THE WEARING OF THE GREEN.
We're wearing the green, boys,
Beneath the English rose;
We're wearing the deeper green
That home and Ireland know!

The green av halm and bogland,
The green av lough and lake,
The green that takes us back again
And brings the olden ache!

The green av Aran waters,
The green av Rathlin waves,
The green av all the hills av Home,
And the green av Ireland's graves.

HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNAE TEA AND SALE.

For the benefit of the Military Hospital in which many of the members are serving as V. A. D. S., the High School Alumnae held a tea and party sale in the German street Institute yesterday afternoon. The timely decorations of the rooms showed the green in honor of St. Patrick, with the spring flowers which the season also means. In charge of the home cooking table were Miss Blanche Myles, Mrs. J. K. Scammell and Miss Grace Campbell. High school girls served at the tea tables, which were prettily decorated, and Mrs. T. H. Sommerville and Mrs. W. H. Shaw poured.

A patriotic dance was held last evening at the residence of Major Corbett, Coburg street. The proceeds are for the 16th Field Ambulance comforts. A very enjoyable time was spent.

WHAT THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE IS DOING
FOR THE WOMEN OF N. B.

The New Brunswick Department of Agriculture is to be congratulated upon its efforts in bringing to the women of the province a new knowledge of old subjects. For the practical study of millinery, cooking, sewing, home nursing and first aid, house planning and furnishing, and a special class for mothers, four short courses, each one of ten days duration, are being held in the Agricultural Schools at Woodstock and Sussex. The work is being promulgated by the Women's Institute Division of the Agricultural Department, whose aim is to set forth by the motto on the short course programme, "For nothing lovelier can be found in woman than to study household good."

Miss Hazel E. Winter, Supervisor of Women's Institutes, in charge of the courses, has been fortunate in securing the services of competent and qualified teachers, each a specialist in her own line.

Two successful home economics short courses have already been held at Woodstock. The attendance averaged twenty-four for the first course and fifty for the second. The courses at Sussex promise to be even better attended.

Miss Grace Tompkins, milliner and dressmaker, of Hartland, N. B., is in charge of the millinery and sewing classes. With the first lesson begins the interesting work of making over an old style hat into an up-to-date one. The teacher shows her pupils how to brighten trimmings, renew velvets, clean and color straws. With these accomplishments the task of covering entire shapes is the next move and at the close of the course pupils have in their possession a "once-laid-aside" hat converted into a modern one, together with the knowledge of how to make and trim hats in the future.

The theoretical and practical cooking classes are directed by Miss Ada B. Saunders of Florenceville, N. B. Miss Saunders graduated from Mount Allison Ladies' College at Sackville, N. B.

In these days of the abnormally high cost of living, one who can teach how to get the most out of the least, is truly a public benefactor. Miss Saunders shows by precept and example the food values of different food stuffs, and their combinations. Work aprons are put on and all are busy preparing palatable and nutritious dishes. There are egg, dessert, pastry, apple, bread, fish, left-over and cake days, and one entire lesson is devoted to the correct serving of a three-course, properly planned dinner.

Miss Saunders says that the girl and boy, even before their teens, should be taught to help mother at meal time, and when once they become accustomed to the proper method in serving, are invaluable for the assistance they render.

The sewing period is from two until three. The introduction to this class is to first of all master the various stitches by hand, properly take measurements, lay a pattern, cut and make a fitted lining. With these accomplishments begins the fascinating work of making a tailored blouse and a one-piece dress. Miss Tompkins gives suggestions for different fashions, the styles for the spring and summer of 1917, and impresses her class with the fact that "the woman who is fashionable for the sole reason that they are fashionable, is not an exalted occupation and is, indeed, a somewhat sheeplike attribute." On the closing day in the millinery and sewing classes, Miss Tompkins gives a careful inspection and awards, not for the quantity, but for the quality, the prize of $5.00 as given by the Department of Agriculture.

Miss Gertrude MacKinnon of Fredericton, N. B., who was graduated from the Fredericton Victoria Public Hospital and afterwards took a post-graduate course at Corey Hill Hospital, Brookline, Mass., is the teacher in home nursing and first aid and the special class for mothers.

The time when a mother comes when some one in the home becomes ill and a nurse is required and if the daughter or mother is qualified and has the strength, to take care of the sick, so much the better for the family income. This is shown from day to day by lecture and demonstration.

The location of the sick-room, proper ventilation, contents, its equipment and the care of the nurse receive first attention. The second day is taken up with the work of preparing the bed for the sick person. The third day a study of the nurse's duties in the home (as a rule, the nurse is not called in for a well-advanced case, but is called in for a case which is not advanced enough to be sent to hospital). The principles of decoration and their application to walls, furniture and floors are next dealt with. William Morris says, "To give people pleasure in the things they must perforce use, that is the one great object of decoration."

