

PANIC CAUSED BY A SHOOTING IN THE STATION

Rug-Laden Syrian Salesman, Buffeted in Throng, Fancied Himself Insulted.

HIT POLISH SAILOR IN SIDE OF NECK

Alien Essayed Second Shot Before Disarmed—Victim Only Slightly Wounded.

New York, May 5.—Five hundred men and women on the platform at South Ferry connecting the east and west side elevated systems were thrown into a panic today when Eliam Kanan, a Syrian, of 4306 Sixth avenue, Brooklyn, shot John Cichowski, a Polish sailor, through the right side of the neck.

James Daly, a special officer, employed on the station, had noticed the Syrian, who later described himself as an itinerant rug salesman, being buffeted about the platform which serves as the terminus for the Sixth and Ninth avenue lines by the steady stream of persons hurrying to their homes. Kanan had a bundle of rugs on his back and several women were seen to strike at him and women who brushed into him.

Would Stop Insults. Cichowski, who told the police he lived at 30 Oxford street, Newark, N. J., with several friends, had run down the platform toward the rear car of a Ninth avenue train. As he was about to step on the platform he was seized by the arm by the Syrian, who wheeled about and fired at the sailor's head with a .22 calibre pistol.

"I have been insulted too many times in the twenty years I have passed through this station," the Syrian declared a moment before he fired the shot, "and I have decided to put a stop to this thing for all time."

Mad Rush to Escape.

With the report of the pistol there was a mad rush by the crowd to escape from the Syrian's pistol. Daly and several of the other employees on the station jumped toward the man when they saw him draw the pistol from his coat pocket a few seconds before the shooting, but they were blocked by the surging mass that surrounded the rug salesman from reaching him in time to prevent the shooting. Cichowski managed to turn his head before Kanan pulled the trigger and the bullet plowed through the back of his neck and passed out through the left side of his right ear. When he did not fall the Syrian aimed at him again, but just then Daly and other employees came through the crowd and disarmed him. The Syrian struggled with them for several minutes to retain possession of the rug, but several blows from a cane carried by a spectator quieted him.

Dr. Herman, called from the Broad Street Hospital to attend to Cichowski, said the sailor's wound was slight. The Syrian was locked up on a charge of felonious assault and violation of the Sullivan Law.

Wife Seeks Guardian For Her Gay Husband

Asks Court for Monitor to Keep Him from Other Woman.

Pittsburgh, May 5.—Not satisfied with an alimony of $6,000 a year, one of the largest ever granted in the Allegheny county courts, Mrs. Charles C. Whitehouse, in the legal battle with her husband, sought to have a guardian appointed for him "to keep him in check" and, incidentally, to keep him away from a "beautiful blonde," the alleged other woman in the triangle.

Mr. Whitehouse is a wealthy hotel proprietor and one of the best-known men in the city. Some time ago, his wife had him in court on a charge of misconduct. She refused to sue him for a divorce, and the case was heard by a special jury. The hearing was secret, and little was known of the proceedings until the court announced the $6,000 alimony.

Today it became known Mrs. Whitehouse had asked the court to appoint a guardian for her husband, on the ground that "he was inclined to protect his property and to keep him away from the woman who had broken up her home."

She said her husband brought the other woman to his home before she obtained a separation.

Lost Wife And Two Children

Came to Montreal a Week Ago and Have Not Been Seen Since.

Montreal, May 5.—A sensational kidnapping of a mother and two children was reported to detective headquarters this morning when William Bailey, returned jailbird, and Mons Star holder, from La Tuque, Ont., made his appearance in the detective office and was turned over to Sergeant Detective Lamont, to whom he related the circumstances.

Mrs. Bailey, with her two small children, and her husband, aged 7 years, and her daughter, aged 5, left LaTuque on the 3 o'clock train, June 26th, for Montreal, arriving at the Moreau street station of the O.N.R. at 10:15 the same evening. With her two children she left the station for the street and has not been seen since. She had with her at the time very little money and was to have visited friends on Champlain street. She never reached her destination and with the two children, her husband has been feared that she was kidnapped.

