ENOUGH FOR HIM

Major Waller Returns From the Philippines

Says Only Severe Measures Will Ever Subjugate the Natives.

San Francisco, June 13.—Maj. L. W. L. Waller, United States marine corps, by far the most interesting personage to reach here on the transport Warren, which brought the battle-scarred remnant of the fighting Ninth Infantry into port, expressed emphatic views in the matter of the war in the Philippines.

"You can't stop the revolution in the Philippines unless you take the severest measures," said Maj. Waller in an interview. "You would hate to see your wounded and dead mutilated. I cannot describe the fearful condition in which we found some of the bodies of men under my command who were murdered by insurgents. I received both verbal and written orders from Gen. Jacob Smith to kill all insurgents who were caught armed or who refused to surrender. It was the only thing that could be done, and I never questioned Gen. Smith's orders, with one exception. This exception I refuse to state. A fair estimate of the number of natives killed by the men of my command would be 400 to 500. These were all killed in battle, with the exception of eleven carriers, insurgents at heart, who were tried by court martial and shot. There was only one woman shot, and she was only slightly wounded. She happened to be in the breastworks of a fort my men were storming."

"I have fought in every country in the world except Australia," said Maj. Waller, "but Samar—well, hell, is a winter resort compared to Samar." The major spoke huskily, through a deep cold that he contracted during the home voyage on the transport, but he was obviously sincere. His dark eyes snapped and his nostrils twitched at the mention of the island that Gen. Jacob H. Smith had ordered him to convert into a howling wilderness.

"I left Samar a howling wilderness. They tried to make it that for us, but we made it a howling wilderness for them."

"Want any more of it?" was asked.

"No, I'm getting to be an old man now." His face relaxed. "I'm in my fifties. Besides, they have surrendered, and it's all over. It's always all over when they surrender in the Philippines," and a sarcastic smile curled under his military mustache.

"Have you anything to say, major, regarding your courtmartial on the charge of executing Samar natives without trial? Or was that the charge?"

"The charge against me," he said, "was murder." Yes, one plain word—murder. And as for having anything to say about the courtmartial, of course I have. I objected to being courtmartialled; it was not done at my pleasure; I was not consulted in the matter; I was simply courtmartialled.

"I know who caused that courtmartial; I know who brought it forward; I know who was at the back of it all, and Washington knows as much."

Robbed in a Box Car

Seattle, June 14.—Five men were held up in a box car on the Northern Pacific near Auburn at an early hour yesterday morning and robbed of amounts aggregating $60 and several watches. The robbery was reported at police headquarters yesterday by Patrolman Willas, to whom Gerald Pierce, one of the victims, related his story.

From Pierce's statements it appears that the five men had paid a brakeman a small amount to be allowed to ride in an empty box car on a freight train. On their arrival at Auburn three highwaymen entered the car with revolvers presented and ordered the occupants to throw up their hands. They complied with the demand and were then told to walk to the end of the car.

In turn each of the men was compelled to come forward and be searched by one of the highwaymen, while the other two covered the men at the end of the car with their revolvers. After all had been searched the robbers disappeared in the darkness, after cautioning the occupants of the car to make no outcry. Pierce lost, so he claims, $15 and a silver watch.

Pressure is Brought.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 13.—The campaign of the United Mine Workers against the engineers, firemen and pump men is nearly over, most of these men being out, and the union is now paying more attention to the fire bosses, clerks and others who have taken the places of those who quit.

Pressure is being brought upon them in every possible way. Quite a number of fire bosses throughout the region have already stopped work because they had been asked to take the strikers' places, and at a meeting had here today about a dozen more consented to join the strikers. The miners' union is now planning to expel from the organization all engineers, firemen and pump men who have not yet obeyed the strike order. They have been given until tomorrow night to join the strikers, and if they don't quit they will be expelled and their names published throughout the region as "unfair" workmen.

Drowned at Sea.

San Francisco, June 13.—The steamer Charles Nelson made port this morning, bearing the dead body of a man traveling under the name of George Roberts, but whose real name is believed to be Woodford N. Grant, of Blynn, Mass. From papers found among the effects of the deceased, it is evident that Grant had lately returned from Nome and that he was possessed of considerable wealth.

The dead man took passage at Seattle for Los Angeles. Grant met his death on June 11, while the Nelson was off Mendocino City. The steamer Navarro had been sighted flying a flag of distress. There were a number of casks containing lard on the Nelson's deck, and on one of these Grant climbed to get a better view of the disabled steamer. He was warned that his position was dangerous, but paid no attention to the words of caution. He was swept overboard, the cask striking him as he fell. A boat was lowered and the body recovered. The Navarro was towed to this port by the Nelson.