A short history of old English furniture, Tudor, Jacobean, Dutch influence and Georgian, with their effect on early modern and modern American furniture, comprises the fourth lesson. Pictures of these types of furniture are shown. Such hints are given as "One thing to be studiously avoided is overfurnishing. Simplicity is always in good taste, no matter what it is dealt with."

The special classes for mothers, like the millinery, were newly introduced last year, and their popularity, and the helpfulness indicated that by all means they will be included in the courses for 1918.

More than one young mother was heard to remark: "Oh, if I had only known that before my baby came, what trouble could have been avoided." From day to day lectures are given on baby care, care of mother before confinement, preparation for confinement, care of baby for first week, care of baby for three days, convalescence, complications following confinement and sex hygiene.

One can readily understand the value of such a class on the present and coming generations.

The Department of Agriculture makes it possible for the women of the province to obtain the knowledge derived from such courses. All railway fares over two dollars are refunded, then each student has the equal chance of winning in prizes money amounting to ten dollars, the sum of five dollars being offered in the millinery and sewing classes combined, cooking, home nursing and first aid, house planning and furnishing, and the special class for mothers, making a total of twenty-five dollars offered at each course.

The intrinsic value of these home economics short courses cannot be overestimated. The sociability is a strong element of the courses. Thirty students are permitted to enter the millinery, cooking and sewing classes. While flowers are busy, tomes very often pass round with them and friendly words and the work of the entire course is summed up in the words of the students: "It is a privilege every home-owning woman should take advantage of."

Similar courses will be given the winter of 1918 with very likely one or two new classes introduced. It is to be hoped that as many women as possible will avail themselves of this educational instruction so vitally important to the homes of New Brunswick.

The first and second lessons treat with the house, the four types of American Domestic architecture and how they are recognized. These are illustrated with pictures and charts of colors for houses and roofs, invites discussion and with illustrations. A home task for the student is to draw a plan of a well-advanced house. "Thoughts are but dreams until their effects be tried."

Who's Who and What's What in the Picture World and on the Stage—Favorites and What They Say and Do.

IMPERIAL.

"The Secret Kingdom."
For those who like costume plays (as I do) the first two episodes of The Secret Kingdom will furnish them with some really beautiful pictures of court life in the mythical Kingdom of Alania. Later the scene changes to Arizona, and I believe still later to some big city, so the new serial at the Imperial has no lack of variety of settings. The attraction of Charles Richman as hero is very great, and though we have seen very little of her so far, I think Arline Pretty is going to be a very satisfactory princess. The scenes at the court are up to the Vitaphone standard of production. The Hunt pictures quite wonderful. Some of the incidents of the childhood of the little Prince Philip remind one of L'Aiglon, particularly the toy soldiers.

It is a splendid plan to show so much of the story at first and get fairly into the plot. It is not a serial with a thrill for every inch of space, but more like a well developed story in which deep interest will be taken. Charles Richman is always able to fill his part. He makes you really feel he is the person he plays, and not merely an actor dressed up in some special costume. I think he has the very nicest smile of any of the screen heroes.

The story tells of the childhood of our hero and heroine at the court of Alania, where the father of Julia plots successfully against the King, and has both the King and Queen executed. This traitor then tries to get hold of the little prince but is balked in his cruel plans by the devotion of one courtier Captain Barreto, who flees to America with Philip. Twenty years elapse.

Next we see royalty at Red Wing on a ranch out west. Here travelling incognito, comes the Princess Julia and Philip, who know nothing of their royal birth is enabled to do her a great service. She goes on her journey leaving him with a memory and a coronetted hankie, both of which he keeps. The two willians answer on the state sent from the old prince, having found traces of the lost prince. Their visit is far from friendly, and Philip's faithful protector is lost to him. Another is provided in the character of Juan, who has come also from Alania to care for him. We leave Philip now suddenly in the midst of plots and plans and with his previous quiet life quite at an end. The serial is decidedly out of the ordinary from the very beginning, and bids fair to come up to all that it was promised to be.

Arline Pretty as Princess Julia, Dorothy Kelly as Madame Savatz, the arch villainess, William Dunn as Philip's boon companion and protector, and De Palma West as Count Ramon, Savatz's confederate are the principal characters, and each plays his role in a way that shows unusually fine direction. The story is by Louis Joseph Vance.

Packets containing the principal characters in the serial were given to each lady attending Friday afternoon's performance.

The Imperial orchestra played some fine selections during the picture, particularly the music during the hunting scenes.

