other people to rule over Toronto. The mayor made no delinquent promise in reply, but declared he always needed the advice of his friends.
He promised a definite statement in a few days.

Controllor McBride declared yes- terday that he was free to do, say and act as he liked in the council, and was not like some other members who had a rope round their neck, the other end of which was being pulled by a cer- tain newspaper.

If women wish on the new council it will be necessary for some of the members to reconstruct their vocabulary, as some of the words used in the council chamber are hardly those of the drawing room. King's English can be learned cheap from any dictionary—they are cheap at all book stores.

The Toronto Electric Light Company have written to the council stating that they own no poles in the city, as they have sold out their entire plant to the Niagara Power Company and threaten dire results to any city official who dare to dare to even put his hand on one of the poles. They decline to comply, therefore, with the order of the city to remove all their poles from the streets. The mayor said yesterday the transfer of the company was ultra city policy. Solicitor Johnston said that the T. E. L. Co. assured the obligations of the T. E. L. Co. He thought the city should sue the T. E. L. Co. for breach of contract. The matter will, however, be dormant until Mr. Geary returns from England.

Controllor McBride expressed a hope yesterday that the public of Toronto would come to the council meetings and witness the slick and underhand manner in which business was conducted and passed upon and they would on Jan. 1 close the council chamber just as neatly as the people cleared out the Queen's Park sleepers some little time back.

"If we let heads of departments run the departments we should not always be getting into such deep water and have all the trouble we daily see in our civil service. Pay men by merit and you will get the work done a damn sight better," said Controllor McBride yesterday in supporting an increase of salary to a clerk.

The council yesterday visited Hillingdon avenue so that they could better understand the necessity for grading it immediately. The council was led by the housing commission and approved by the residents of the neighborhood. After the inspection H. H.
Williams of the housing commission entertained the council to luncheon at the National Club. Mr. Williams said his commission had already spent some $800,000 and the total would be $1,000,000. He added the gratifying news that the commission did not expect to ask the city to pay for any deficit.
The commission has purchased for every one of the 175 houses now under construction, the majority of the applicants being returned soldiers. Mr.
Williams thought the commission should have continued when private enterprise could meet the demand.

When the council met in the afternoon H. H. Williams, accompanied by Sir James Wood and Allan Ross, were in attendance to plead for the immediate grading of Broadview avenue and Station street. After a brief discussion the necessary bylaw was passed. Mr. Williams, on behalf of the 100 families waiting to get into houses, thanked the council for its speedy action.

On a recommendation coming before the council that Sir Adam Beck should approve of any appointment made to the Hydro Commission by the government, Controllor McBride immediately set up an opposition. His whole speech was a defence of the Drury government privileges being interfered with, as he thought such a government hands and placing it in that of Sir Adam Beck.

Controllor Maguire said the Drury government was a new and inexperienced body in such matters and needed guidance. The controller went on to say that Mr. McBride of always trying to hit Hydro. The sparks then began to fly, and the following highly edifying conversation took place: Controllor McBride: "Oh bull on that stuff. You are looking for a job." The accused Mr. McBride: "I don't want to look for a job, but you will have to look for one after the election." Controllor McBride contended Toronto was being made the milch cow in the radical scheme.
The resolution was carried, with only Controllor McBride objecting.

Earls court avenue will remain Earls-court avenue and not be known as Albany avenue, as desired by 102 out of 143 owners on the street. The three of the Six Nations Women's committee of works, that was objected to by a large number of people, especially returned soldiers, living in Earls court district. Alderman Mac-Gregor warned the council that there was a deeply laid plot to change the name of the Earls court district and to change the name of the street to get the thin edge of the wedge. The returned men and the old residents of Earls court loved the old name and were protesting strongly against the change. He moved that the name be not changed, and on a division he was upheld by 15 votes to 4. On the matter coming up again on a report stage, Alderman Hiltz, chairman of the committee, moved to reinstate the name "Albany" but on a division there was a tie (10 for and against), so the motion was lost and we men who went to the war and made Earls court famous will still retain the old postal address.

Quadruple houses came in for a long discussion. After Alderman Baker and Controllor McBride had spoken against it, Alderman Baker pleaded to give the idea a chance. Mr. Dyer said the alderman had interested the Toronto housing commission in the

TORONTO TRADES COUNCIL MEET

Juvenile Court Judge and Press Censorship Debated Without Issue.

Much ado about nothing was the order of the day (night) at last night's session of the Toronto Trades Council held at the Labor Temple. At 10 o'clock it was decided to go into a closed conference relating to the O'Leary-Hey-vey-Simpson case; at a quarter to twelve discussion was rife upon every matter but that, chief among the matters touched upon at the session was that of the appointment of a new judge of the juvenile court and another involving the abolition of the court of appeal against the orders of the board of censors. In the first matter, James Simpson asked everyone to think of the sad and cruel history of a fifty-five year old man, a father of a large family of all manners of little children and of another official with equal powers as the great mother of the matter of censorship. Mr. Simpson believed that until more information was to hand any discussion of such officials was out of order. The delegates finally decided to refer the matter to the municipal committee.

A Deplorable Possibility.

Regarding the question of the board of censors for moving pictures and the abolition of the court of appeal advocated by the education committee, Tom Meillier favored the appointment of a board of censors to the board of censors. He believed that the board of censors was a truly deplorable possibility. Mr. Covert, international vice-president of the Moving Picture Operators' Association, opposed the abolition of the court of appeal as giving the moving picture control into the hands of the Committee of One Hundred, a truly deplorable possibility.
Mr. Covert stated that the moving picture industry was a business proposition which involved an outlay of $700,000, employing 10,000 men and women, and paying a weekly wage of $160,000. There was need, he believed, of taking a sane, broad-minded view of the matter of censorship, and once the court of appeal was abolished this would be abolished.

Many other matters were brought up, but perhaps the most interesting was the question of Tom Black asking if it was true that the case of Simpson-Heyve-O'Leary had been cleared up or was still sub judice. Mr. Simpson stated that the council had reported to the special committee. Mr. Heyve then reminded the former that there was no committee to give any report to the committee, having been discharged when it was decided to delay investigation until the trial was over.
Mr. Simpson stood by his guns on this matter, and the council decided to go into a committee of the whole and thrash the matter out. However, as already noted, nothing had been done by midnight.

Tom Black took occasion to state that free hospital treatment was ac- cording one only after humbling one- self to the dust, and that even then the class distinction was the order of day at the hospitals. Delegate Mun- ford, who had spent twelve weeks at both St. Michael's and the General Hospital, stated he had never been treated better and Mrs. Tinton ac- cused his remarks. The discussion arose out of the request of the Paint- ers' Union to the council to ask the board of health to open some of its grant of $10,000 to a member of the union who was attacked by smallpox while working at the isolation hospi- tal. The council was finally decided to have the Trades Council get in touch with the health board, the board of control, and the workmen's compensation committee in the matter.