Relative Not Visited.

No trace of her whereabouts could be found by the husband who came to Montreal two days after her visit, to discover that her relations had not been visited. She is a woman 5 ft. 10 in. in height, 34 years of age and her name is Florence Maude Bailey. She is of medium light complexion. The seven year old boy was wearing blue pants, a sweater and coat with a checked cap. The boy has medium brown hair. The girl was wearing an accordion pleated skirt, and coat and had a checked cap the same as the boy. Her hair is very fair and long.

The city is being scourged by the detectives for the missing woman and children.

Eggs Blamed For Suicide of Student

Least Taste of Egg Made Him Sick—Preyed on His Mind.

Cambridge, Mass., May 5.—Because an edible which had eggs in it nauseated him, Barton Fay, 18, a Harvard freshman, committed suicide in his home in Worcester early yesterday morning. The young man suffered from his malady until it preyed upon his mind as to make him mentally unbalanced.

His father, Albert E. Fay, a patent lawyer, was at Harvard today collecting his son's belongings at his suite in Standish Hall.

"The lad could not eat candy, ice cream, or anything that contained eggs," he said. "You can understand how embarrassing such a situation was to the sensitive boy when he explained that once such substance touched his mouth he became nauseated and the effects often showed on his skin. He could not explain to his classmates why he was forced to leave the table so often, and that eventually burned in his mind."

"I kept the fact of his peculiar illness from his mother and had him treated by two specialists. Recently he seemed to be improving. "He was in excellent spirits early Sunday morning and made fun with his sister, who had come from a dance. Less than eight hours later we found him dead."

NO PLACE FOR CHILDREN.

Montreal, May 4.—Children will in future be forbidden to play on the streets or sidewalks of the city, according to a rigid order which has gone forth from the city council members. A by-law was passed by the city law makers yesterday which forbids, on the streets, lanes, crossings, sidewalks or public grounds of the city: "to play any games, to throw snowballs or other missiles and to skate or slide with sleighs toboggans or other vehicles."

In compliance with the by-law yesterday, Alderman Hudson declared the lack of playgrounds in the city and thought that better provision should be made for the children. Mayor Martin remarked that the by-law was designed for the protection of the children and it was subsequently adopted.

IS RICHEST NEGRESS IN THE STATES

Decreed Owner of Big Tract, Enormously Rich in Oil and Gas.

STATE HORNS IN BUT TURNED DOWN

Court Finally Declares Illegitimate Child is Heir to Mother's Estate.

New Orleans, La., May 5.—Lillie Taylor is probably the wealthiest negro woman in the United States as a result of a decision handed down today in the state supreme court in the suit of Lillie G. Taylor vs. Angeline Allen, state of Louisiana and George West, decreeing her to be the rightful owner of a big tract of land in the southwest section of Claiborne Parish, enormously rich in oil and gas deposits, and the value of which now reaches into the millions.

The question of her ownership hinged on whether or not an illegitimate child can inherit from its parents. Article 238 of the Civil Code, declaring that illegitimate children "belong to no family and have no relatives."

The district court in Claiborne Parish recognized Lillie Taylor as the heir of her mother, Lora McGee, however, and as such ordered her sent into ownership of the tract of land which her mother inherited from her father, from McGee.

State Horns In.

The state of Louisiana tried to get into the matter by intervening in the suit of Lillie Taylor against Angeline Allen, an action brought merely in order to have Lillie formally and legally declared owner and sent into possession, the attorney general contending that the land was the property of the state, because Lillie Taylor, being an illegitimate child, could not inherit. Subsequently, George West also intervened, contending that he was owner of and occupied the land.

While the suit was dragging in the courts the value of the land and its products of oil and gas grew steadily further up into the millions until now, when Lillie Taylor has finally been declared the owner of the lands, of the oil within them, and of the oil in tanks and pipe lines that has been pumped from them, it has attained a fabulous figure.

It is rumored that the attorneys for Lillie Taylor are to receive a fee of upwards of $450,000 for services rendered.

GIRL OF TEN CAUSES A LOT OF EXCITEMENT

Takes Horse from Laundry Wagon and Goes for a Ride.

