WINNIPEG BANDIT ELUDES THE POLICE

Much-Wanted "Bad Man" Escaped After Killing Inspector McCurdy.

Winnipeg, Nov 11.—Sq far the police have found to trace of the man and woman who got away from the Stock Yards Hotel at St. Bon'face after the shooting of the constables there early this morning. While the moral ty squad of five men went into the hotel in quest of any illicit linuor and entered the room occupied by "John Brown and wife" on that errand, it is not certain that the same "John Brown was afraid of a charge under the linuor laws of Manitoba. The theory that the murderer's own action has strengthered, is that he was a much-wanted had man in this district and may have been connected with the Wink'er bank tobbery a few weeks ago, or other deeds of daring in the west.

Mret Hail of Lead

After showering the rollee party with a hail of lead from his sun, he forced the hote keeper to drive him to Winnipeg, or as far as the railway tracks, and got off the automobile at about the time an eastern train was due to pass thru. Whatever way the man went there are police looking for him, and it would seem he has little chance of escaping, and the city is well wateved in case the story of the retarray by train is untrue—it was only told by the hote keeper. Joe Beirns.

Constable James Uttley, one of the wounded men, asserts that none of the raiders was armed He says the tro be arose when the police entered "John Brown's" room and ordered the girl the to vacate it. Angered, the man fired at Alex McCurdy, fatally wounding him, and rushed at the chiers outsile and in the room, firing his automatic al' they way. Only two of the raiders escaped and Jack Dreen fell as well as Ittley, the former being still in a critical condition. Inspector McCurdy died in the hospital at St. Boniface.
