BIG JACK MCLEAN

What the Worcester Spy Says Abou The Well-Known Player.

The Well-Known Player.

Jack McLean played for Worcester against Rochester Wednesday and the Worcester Spy says about him:

Big Jack McLean, formerly of American League circles as a member of the Bostonians, played at first base for the Hopefuls. Mr. McLean behaved beautifully. In four times at bat he made two safe swats and was muleted out of another by the jump of O'Hegan, into the air when a right field drive was nipped from its course. McLean is only 6 feet 4 inches tall in his stocking feet, but with spiked brogans and baseball regalia he looks about 9 feet 7 inches, and at bat Mr. Bowen certainly thought Mac was a 12-footer. In reaching for throws that didn't seem in a hurry to get to the first baseman, MceLean showed reaching abilities that should make him the best-fed boarder, at any hostelry. Copping the prize potato from a dish at the other end of an eight foot table would be easy for Mr. McLean. Because of his former association with "Kid" McCoy as sparring partner, McLean was looked up to by the players. Once "Gentle Willie" O'Hagan had his toes pinned to first base beneath one of McLean's pedals, but "Gentle Willie" never murmured.

HERE'S A "ROAST."

What a London Dancing Master Says of American Ladies.

Walter Humphrey, head of a London academy of caneing, and editor of the Dancing Times, says: — "Englishmen cannot admire the art of the ballroom as taught in the United States. It as taught in the United States. It violates every principle of graceful motion. American ladies are especially ridiculous when they try to dance. Their vertical demonstrations are exaggerated, not to say grotesque. Their bodies sway about absurdly and they attempt to lead rather than follow their male companions.

"American ladies never dance acceptably in smart circles in London without first getting instruction at the hands of capable teachers. Englishmen find it quite impossible to follow their vigorous and complicated gyrations. English ladies permit their gentlemen partners to lead absolutely. They understand that proficiency in the art of dancing, from their point of view, consists in accommodating their movements perfectly to those of their companions.

"They preserve an easy rigidity of body and glide through the figures in-stead of leaping and hopping excitedly. English ladies are able to dance with American gentlemen far better than English gentlen:an with American ladies."

Mr. Humphrey asserts that the dancing academies of London always have a large number of Americans getting rid of terpsichorean vulgarisms picked up in the United States and taking on the graces of the art as understood and practiced in English society.

TRADE WITH AUSTRALIA

F. Schmettis:hek of York street, Sydney, New South Wales, is in Toronto with the object of inquiring into branches of Canadian manufactures in which a business could be profitably opened with Australia. He thinks that there is a fine opportunity for working up a trade in wooden goods, tools, machinery and refrigerators, but is willing to act as agent for any firm desiring to introduce their goods in Australia.

BEAVER'S LONG JOURNEY.

Four beavers were sent on Monday from the Algonquin National park, Toronto, to be used in stocking the Minnesota State park at Itasca, at the head waters of the Mississippi, They are in charge of Tim O'Leary, chief renger of the Algonquin park, who will go by boat from Parry Sound to Duluth. The beaver are sent at the request of Governor Van Zant of Minnesota, who said the species has become extinct in that state.

THE BLANK PAGE.

(Baltimore American.)

"Where is that page?" asked the king of the royal chamberlain.
"Sire, he is missing so much that he seemeth like a flyleaf."
"Aye, by my rood," roared his royal highness, "he is not only a blank page, but he is a blankety-blank page!"

WILL COME ACROSS.

Oxford and Cambridge Men to Meet Yale and Harvard,

NEW YORK, August 23.-H. Brooks, one of the graduate managers of the Yale and Harvard team, who made arrangements for the sports, return match between Oxford and Cam bridge, and Yale and Harvard, says the Englishmen are very confident of victory.

"We considered matters," said Mr. Brooks, "at Morley's just before I left. Dr. J. H. Gray, of Cambridge, and C. N. Jackson, of Oxford, being the Ringlish representatives. These gentlemen will not accompany the team on the visit. Lee Knowles, M. P., and former president of the C. U. A. A. will look after his countrymen's interests. It is also expected that Montague Shearman, who is well known to American athletes who have visited England, and Guy Vassal, the Oxford captain when Yale and Harvard made their visit in 1899, will make the journey and assist in the management. Among some of the changes suggested and to which I agreed, was one which will enable the Rev. H. W. Workman, the Cambridge distance man, to compete in two events. This was done by placing the half as the second event on the programme, and the two mile last."

The Englishmen also ask that the standards for the high jump tower several feet above the cross bar and to this Mr. Brooks promised no objection.

"Everything was most harmonious," "We considered matters," said Mr to this Mr. Brooks promised no ebjection.

"Everything was most harmonious," said Mr. Brooks, "and the Oxford and Cambridge folk look upon the next as the second of a series of regular contests. Several of the men who competed in the former match promise to be important factors in the one to come, and are looking forward to the visit with much pleasure, as they anticipate meeting, as they expressed it, their old friends."

GOLD FROM NOME,

But the Place is Full of idle and Destitute Men.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wn., August 23.

The exodus from Nome is fairly on and each steamer arriving from there brings large numbers. The Roanoke, which arrived yesterday, brought 130 cabin passengers, besides a large number in the steerage, which makes about one thousand also arrived from the north this season, and from reports each succeeding steamer will be loaded with passengers until ice shall close navigation. Returning passengers report Nome as being remarkably quiet and filled with fille men, many of whom are willing to work for almost anything in order to get passage money, but there is no work and great anxiety is felt by residents as to what will be done with so many destitute men.

The Roanoke brought down $1,600,000 in dust, most of which was shipped by the North American Trading and Transportation Company. Besides this it is estimated that the passengers brought $200,000 more on their persons.

AN INTERESTING REPORT.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—A blue book containing the rostmaster general's report for 1900 presents some interesting statistics. The number of postal packets delivered in the United Kingdom was 3,723,817,000. The experiments with motor mail services are still unsuccessful. But recent developments have encouraged the hope of the ultimate establishment of this class of service. LONDON, Aug. 23.-A blue book

MARITIME BOARD OF TRADE.

At the meeting of the board of tra

At the meeting of the board of trade of the maritime provinces, in Chatham, on Wednesday evening, a resolution was adopted urging the importance of greater attention to practical education; and one recommending that the government, appoint an inspector of railway bridges and culverts.

At yesterday's session a report was adopted protesting against the proposed increase in dire insurance rates and asking that maritime province business be separated from that of the west. Marine insurance was also discussed, but no action taken. A resolution relating to forest preservation was adopted, also one urging for the development of trade with South Africa; one asking the dominion government to pledge a sufficient sum to guarantee a fast Atlantic service; one asking the dominion government to aid in establishing lumber creosoting works in the maritime provinces.

The board was given a sail on the river, and royally entertained. Next year's meeting will be held at Sydney. The new officers of the board are:—President, W. A. Black of Halifax; vice-president for New Brunswick, W. S. Fisher of St. John.