LATER TURNS STEED OVER TO A "BIG BOY"

Helen Gorman to Admire Animals from Porch Not Steed's Back.

Philadelphia, May 5.—Pretty Helen Gorman, ten years old, loves horses and ponies more than dolls, candy, or anything else, in fact. Every time she learned her "A B C's" she has been reading stories about horses, and the play minutes other girls of her age give to sewing dolls' clothes, Helen gives to drawing pictures of horses. And in the evening, instead of asking her father, Daniel Gorman, to tell her fairy stories, she asks about horse races.

Good Chance For Ride.

Helen gave these facts yesterday preliminary to explaining her adventure with a horse and wagon belonging to the Europa Laundry Company, 2510 Broad street, which caused her mother, the owners of the laundry and a more who expected their laundry—did not get it—considerable anxiety. The story follows:

Helen left her home on skates shortly before noon. She skated until she saw, at Seventh street and Erie avenue, a horse belonging to the Europa Laundry, standing idly. That seemed to her a good chance to get a ride. So she asked a passerby to help her get on the horse. The man obligingly obeyed her wish, and then placed her on the horse and wished her a good ride.

Adventure Paired.

Late in the afternoon Helen, who is rather frail and in no sense suggests the daredevil, commenced to weep of her adventure. She called to her mother and asked her to help her down. Then she started on a trot home, but went in the wrong direction. Around 9 p.m. she found herself at Broad street and Allegheny avenue, and saw her grandfather. That was a surprise and relief to both.

Helen's parents didn't evince much enthusiasm over her adventure. In fact, well-Helen will not be permitted to leave the porch for the next fortnight. As for the horse, it was taken by the "big boy" to the front and Westmoreland streets police station, where the owners of the Europa Laundry called for it yesterday.

Jersey Pines Bear Has Giraffe Legs

Hunters' Dogs Drop Their Tails and Run When They See It.

Browns Mills, N. J., May 5.—There is a bear in the pines near Hanover that doesn't look like a bear. Its foot prints are those of a bear, but those who have caught a glimpse of the animal say its legs are as long as its body. Its presence was first known when a pack of hounds belonging to a Pittman, a well known hunter, ran back to him with their tails between their legs. Pittman saw the creature as it ran swiftly across a road.

Pittman's experience was the subject of much joking until others had the same experience, including Delbert Bush and his wife. They were on the way home when their dog, nosing among the bushes, gave a yelp and came running to them for protection. It had not apparently been hurt, but just frightened.

Dramatic Scene In Restaurant

Thief Pursued Among Diners by Armed Detectives, Corralled in Cellar.

New York, May 5.—Patrons of the St. Regis restaurant, in Broadway near Forty-eighth street, were startled shortly after six o'clock this evening when a man dashed through the restaurant followed by three other men with drawn pistols, knocked down several chairs, and then disappeared in the kitchen. Several of the more venturesome men in the restaurant ran back to the kitchen in time to see the pursuers disappearing down a flight of stairs leading to the cellar, and while the excitement among the kitchen help was at its height the three men with the pistols returned with the first man, who was carrying a bag.

Just then a woman, who later said at the police station that she was Miss Margaret McQuade, a motion picture actress, appeared and said: "That's the fellow. He stole $5,000 worth of jewellery from me." The "fellow" then was taken to the station, where, after he had declared he was Harry Victor, 29 years old, and that he lived at 1250 Washington ave., Brooklyn, Miss McQuade charged him with the theft of the jewellery and $150 on October 13, 1919. She said that on that evening, Victor, whom she had known for some time, approached her in the lobby of the Hotel De France, and told her he had just overheard a conversation among three "bad men," who were conspiring to rob her of her jewellery, three solitaire rings, two diamond dinner rings and a diamond studded gold watch. She said he advised her to hide her jewellery and that, becoming frightened, she entrusted it to Victor, as well as the $150 in bills. That was the last she saw of Victor, Miss McQuade said, until this evening. She set the detectives after him and he ran into the restaurant. He will be arraigned tomorrow on a grand larceny charge.
