

TRUEMAN LECTURE

Individuals who stand in the people must be thinking for themselves. Individualism is in the good of the world.

Without the opportunity of faith on the other side of the importance of Dr. Trueman furnished by reference to Christianity and Democracy. Maritimes all those are working against conscience were not one of the basic of Christianity and Many of these im-question of one of the expressed the view through the clash of the inquiring minds eventually bring us great truths of life. and conformity to parerson and Al Mitchell. The chairman was the Secretary.

ATTEND: Concerts every Sunday in the Arts Centre.

lished 1889
MING'S
Course
atters
and
ardashers

AT
STORE
MUSIC CENTRE

How about
e you ever
Dry Scalp
both with

ONIC
ROUGH MFG. CO. CONS'D.

Fall Formal
Friday

CANADA'S OLDEST OFFICIAL STUDENT PUBLICATION

Foot Ball
Thursday
Saturday

DALHOUSIE TO MEET BOMBERS SATURDAY

S.R.C. Okays Budget; N.F.C.U S. Fee Hike Is Accepted As Well

The Students' Representative Council gave the Dal-U.N.B. Canadian Rugby playoff match the go-ahead, and assented to the proposed 14-cent increase in N.F.C.U.S. fees at their meeting on Monday night.

Football fans were virtually certain of a treat as the paper went to press, as all arrangements became finalized for the Maritime Intercollegiate Championship match at College Field on Saturday. On Monday night the S.R.C. passed the biggest obstacle in the way of the game as they handed over some $274 to the team manager, Sandy Valentine.

The match will constitute the first maritime playoff since the sport was given official recognition by the MIAU last spring.

Back-door Approach
The Council got at the N.F.C.U.S. question from the back door, as they talked down a motion to withdraw from the organization put forward by Al Warner and Alf Brooks.

The withdrawal even had the assent of the Campus N.F.C.U.S. Chairman, Mary Goan, before the turning point of the matter became known.

It seems that a statement by a "Maritimer", put forth in the Queen's Journal in a recent issue indicated a decline in the strength of N.F.C.U.S. on the Maritime Campus. Moreover, the "Maritimer" later identified as some shady visionary from among our own students, and an affiliate of I.S.S. to boot, had been erroneously billed as a representative mentality.

The Council members were eager in their adoption of the fee-increase after the proper function and purpose of N.F.C.U.S. had been made known to the meeting by successive filibusters on the part of Gerow and Miss Goan.

The fee will replace the old six cents per student fee.

STOP PRESS
Dal. Not Coming

Moreover, the "Maritimer" later identified as some shady visionary from among our own students, and an affiliate of I.S.S. to boot, had been erroneously billed as a representative mentality.

The Council members were eager in their adoption of the fee-increase after the proper function and purpose of N.F.C.U.S. had been made known to the meeting by successive filibusters on the part of Gerow and Miss Goan.

The fee will replace the old six cents per student fee.

Who Noze?

The indecision of the AAA was again highlighted as the Council called for a statement clearing up the matter of Intermediate Hockey. Some of the members were under the impression that there had been a meeting to discuss the matter on that afternoon, but apparently did not know whether U.N.B. had been represented at the meeting.

Terry Kelly cleared the foggy atmosphere as he called for re-affirmation of the Council's decision to allow the team to play only in the immediate region. He stated that if these were a chance of such play being had, and in that case only, the AAA would commit themselves.

Another supplementary budget, submitted by the management of the Varsity hockey team did not fare so well, and saw about 80% of its amount tabled on an appeal to precedent. The budget was for additional sweaters and stockings for the team.

The purchase of the sweaters had been considered before by the Council, and at first consideration the group had been informed by Albert Sewell that the sweaters were "not indispensable."

A split in the thinking of the AAA became apparent as other voices, including those of Alan Mitchell, Ian Whitcomb, and Terry Kelly, AAA president were indecisive as to the necessity.

On motion of Alder Gerow, the sweaters and the stockings to match were tabled until they had been given additional consideration by the AAA. The money for the additional stockings was granted to the hockey team.

The indecision of the AAA was again highlighted as the Council called for a statement clearing up the matter of Intermediate Hockey. Some of the members were under the impression that there had been a meeting to discuss the matter on that afternoon, but apparently did not know whether U.N.B. had been represented at the meeting.

