

YOUR LUNGS

ARE THEY WEAK OR PAINFUL?

Do you spit yellow and black matter?
Are you continually coughing and hawking?
Do you have night sweats?
Do your lungs ever bleed?
Have you pains in chest and sides?
Do you have pains under your shoulder blades?

THESE ARE RECORDED SYMPTOMS OF LUNG TROUBLE AND

Consumption

You should take immediate steps to check the progress of these symptoms. The longer you allow them to advance and develop, the more deep-seated and serious your condition becomes.

We stand to prove to you absolutely, that Lung-Germine, the German Treatment, has cured completely and permanently case after case of advanced Consumption (Tuberculosis), Chronic Bronchitis, Catarrh of the Lungs, Catarrh of the Bronchial Tubes and other Lung Troubles. Many sufferers who have lost all hope and who had been given up by physicians have been permanently cured by Lung-Germine.

It is not only a cure for Consumption but a preventative. If your lungs are merely weak and the disease has not yet manifested itself, you can prevent its development, you can build up your lungs and system to their normal strength and capacity.

Lung-Germine has cured advanced Consumption, in many cases over four years ago, and the patients remain strong and in splendid health to-day.

Here is evidence from one case
Under date of March 11, 1907, William Schmidt, 1904 Coleman street, St. Louis Mo., writes:—"It is now nearly four years since my cure of Consumption was made complete by your Lung-Germine, and I am happy to say that I remain as well and strong to-day as the day I was cured. I am healthy and able to work every day."

We will gladly send you further proof of many other remarkable cures, also a FREE TRIAL of Lung-Germine, together with our new book on the treatment and care of Consumption and Lung Trouble.

KIDNAPPED IN DAYLIGHT

WHEN WANDERERS HAVE MYSTERIOUSLY "VANISHED."

It Is Said There Is Nothing Easier Than to Kidnap a Person in the Heart of London.

Wild as the theory may seem, it is by no means improbable that individuals who have incurred the ban of foreign Governments or secret organizations who have sought shelter in the metropolis have been kidnapped practically in open daylight in London and "suitably dealt with," says London Answers.

Only a few years ago Dr. Sun-Yet-Sen, a prominent member of the now powerful "Young China" party, was seized in broad daylight in Portland Place by two of his compatriots and hustled into the Chinese Embassy. He had incurred the enmity of the Empress. He had been kidnapped according to her instructions and conveyed to the Embassy, with the ultimate intention of placing him on board a ship in the Thames and transporting him to China, where he would inevitably have been beheaded, had he not, after some day's incarceration, been successful in throwing a letter out of a window which caused the British authorities to

DEMAND HIS RELEASE.

The numerous Russian refugees—many of whom are famous in science and literature—who have made London their home, live in constant dread of being drugged by emissaries of the Tsar and smuggled back to the solitudes of Siberia. To this day the compatriots of Sergius Stepniak, the Russian author, smile at the coroner's jury who returned a verdict of "Accidental death" when Stepniak's mangled body was found on a level crossing on the railway line. They argue that a Power like Russia can find emissaries who will do strange deeds for gold, even in the heart of London.

Take the case of the distinguished scientist Prince Peter Kropotkin, for instance. After his escape from the prison fortress of St. Peter and Paul, he settled in England, but frequently had to visit the Continent, where he was employed as correspondent for The Times. While in Geneva a highly-placed official warned Kropotkin—who, by the way is first cousin to the present Tsar—that he was shadowed, with a view to being surreptitiously seized and erty. He published particulars of the plot in The Times, and returned to this country, where, however, the enmity of his persecutors did not cease.

Soon afterwards he published a book, titled "In French and Russian Prisons," but every copy of the first edition was bought up by agents of the Russian Government.

A second edition was at once ordered, but before it could be printed a mysterious burglary occurred at Messrs. Ward & Downey's, the publishers. Nothing was stolen but the stereo plates were destroyed, and the MS., which was kept in the office safe, was burnt. This book has since, however, been reprinted from an advance copy which had been sent to a library in Boston.

from the refreshment-room at Charing Cross Station, where he had entered to have a drink with a friend. From that day nothing has been heard of him, but both the police and the Custom House officials agree that, granted money, there is nothing easier than to kidnap a person in the heart of London.

All that is necessary to is to inveigle him to partake of a drink or a cup of coffee in the most crowded resort. The drink is dexterously drugged, and the waiter is coolly told to call a cab, as the gentleman is overcome with liquor, and his friends will see him home. He is driven to a house kept by some foreigner in the pay of the Government he has offended. His clothes are changed for those of a sailor, and another cab conveys him to the docks, whence he is smuggled out of the country.

GOT HIS OMELET.

"I've never tried to be funny with a waiter," the returned traveller was saying, "since the time when I had a little experience with one in California. It was several years ago, and I was rather 'fresh.' I stepped into a restaurant one morning and ordered an omelet.

"What kind" asked the waiter.
"Why, are there more kinds than one?" I said.

"Oh, yes, sir," he answered me, "there are several."

"Well, bring me an ostrich-egg omelet."

"All right, sir," he said, "but you'll have to wait quite a while. It takes a long time to make an ostrich-egg omelet."

"I told him I had plenty of time. He went away, and was gone fully an hour. Then he came back with a big covered dish.

"There you are, sir," he said, placing it before me and uncovering it.

"Well, it was an omelet, all right, and big enough for half a dozen men. Whether there was an ostrich-farm in the neighborhood, and he got a real ostrich egg, or whether he made it from a couple of dozen hens' eggs, I don't know, but I distinctly remember it cost me two dollars—and I learned a valuable lesson."

"Oh, slip on any old thing," said the midnight caller. So the doctor slipped on the top step, but he did not lose any time, as he slipped on "The D & L" Menthol Plaster and all was right in a jiffy.

She: "Some people profit by the mistakes of others." He: "Yes, like the minister who got five dollars for marrying us."

Do Not Delay.—Do not let a cold or cough fasten upon you as it will if neglected. Dr. Thomas' Euclectric Oil will break up a cold and cure a cough, and should be resorted to at once when the first symptoms appear. It can be disguised so that any unpleasant taste it may have will be imperceptible to the delicate. Try it and be convinced.

SAYINGS OF GREAT MEN.

Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us dare to do our duty as we understand it.—Lincoln.

A worldly man makes of himself but a cock, sent for a while on the world's heap to scratch and peck.—George MacDonald.

Who is a true man? He who does the truth, and never holds a principle on which he is not prepared in any hour to act, and in any hour to risk the consequences of holding it.—Thomas Carlyle.

Half the world is on the wrong scent in the pursuit of happiness. They think it consists in having and getting and in being served by others. It consists in giving and serving others.—Henry Drummond.

A man of eminence in any line is exposed to a thousand eyes which men not so celebrated are safe from; and, in consequence, right conduct is much more essential to his happiness than to those who are less watched.
