

emphasize our satisfaction at the happy, healthy look of the pupils, and the sound character of the education imparted. The teachers are all efficient, and it is much to be regretted that the Institute is about to lose the valuable services of Miss Edith Terrill. All parents, who have deaf-mute children, should avail themselves of the opportunities offered at the Mackay Institute. I may here remark, that the printing is well taught, under the direction of Mr. McClelland. The work done would do credit to any establishment. The boys are also taught carpentering, in which they are making good progress, and the girls all kinds of needle and fancy work. Specimens of these were exhibited.
