A somewhat unique event has just happened in the history of the supreme court of this province, unique because of the fact that never before was a criminal returned to this province for a new trial after having been lodged within the portals of Dorchester penitentiary to serve a sentence. Yet this is what has taken place in the case of George Gillain, who was convicted some weeks ago before Mr. Justice Hodgson in the Summerside court for having taken the life of a man named Graves in Alberton. At this trial Neil McQuarrie, K. C., prisoner's counsel, took strong ground against admitting as evidence in the supreme court the deposition of one Hector Currie, taken before the committing magistrate and now absent from the province. The court ruled against Mr. McQuarrie, but at the court of appeal in George town the full bench gave judgment in favor of Mr. McQuarrie's contention The result is that Gillain will be brought back at once to Summe to remain in jail pending a new trial. success for Mr. McQuarrie, who was admitted to the bar in 1884. In 1885 he was appointed stipendiary magis which position he now holds. Dr. C. M. MacLean of St. John Writes an Interesting Letter

DIXCOVE, West Africa,

W. L. Waring: Dear Uncle-I left St. John the last of February. Remained in England until the middle of April, when I sailed for the West Coast of Africa. I was much pleased with London, especially the British Museum, Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral, London Tower and the Houses of Parliapitals. Perhaps I expected too much.

I came out here in the interests of the Gold Coast Exploration and Trading Co., of 34 Clements Lane, London, E. C., as the medical officer. I also have the right to practice, which I thought would be worth a good deal. After I was engaged, another mining company, about half a mile from Dixgets the private practice at Dixcove which I had counted on. I am nine miles from Dixcove, which is our nearest post office. There is no medical man at Dixcove. However, I get what

SHAKESPEARE'S LIFE. The First of Potation Handy's Biog-

(By Charles I. Young.) Shakespeare was a dramatist. wrote in verse, prose and a large arm chair. He was born at Stratford-on-Avon in the year 1564. His parents were not very well off, or very well on, either. However, Shake managed to get an education by chopping wood during the forenoon. This would seem as though his education came hard, but it didn't, for the wood was soft. His father was a butcher. Thus we take it that at one time or other the father had some ham to let and this may explain why the son wrote a play and called it Hamlet. When the United States was young the people so admired Shakespeare that they called every little village a hamlet. This, in years following became so confusing to the postal authorities that these hamlets were given names such as Squedunk, Podunk, Littleplace, Hedgehog Corners, etc. Of course when this happened the theatrical managers reduced Shakes but history doesn't mention anything about his going on a strike and callin had no scenery in those days. They simply stuck up a sign reading "This is a forest," etc.

The following is one of Hamlet's soliloquies: He was full of them, as you will find if you read his unabridged red-line edition. "To be or not to be, that is the
