The Kalamazoo
Loose Leaf Binder
has no Exposed Metal

The exposed metal parts of Loose Leaf Binders are a constant menace to the office furniture, and many devices have been used to overcome the difficulty. In the KALAMAZOO binder we have adopted the only rational method—we have eliminated the metal back altogether. A loose leather protecting back is taken up into the cover as the binder is opened or closed, and a KALAMAZOO binder has much the appearance of a bound Ledger.

The KALAMAZOO is a book, not a box. It can be made in any size and to suit any purpose, and it will hold one sheet or 1,000 sheets.

Write for illustrated booklet "C1" if at all interested in Loose Leaf Systems.