A comedy "Speed and Spunk" with Hushie Mack, caused much laughter. I really feared for some people in front of me who nearly had hysterics.

PLAYS THE SCIENTIST IN "CRIMSON STAIN" MYSTERY

The reason why the figure of Dr. Montrose, in "The Crimson Stain Mystery," the sixteen-episode serial presented by Consolidated Film Corporation, stands out so vividly is because it is interpreted by no less an artist than Thomas J. McGrane.

Having a foundation of six years with David Belasco, Klav & Erlanger and William A. Brady, Mr. McGrane has brought to "The Crimson Stain Mystery" a world of experience in just such roles as he is now portraying. His masterful handling of the strange situations in which the role of Dr. Montrose plays a part is one of the many pleasing features of the serial. His remarkable interpretation of his difficult part has called forth praiseworthy comments from the motion picture critics.

In a forthcoming Metro-Yorke feature screen production, Harold Lockwood and May Allison will be seen in parts such as these popular stars have never before played. Mr. Lockwood will be a daring scout of early pioneer days and Miss Allison, first seen disguised as a camp-follower in rags, plays a dainty maid who threads her way alone through the trackless forest in mindless fear and defiance of both white men and red.

These characters, Euan Leavelle and Lola de Contrecoeur, are the principal persons in "The Hidden Children," the famous novel by Robert W. Chambers.

Combing Won't Rid
Hair of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, use about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

BATHURST MAN ELECTED
DIRECTOR OF CEMENT

Angus McLean, D. Webster and H. New Directors look.

Montreal, Mar. 16.—Opinion regarding the future of the Cement common was the feature of the discussion of the shareholders' meeting when, in moving the adoption of the report, the president, Senator C. Edwards, made the statement while no one could tell the directors would not have been convinced that they could not depend on cement.

"The company is now in a strong position," he said, "and the common stock is as good an investment as any."

F. P. Jones, general manager, said that the cement business returns from munitions had been satisfactory. "We are now writing off the total cost of the plant and have some left."

Three new directors were elected: Dr. R. E. Webster of Ottawa, Angus McLean of Bathurst, N. B., and H. New of the Fairbanks, a lawyer of Montreal.

These gentlemen succeed Hon. Robert MacKay, the Murphy, and William Macpherson, who had resigned.

CATARRH IS DANGEROUS

DON'T LET IT MAKE YOU A
WON N. UT. RUN DOWN WRECK

To be able to breathe freely, hear plainly, smell, taste and enjoy the morning refreshment and strong with head and throat clear and free from phlegm are conditions that make life worth while.

No victim of catarrh can enjoy life as they should. The effects of this ravaging, disgusting disease are too plainly felt and yet, few people realize what a serious disease catarrh really is.

It is more than a trifling ailment, more than a passing discomfort, catarrh is a dangerous discomfort. It may lead to many distressing complications such as clogged nostrils, a constant disagreeable taste in the mouth, loss of hearing, dull headaches or perhaps consumption.

Left to itself, catarrh slowly and surely undermines the general health. Being a disease of the blood it should be treated through the blood to secure results. Sprays, inhalers, and ointments can never cure catarrh.

Below we print an old-fashioned recipe, that can be made up in your own home for a few cents and which has been used with good results in cases of catarrh.

Go to any drug store and get an ounce of permanganate of potash. Take it home and put it into a syrup made of ¼ pint of hot water and four ounces of granulated sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

This recipe has proved successful in many cases because it acts upon the blood and mucous membrane and tends to correct the trouble in the proper way. If the blood can be made pure your catarrh will speedily vanish. Anyone who has catarrh in any form should give this simple recipe a trial.

Any druggist can supply you, or a bottle will be sent on receipt of 75c, postal note or money order. Address International Laboratories, 74 St. Antoine street, Montreal, Canada.

If Belgium Were
"Next-Door" To Canada

—if the heavily-charged electric wires, that pen the people into a workless and almost foodless land, ran along our frontier

—if instead of reading of Belgian sufferings we heard the pitiful tales from the lips of escaped victims

—if we could see the long and hungry bread-lines of people as intelligent and once as prosperous and comfortable as ourselves

—if we could watch the thousands of emaciated children who are fed at the schools by the Belgian Relief Commission

—if what they are enduring, and their desperate need, were clear and vivid to us, instead of unreal and overseas

—then the great hearts of Canadians would be moved, and there would be no trouble in raising several times our present contributions to the Belgian Relief Fund.

Can we bring the urgent need of the hungry Belgian mothers and children home to YOU? Can we enlist YOUR active sympathy for those who very lives depend on the prompt and continued help of people like yourself?
