Waiting for Spring to bid it rise.

An Alarming Fact.

A large proportion of the people of this country are dying after terrible suffering from the effects of disordered Liver and Dyspepsia, which give rise to symptoms of some obscure disease, when if taken in time and properly treated with Burdock Blood Bitters, would prove perfectly curable. Speedy relief is certain from its use, and a trial bottle only costs 10 cents.

SICKNESS is a trap which we often bate with luxuries, set for ourselves, and then deliberately put our foot in it.—O. P. DILDICK.

SHORT STOPS.

DRINK'S LOSSES.—The Youth's Companion gives both truth and poetry in the following:—

Loss of money follows drinking.
Loss of time brings bitter thinking;
Loss of business follows these,
Loss of strength and loss of ease;
Loss of health, respect and love,
Loss of hope and heaven above,
Loss of friends who once admired,
Loss of mind by frenzy fired;
Loss of fruitfulness, alas!
Loss of life's goal for the glass!
Loss of life and loss of soul
Crown his loss who loves the bowl.

PHYSICIANS tell us that the habit of running up stairs rapidly produces heart disease. We know of a young couple who contracted a bad case of heart disease by the simple habit of sitting on the front door step. That is the only form of heart disease which Burdock Blood Bitters fails to relieve.

FULL many a gem of spurious ray serene,
The spotless shirts of hotel clerks do bear!

FULL many a simple, ignorant sardine,
Believes them purest stones of value rare!—Buffalo Express.

SEANIDE ITEM.—"Tell me what it is, darling!" he said, reassuringly, taking her hand and drawing closer. "Don't keep anything from me." "Oh, Eugene!" she blushing replied. "But there ought to be no secrets between us," he expostulated. "True love is the very spirit of confidence." "It's something I've been going to ask you for a long time." "Then let me know it now," he added ardently, with a tender pressure of her hand. "I will," she said, summoning up courage; "what is the best cure for corns?" His answer was, "Try the Victoria Corn and Wart Cure."

THOUGH justice be delayed, at last 'twill come,
With recompense most sweet for suffering souls,
And vengeance dire on those who heed not
The anguished cries of mercy.

It is now claimed the first time the expression "Eureka" was used was when Archimedes sat down on a tack for which he had been looking nearly twenty minutes.
