Luna s camp, where they went to inform the Filipinos that their envoys would return in safety, found the Filipino commander cordial, the Filipino troops removing their hats as the Americans passed. The Filipino complained to them that the Americans used explosive bullets, which is not the fact. The American officers retorted that the copper shells used by the Filipinos are worse than explosive bullets. Gen. Luna said he regretted being obliged to kill Americans, but that was his business.

Gen. Wheaton entertained Col. Arguleses and Lieut. Jose Bernal, and provided them with horses to return to their camps.

Mr. Schurman's Promises.

In the course of the conference yesterday Mr. Jacob C. Schurman, chairman of the United States Philippine Commission, to d Col. Arguleses that it the insurgents would now lay down their arms, he and his colleagues of the commission would consult with them regarding plan of government to be submitted to President McKiniey. He said he could not promise that all the suggestions would be adopted. He had to assure them that there would be a presumption in favor of their suggestions, adding that the commissioners would be especially desirous of satisfying the legitimate aspirations of the Filipinos.

Mr. Schurman said to-day: "I believe

Three Were Killed Outright, a Dozen Were Fatally Hurt, and Probably Fifty Were More or Less Injured—Train Was Running Very Fast Round a Curve.

WITH REVISED PROPOSALS

Rochester, N.Y., April 30.—The most disastrous railroad wreck that has ever nappened on a Rochester railroad occurred at 2.40 o'clock this afternoon on the Rochester wheels on the left side. It had negotiated but part of the bend in the track when it sets the Bay Railroad, about one-half mile north of the city line, when two cars on an excursion train, filled with passengers, left the track while going round a curve at full speed, and were completely wrecked. Three passengers were killed, a dozen fatally hurt and over fifty injured.

Rochester, N.Y., April 30.—The most disastrous railroad wreck that has ever nappened when it reached the curve it veered over to the engine was the closed carriage, and when it reached the curve it veered over to the engine was the closed carriage, and when it reached the curve it veered over to the engine was the closed carriage, and when it reached the curve it veered over to the engine when it reached the curve it veered over to the engine was the closed carriage, and when it reached the curve it veered over to the engine was the closed carriage, and when it reached the curve it veered over to the engine was the closed carriage, and when it reached the curve it veered over to the engine was the closed carriage, and when it reached the curve it veered over to the engine when it reached the curve it veered over to the engine was the closed carriage, and when it reached the curve it veered over to the engine while the part of the bend in the track when it is the first the rails and shot straight ahead. There was a sudden crash as the couplings between the engine and coach were severed, and then it again veered over and plowed thought the earth for several feet before dropping on its side in front of the tidge-road Hotel.

The first coach left the track whe it is the curve it veered over the three options and the other wheels on the left side. It had negotiated but part of the bend in the curve on the wheels on the left side. It had negotiated but part of the and over fifty injured.

Whether or not the prospectus will be changed before the big deal goes through,
Mr. Jaffray refused to say, when he was spoken to by a World reporter last night.
He denied any rumors that may be affoat to the effect that the scheme had fallen through, but said negotiations were at a standstill for a day or so, awaiting the arrival of some parties from New York, who have an active interest in the arrangements. For the present he declined to say what changes, if any, had been made in the original proposition.

Worried When Caught.

When Inspector Murray located his people he procured the necessary extradition papers. He found that Fish and the woman had started a millinery store in that town.

O. C. Fish was taken completely aback.

The detective says he had an idea for a time that the man would commit suicide. Both the man and woman, after being arrested, were taken to Dubique, before U.S. Commissioner Cady, and they were formally committed for extradition. There are several specific charges against the defendants, who at first were determined to fight extradition, but on being convinced that they had no chance of success on that score decided to return with Inspector Murray and stand their trial in Canada. They left Dubique before the extradition documents had been completed. The pair used the names, "P. J. Fish," and "Miss Fish," at Acklen, and were living together. O. C. Fish, the detective says, is a married man.

They will come up for preliminary trial this week.
