CHATHAM, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1878. The New Premier. The Halifax Herald appears to know who is to be the next Premier, although it had definite information on the subject the announcement might be made in better time. The Herald says: "All the stuff in the Gait papers about Dr. Tupper's wanting to get at the head of the party, and push out Sir John, is the veriest malice and nonsense. The position is very simple. Sir John has publicly nominated Dr. Tupper to succeed him as leader of the party, without a word of protest. Dr. Tupper has accepted the nomination, and Sir John, for and confidence in, Sir John, without a thought of reservation. That is the position."

The Herald ought to know that it is fully expected that Sir John will be called on to form the new Government. "Micheillem" and the Liberal-Conservatives. It is to be presumed that those who take an interest in the matter may still accept the Advocate as the exponent of the sentiments of Mr. Mitchell and his political associates and sympathisers, although when the Advocate publishes portions of remarks made by Messrs. Donville, Tuck, Call, Adams and others at the Mitchell demonstration at Newcastle, and suppress other portions thereof, it does so to the organ of Mr. Mitchell and not as the organ of the party entitled to the respect of the country. Indeed, it may be safely inferred that the Liberal-Conservatives, as a body, would prefer to be free from the responsibility of the ill-considered and frothy declamation, childish boasting and petulant threatenings which are too often the principal characteristics of the oratory indulged in at the parish gatherings in which such gentlemen play leading parts. The organ of such persons ought not to be expected to take very high or firm ground and it certainly does not disappoint expectation in this respect. When it states that many who opposed Mr. Mitchell are now sorry for having done so, because of the success of the party with which he wishes to claim perfect affinity, it shows that it has simply created a "fool's paradise" which is essentially its own. Those who have watched Mr. Mitchell's career critically know that he does not now enjoy the confidence of any political party in Canada, while we need hardly deny that the electors were constrained to vote against him because they expected his opponent to benefit them personally by a distribution of Government patronage. The objections against Mr. Mitchell are grounded upon a more solid and lasting basis than that to which the Advocate appeals, and although there are yet men of prominence in the County the motives of whose public acts and efforts have always been openly sordid and self-seeking, we believe there is an increasing spirit of independence and true manhood abroad, which rejects because they are wearing the end of such miserable influences. We are quite free to speak for the Liberal branch of the Liberal-Conservative Party and it is no violation of the confidence that has been reposed in us to say that the Liberal-Conservatives are rather anxious to find an address has been presented to Mr. Mitchell at Newcastle in the name of the Liberal-Conservative Party and that, according to the Advocate the following are the party: William Muirhead; Michael Adams; Thomas F. Gillespie; L. J. Tweedie; William A. Park; James Brown; A. V. Paterson; James Fitzpatrick; William Masson; R. P. Whitley; Saml' Thomson; J. W. Fraser; C. F. Bourne; William Robinson; John L. Seaford, C. C.; Henry Oldfield; C. S. Ramsay; Thomas Duolin; Prince Baker; L. B. Freeman, M. D.; Daniel McLaughlin; James O. Fink; Jared Torer; John Sather; C. C. Hamilton; Roland C. Gidley; Anthony Adams; John M. Sutton; John Kain; James Davidson; T. W. Crocker; Edmund Parker; Samuel Russell; John Ferguson; R. B. Call; John Malby; W. J. A. Now.

The Government's Resignation. An Ottawa despatch of Tuesday to the Telegraph and Freeman says: "The Government-General arrived here at noon to-day. He will occupy the Speaker's room in the Senate until the commission and probably send for Mackenzie's successor before leaving. Another report is that he will merely visit the Governor-General, General McDougall to call the new Premier."