Terry Kelly cleared the foggy atmosphere as he called for re-affirmation of the Council's decision to allow the team to play only in the immediate region. He stated that if these were a chance of such play being had, and in that case only, the AAA would commit themselves.

The purchase of the sweaters had been considered before by the Council, and at first consideration the group had been informed by Albert Sewell that the sweaters were "not indispensable."

A split in the thinking of the AAA became apparent as other voices, including those of Alan Mitchell, Ian Whitcomb, and Terry Kelly, AAA president were indecisive as to the necessity.

On motion of Alder Gerow, the sweaters and the stockings to match were tabled until they had been given additional consideration by the AAA. The money for the additional stockings was granted to the hockey team.

The indecision of the AAA was again highlighted as the Council called for a statement clearing up the matter of Intermediate Hockey. Some of the members were under the impression that there had been a meeting to discuss the matter on that afternoon, but apparently did not know whether U.N.B. had been represented at the meeting.

Terry Kelly cleared the foggy atmosphere as he called for re-affirmation of the Council's decision to allow the team to play only in the immediate region. He stated that if these were a chance of such play being had, and in that case only, the AAA would commit themselves.

The purchase of the sweaters had been considered before by the Council, and at first consideration the group had been informed by Albert Sewell that the sweaters were "not indispensable."

A split in the thinking of the AAA became apparent as other voices, including those of Alan Mitchell, Ian Whitcomb, and Terry Kelly, AAA president were indecisive as to the necessity.

On motion of Alder Gerow, the sweaters and the stockings to match were tabled until they had been given additional consideration by the AAA. The money for the additional stockings was granted to the hockey team.

The indecision of the AAA was again highlighted as the Council called for a statement clearing up the matter of Intermediate Hockey. Some of the members were under the impression that there had been a meeting to discuss the matter on that afternoon, but apparently did not know whether U.N.B. had been represented at the meeting.

Terry Kelly cleared the foggy atmosphere as he called for re-affirmation of the Council's decision to allow the team to play only in the immediate region. He stated that if these were a chance of such play being had, and in that case only, the AAA would commit themselves.

The purchase of the sweaters had been considered before by the Council, and at first consideration the group had been informed by Albert Sewell that the sweaters were "not indispensable."

A split in the thinking of the AAA became apparent as other voices, including those of Alan Mitchell, Ian Whitcomb, and Terry Kelly, AAA president were indecisive as to the necessity.

On motion of Alder Gerow, the sweaters and the stockings to match were tabled until they had been given additional consideration by the AAA. The money for the additional stockings was granted to the hockey team.

The indecision of the AAA was again highlighted as the Council called for a statement clearing up the matter of Intermediate Hockey. Some of the members were under the impression that there had been a meeting to discuss the matter on that afternoon, but apparently did not know whether U.N.B. had been represented at the meeting.

Terry Kelly cleared the foggy atmosphere as he called for re-affirmation of the Council's decision to allow the team to play only in the immediate region. He stated that if these were a chance of such play being had, and in that case only, the AAA would commit themselves.

The purchase of the sweaters had been considered before by the Council, and at first consideration the group had been informed by Albert Sewell that the sweaters were "not indispensable."

A split in the thinking of the AAA became apparent as other voices, including those of Alan Mitchell, Ian Whitcomb, and Terry Kelly, AAA president were indecisive as to the necessity.

On motion of Alder Gerow, the sweaters and the stockings to match were tabled until they had been given additional consideration by the AAA. The money for the additional stockings was granted to the hockey team.

The indecision of the AAA was again highlighted as the Council called for a statement clearing up the matter of Intermediate Hockey. Some of the members were under the impression that there had been a meeting to discuss the matter on that afternoon, but apparently did not know whether U.N.B. had been represented at the meeting.

Terry Kelly cleared the foggy atmosphere as he called for re-affirmation of the Council's decision to allow the team to play only in the immediate region. He stated that if these were a chance of such play being had, and in that case only, the AAA would commit themselves.

The purchase of the sweaters had been considered before by the Council, and at first consideration the group had been informed by Albert Sewell that the sweaters were "not indispensable."

