"CLEAN-UP" DAY WAS A SUCCESS

Response in "Death to Dirt" Movement Satisfactory.

HOW PLAN WORKED

Lower Cove Slip a Centre of Interest—"Speculators" Hunted for "Prizes" in Rubbish.

Clean-up day, a commendable feature of the annual campaign to make St. John a tidier, healthier and brighter looking city, was regarded as a success yesterday, although, perhaps, quite a number of the citizens who were out of town on the holiday had that tired feeling the morning after and were not as enthusiastic as they might have been in assembling refuse, dirt, garbage, bottles, tin cans, junk and old iron about their premises, had they been in the city on the evening before. However, the citizens responded to Commissioner G. Fred Fisher's appeal very well, and last evening the Commissioner of Public Works told The Standard that he had heard of no complaints from any one in the department regarding the failure of householders to co-operate in the very sensible "death to dirt" movement.

Fairville and other suburban localities also put their backyards in order. When the hot weather arrives the benefits of clean up day will become apparent from at least one viewpoint, that of the public health.

The city teams, assisted by teams and auto-trucks loaned by firms carted it to three scows and to the Elm street dump and other places.

At Lower Cove a schooner got in the way of the scow when an attempt was made to move the latter. The tide was falling and the result was that there was considerable delay. The other scows were also held on by the receding water, but it was arranged to have them towed out and dumped during the night of this morning. It had been intended to place two scows in the Lower Cove slip, but the presence of the schooner crowded things and there was room for but one.

There were a number of amusing scenes in Lower Cove when the teams unloaded the packages and barrels containing the refuse and junk. Many of the barrels were in a more or less good state of preservation, and when they were cast aside by the teamsters there were scrambles by those in the band of spectators present for the barrels during the night of this morning. These were borne home in triumph by some of the bystanders. Quite a number thought they saw articles of value in the rubbish, and many of the street off collection was appropriated and not given to the scow.

The British street slip is to be continued permanently as a place for receiving garbage, etc. The Broad street incinerator has recently been enlarged and is being used for the burning of old paper and some vegetable matter. The Elm street dump and others in the North End will be used by that section of the city, and there is another large dump between Park street and Cranston avenue in the Rockland road district.

Superintendent of streets Wm. Chester and his assistants were active from early morning until late in the day and they feel very satisfied with the work accomplished.

Fairville Busy Also. The "clean up" agitation in Fairville vindicated itself when load after load of refuse was carted to the dump in Peters street under orders from Roadmaster Stymest. The village gathered about during the coming summer, and certainly presents a much tidier appearance because of the special cleaning up effort.

Rev. F. R. Hayward, chairman of the committee, said that the work was done very satisfactorily and that the three highway board teams had been busy hauling. Several local firms offered the use of teams to assist the hard worked municipal staff.

Dr. G. G. Melvin paid a visit to Fairville this week and looked over the place. The Board of Health Inspector will visit the properties after clean-up day.

Many persons hired teams earlier in the week to cart away rubbish, not waiting until the special day and free delivery. The committee have reason to feel gratified that their work is the interests of community cleanliness has met with such success at the first venture.

LETTERS FROM WAR HERO WELL KNOWN IN CITY

Mrs. E. W. Chase Hears From Her Son and From Bandsman Landriault of the 69th

Mrs. E. W. Chase has just received a letter from her son Charles. "Somewhere in France," the first time that she has heard from him in about six weeks. He said he was well and had been at the time of writing it was raining and their tent leaked some so that they were not as comfortable as they might be but that was all part of the game and the boys did not grumble. He had seen a number of the boys of the 26th and they were well and still plugging away at the Germans. Things were fairly quiet where they were stationed but there was no telling when they would live up. He had received a parcel and a lot of papers for which he was grateful.

Mrs. Chase also received a letter from Bandsman P. Landriault of the 69th Battalion. He said they were at Otterpool camp and that England was one nice country; the flowers were in bloom and the grass was so green that it made one glad just to be alive to enjoy it. He sent thanks for the kind treatment received while in St. John and expressed the hope that he might return to renew old friendships here. The battalion was in good shape and drilling hard. They had no idea when their time to cross the channel would come, but they were ready when it did.

She also received a letter from Seaman A. E. Laundry, one of the sailors who spent some time in the city last winter. He wrote that he had been appointed to a ship and it was just possible that he might be seen in St. John again before very long. He wished to be remembered to all those who made their stay here so pleasant for them while in the city.

A communication was read from the Federation Children's Aid Society in regard to a child recently removed from that city to St. John. A donation of $100 from the W.C.T.U. and one of $500 from Mrs. Mary Woodman toward the furnishing of the home, was received. A large number of contributions have been received from the various churches, societies and private individuals, which will be acknowledged later through the press. The committee on furnishing the home and providing clothing for the inmates reported progress. Any person having clothing which they would care to give to the home should communicate with Mrs. H. A. McKeown. It was decided to change the night of meeting from the last to the second Thursday in each month.

A. M. Belding, Rev. W. R. Robinson, J. King Kelley and Mrs. E. A. Robertson were appointed a committee to secure medical and dental services for the home. Among the cases dealt with was that of an incorrigible truant and the agent was instructed to have him taken before the judge and sent to the Boys' Industrial Home.

Disorderly Boys. Last night a boy was arrested on Brussels street as being one of a disorderly crowd. Of late there have been numerous complaints made to police headquarters regarding boys who cause annoyance to citizens by disorderly conduct on the streets, and it is thought that after a few of these youngsters are arrested and dealt with in the police court their companions will take warning.

The Indian Town Fire. Yesterday was the seventeenth anniversary of the Indian town fire which wiped out that section of the city, destroying more than five hundred homes. The fire started in a warehouse on Bridge street, and owing to the high wind and the fact that practically all the buildings were of wood, the firemen were unable to check the blaze, which raged from about noon until early the next morning and was only stopped by the pulling down of several houses. One life was lost in the conflagration, Miss Ann Cunard.