A New Phase in English Foreign Politics. A despatch dated Calcutta, Sept. 23rd, says an officer of the Ameer of Afghanistan at Atinooje refused to allow the British Mission to Kabul to go through the Khyber pass, and crowned the heights which command the pass with his followers. After a three hours' interview with the officer, in which he warned him that his act would be regarded as an act of the Ameer himself, Major Cavagnar, commanding the advance corps of the Mission, returned to Jorndar and the Mission has withdrawn under full instructions from the Ameer, who is believed to be in communication with the British Embassy, recently arrived at Atinooje. The object of the Viceroys was to make it understood he had no quarrel with the border people, and to win over the border tribes. The English press is unanimous on the subject of bringing the Ameer to his senses. The Times, in an editorial says, "There is little doubt that war is inevitable if it has not already commenced. Further reference to the matter will be found in our general news columns."

The Mackenzie Testimonial. We mentioned yesterday that there is some talk in the Upper Provinces of raising a handsome testimonial for Mr. Mackenzie. Since then the Toronto Mail, containing a short article on the subject, written in the best possible spirit, has reached us. We take pleasure in quoting it. It runs thus: "Some of the Reform papers are talking of raising a testimonial in the shape of $50,000 for Mr. Mackenzie. The party, if they are allowed to say so, could not honour itself more. It is not the money that is the object, but the fact that his public career, they cannot but admire his fidelity and ability as a party leader. Mr. Mackenzie has served the Reformers, he has laboured with a commission, for some thirty years, and served them well and unselfishly. He is defeated just now, but the fortune of war comes to no man. It is something for Canadians to boast that their public men are poor, and it is their duty to meet the noblest competency awaits their declining years. Political life would be much more agreeable than it is to all right-minded and right-hearted men if more of this spirit were permitted free play to mollify the hardness of party strife. If the project named be taken up in earnest there can be no doubt of its success." - News.

An Absurd Story. The New York Sunday Star publishes a statement to the effect that the Irish Nationalists are planning to capture the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise on their voyage to Canada. "Two vessels are being manned and offered by Fenians cruises in the path of the Royal party, and if captured they will be held as hostages until England pledges the removal of the heel of despotism from Ireland for ever." Such an idea as the above is worthy of Paul Ford or Ned Strapper the novel hero.

Annual Meeting of the Northumberland Teachers' Institute.