THE LINE IN OPERATION

Hopes of the U.N.B. Canadian Football team for the provincial senior and the maritime intercollegiate championships are pinned to a large degree on the light but effective line, pictured above in action against Shearwater from Halifax. The line that held the smoothly rolling sailors to a 15-12 victory will see action twice this week, against Coverdale Navy and Dalhousie University of Halifax.

U-Y-S.C.M. Lectures Commence on Sunday

This coming Sunday night the U-Y, in conjunction with the S.C.M. will present the first of a series of talks on the subject, "Sex and Marriage". This series will take the same plan as that used by the U-Y two years ago, in which, after an introductory talk, on consecutive Sundays a psychologist, a doctor and a minister gave talks relating to their own fields. This was found to cover the ground very completely and was shelved for reference at a later date. Thus, this Sunday these complementary groups will present the introductory talk, by Dr. D. A. Stewart, professor of Philosophy. All members of the university and Teachers' College are invited to attend.

After requested to do so at the Advisory Bureau Hut R—Room 6 between 10:00 and 12:00 a.m. on Thursday and Friday mornings Nov. 9th and 10th.

MEETING
There will be a meeting of the Campus Committee, U.C.M., on Sunday afternoon in the forestry building.

Geologists Enjoy First Trip of Season; Plan Others Soon

On November 4, thirteen members of the Bailey Geological Society accompanied by Dr. G. S. MacKenzie and Dr. S. A. Ferguson toured the south western part of New Brunswick on a geological field trip. The trip was sponsored by the society, and the cars were supplied by Dr. MacKenzie, Don Burt and Gordie Mann.

The points of interest visited included a volcanic outcrop of Pennsylvanian age on the shore of Lake Harvey; fluvio-glacial phenomena in Charlotte County gravel pits; the former nickel workings near St. Stephen where a shaft had been sunk and later abandoned; and the granite quarry and plant at St. George. Other points also were visited and the physiography of the region traversed was noted.

The trip took the geology enthusiasts through Harvey, St. Stephen, St. George and Saint John. Although the day was very wet, all the participants thought the field trip a major success and it is to be hoped that there will be more such journeys in the future.

Second Meeting
The second meeting of the Geological Society was held on Tuesday evening, November 14. The

Freshman Elections Friday

All stands in readiness for the annual freshman elections, which will be held on Friday. Under the able management of the SRC vice-president, Jim McAdam, the nominations have poured in in a way that they have not done for a number of years, and with three candidates up for the class presidency, and a large number of contestants for the other offices at stake, the elections look like they will outdo anything seen at the college for a number of years.

A committee of three, consisting of Alder Gerow, Barbara Bell and Mary Goan was appointed to assist McAdam in the balloting procedure at Monday night's SRC meeting.

Following is a list of the candidates offering for the offices of class president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer; and for the SRC rep. vacancies, four of which are to be filled by the voting Friday. The Freshmen are asked by the people in charge to investigate the candidates and stand prepared to make the proper choice in the Friday poll.

- S. R. C. REPS.
1. V. J. Stewart
 2. Noel Casper
 3. Gerald Freeman
 4. Stan Scott
 5. Dick Harvey
 6. Bill McCordick
 7. Earl Morris
 8. Don Fowler
- (Continued on Page Eight)

Dr. F. J. Toole Post-Grad Dean

DR. F. J. TOOLE, for many years head of the Chemistry Department at the University, whose appointment to the newly created post of dean of graduate studies was announced recently. Dr. Toole, one of the longest standing members of the faculty, and a recognized authority in the field of chemistry on the North American continent will continue to head the chemistry department in addition to filling his new post. For a detailed story of the establishment of the new position, see page three.

Major Beaugois, a native of Gravelbourg, Saskatchewan, came to U.N.B. as R.S.O. of the University's Contingent, C.O.T.C. in the fall of 1948. He had been for some time previously a staff officer at Canadian Army Head Quarters, Eastern Command, in Halifax. Coming to U.N.B., he succeeded Major Louis Gagnon, who vacated the U.N.B. post after two years on the campus.

Major Beaugois was a member of the Fusiliers Mont Royal Infantry Regiment of Montreal during the war. An experienced staff officer, Major Beaugois vacated his post as R.S.O. at U.N.B. only last August. During the summer of 1950 he was at the Royal Canadian Infantry Corps School, Camp Borden, Ontario.

As Officer Commanding the 345 man Advance Party of the Special (Continued on Page Eight)