On Thursday morning last, at 10 o'clock, the annual meeting of the Teachers' Institute of Northumberland, was opened in the Chatham Academy. Inspector C. S. Ramsay, as President, occupied the chair and there was an attendance of teachers from all parts of the County—numbering over 60. Mr. Ramsay delivered a short address, explaining the object of the Institute and asking the efforts of the teachers in sustaining it. He said he had received a letter from Dr. Hand, Chief Superintendent, expressing doubts as to whether he should be able to attend; he also spoke of the great satisfaction expressed by Dr. Hand with the Institute held at Newcastle in March last. The Institute then proceeded to the election of officers for the ensuing year which resulted as follows: President, C. S. Ramsay. Vice-pres., C. M. Hutchison. Sec.-Treas., I. B. Oakes. Committee of Management, C. S. Ramsay, C. M. Hutchison, I. B. Oakes, R. Moir, Samuel McIntosh. The President then proposed an appropriation from the funds of the Institute as a remuneration to the Secretary for his services. Mr. I. B. Oakes declined the proposed remuneration, saying that the kind appreciation expressed by the President and other members was a sufficient reward. Mr. E. P. Flewelling was then called upon and read an interesting paper on geography and the use of the globe. He referred to our earth as a sphere and showed how a school globe could be used to illustrate its motions and many other interesting facts and conditions relating to it. He referred to the invention of the School Globe and the improvements made upon it and illustrated, with the globe in hand, how he would develop the ideas of the form and internal motions of the earth. The illustrations should follow upon the earth's lessons in geography. He also illustrated the finding of latitude and longitude and most of the other problems as laid down in Calkin's geography. Mr. Calkin, of Chatham, and Miss Parker of Newcastle, asked questions as to the exact method of making a pupil comprehend certain problems resulting from the motions of the earth. Some interesting discussion followed upon these questions. In answer to Mr. Flewelling, Mr. Wathen, Wathen, Stewart, Hutton, Flewelling, Moir, the President and Secretary took part. Miss Parker supplemented this exercise, which covered the work of one year, by further illustrations to be employed in the second year of the course. She first taught addition by units alone, then verifying the result by the Ball Frame. The next step was the addition of tens and units and verifying results as before. Subtraction, Multiplication and Division were next successively dealt with. Miss Parker's exercise was marked by clearness and deliberation. Her method of verifying the written processes by a reference to the Ball Frame was particularly noticeable. The brief remarks which were made upon this exercise, showed that it met the approval of the teachers. Mr. Stewart here dwelt for a short time upon the advantages of order in all the movements of pupils in school. He gave the following reasons for systematic movements: They promoted good order, rendered school work more effective, promoted the patience and the promptness of the pupils and prevented, in large schools, accidents. Mr. D. McIntosh then illustrated, by means of a class of teachers, how he would call up and dismiss a Reading class. A brief exercise by Miss Alexander, upon the variety of vowel sounds, brought the forenoon session to a close. FRIDAY AFTERNOON. The Institute opened at 3 o'clock, the President in the chair. The minutes of the three previous sessions were read and approved. It was resolved that the thanks of the Institute be tendered to the Secretary for his painstaking and exhaustive minutes. Mr. C. M. Hutchison dwelt upon the transition from Robertson's Grammar to Composition as taught by Dalgleish. He showed that information not provided for in Robertson's Grammar or in Dalgleish's Text Book was necessary to be supplied before the latter could be taken up by the pupil to advantage. This gift could be easily bridged by the teacher without the aid of any other prescribed text book. Further knowledge in Analysis than that supplied in Robertson's Grammar was necessary. This could be imparted by adopting the method of Analysis, as set forth by Mr. Dalgleish in his text book on the subject. He then instituted a comparison between the method of Analysis as taught by Robertson and Dalgleish respectively. To do this he had written upon the blackboard several exercises in the Analysis of simple and complex sentences and explained to the teachers the points of difference between the two methods. The Secretary being called upon to give his opinion of the plan explained by Mr. Hutchison, he said he highly approved of it in the main, especially the method of distinguishing the different degrees of subordinate clauses. He had adopted this part of the plan in his own school, but he could scarcely approve of making the four Subdivisions of the Predicate, viz. "Verb", "Complement", "Object" and "Extension". He thought it might be convenient, but not quite consistent with the meaning of the word, Complement. He preferred the Subdivision into "Simple Predicate", "Complement" and "Extension". Words under the class termed "Object" were always a part of the whole of the "Complement" of the Predicate. Mr. Flewelling thought Mr. Dalgleish's plan in this particular best. Mr. Wathen thought it defective. Mr. Moir thought Mr. Hutchison had explained the principles of Analysis well, and good help was being gained. As the hour was late the discussion closed. It was then moved by Mr. Flewelling seconded by Mr. Wathen, that Mr. Oakes be authorized to expend from ten to fifteen dollars of the Institute funds for chemical apparatus, the same to be owned by him and to be available for the use of the Institute. It was moved in amendment by Mr. W. H. Grinnally and seconded by Mr. Kelly, that a committee of three be appointed to purchase and present the apparatus. The amendment was carried. Resolved, that the amount to be appropriated be twenty-five dollars. Resolved, that the Committee consist of Messrs. Flewelling Wathen and Hutchison. Resolved, that the next annual Institute for Northumberland be held in New-

Sir Albert Defended.

It seems not a little singular that just when a great victory has been won by the party opposed to the Government of Sir Albert J. Smith was a member, Dr. Tupper, who is one of the most promising of the prospective leaders of that party, should think it necessary to attack Sir Albert with unusual severity as a place holder. The Telegraph, referring to the matter says: "It is well known that Dr. Tupper, in 1872, Sir John A. Macdonald offered the Hon. A. J. Smith the Governorship of New Brunswick. There was a good deal of speculation as to the acceptance of the offer, and a good deal of pressure brought to bear upon him to do so, but he declined it. It is well known to Dr. Tupper that in the summer of 1873 he, on behalf of the Government of which he was a member, offered to Sir Smith the Governorship of Nova Scotia, which he also declined. It was and is well known to Dr. Tupper that the time for introducing a motion in the Cabinet which he declined, while on the assembling of Parliament in October, the offer was renewed, and Dr. Tupper well knows that he, himself, pressed Mr. Smith to accept that offer and mentioned the names of two members of the Government, either of whom he would make way for Mr. Smith. That offer was also declined."

And the Freeman which is a first class authority on such a subject adds: "These statements are incontrovertible, and it does seem strange that Dr. Tupper, who knows them to be true, made a charge which he knew to be untrue, and that the time for introducing a motion which he knew to be untrue, he must have known could be so easily and so thoroughly refuted. We may add to the Telegraph's statements the following overtures. Dr. Tupper made to Mr. Smith for the purpose of inducing him to accept the seat in the Canadian Government held at that time by Hon. Mr. Mitchell, and that then also the offer was declined."

Mr. Donville Criticized. Mr. Donville of Kings County made some statements in the Masonic Hall, on the 28th of last month, which being attended by a representative man on an deserving of attention. In his effort to prove that the workmen of Canada were poorer than the working men of the United States he said "the latter had $240,000,000 in the Savings Banks of Massachusetts and that these Savings Banks were the depositories of the poor man's earnings." I would refer Mr. Donville to the following which I find in the fourth annual Report of the Massachusetts Bureau of Statistics of Labor for 1872, pages 130 and 131 relating to Savings Banks: "That large sums of money are deposited in Savings Banks by other persons than wage-laborers, as was shown by a list from the Report of the State Banks Commissioners from 1851, to 1871 and from the irregular addresses of Governor Claflin, himself a Director in two Institutions for Savings. "That according to the returns made to the Bureau by the officers of banks, which alone gave the occupations of depositors, twenty-five per cent. only of the sums deposited in said banks, belonged to wage-laborers; though fifty-five per cent. of the persons depositing were wage-laborers. That while the increase in the number of deposits during the year, was five per cent., the increase in deposits of and exceeding $200, was above thirty two per cent. That a wage-laborer could not save out of the annual average earnings of a single year so large a sum as the average deposit above $200 of the year 1870, that average being $75.63, and the annual average earnings according to our tables being but a little over $600 and by the incomes of the U. S. Census for the same year, but about $540." The conclusion being that the general opinion that all the "accountants" in these matters are "long to wage-laborers is not correct. As Mr. Donville appears to think with all Protectionists, that money is wealth. I will make one more quotation from "Social Statistics," by Herbert Spencer, page 258. "Money is wealth" was the dogma universally held by Legislators and Economists before the days of Adam Smith, as a self-evident truth, and in conformity with it acts of Parliament were, by general consent, framed to attract and retain in the country as much coin as possible. Mr. Mill, in his inquiry into the laws of population, work, assumes that this belief is now extinct. "We continue to hear acts praised as tending to circulate money, and of analyzing the alarm periodically raised that the money is going out of the country, we find such an occurrence regarded as a disaster in itself, and not simply as indicating that the country is poor in some essential commodity, but as there no occasion for a little enlightenment here?" Here we have the testimony of Adam Smith, John Stuart Mill and Herbert Spencer, yet such men as Mr. Donville, continue to assert that money is wealth. I repeat the question as applicable to our so-called teachers: "Is there not occasion for a little enlightenment here?" Yours, SKINNER. Newcastle, Oct. 6th 78.

MR. CARTWRIGHT. The Toronto Mail says: "It is reported that Mr. Horton will resign in Centre Huron to give Mr. Cartwright a chance. PARLIAMENT IS SUSPENDED to the proclamation of the 21st November but the proclamation does not say "for the despatch of business." It is thought, however, that a session will be called before the Christmas holidays. THE NEW GOVERNMENT GENERAL.—The Allan steamship Surinam has been chartered to convey the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise to Canada. They will sail on the 14th of November, and will be met at sea by the North American fleet, and escorted into Halifax.
