THE TICKET FOR YORK.

ANDREW G. BLAIR,
THOMAS J. COLTHER,
WILLIAM WILSON,
JOHN ANDERSON.

GOING TO THE PEOPLE.

When a party goes to the people asking their support it is only natural that they should show on what grounds they ask their support, and on what grounds they ask their support. The government members for York go to the people presenting a long list of reforms in the management of affairs, they ask their support and show a better system of roads than were ever before seen in the country, they ask their constituents to sanction the abolition of the council, they ask them to give their votes in favor of a reduced executive expenditure, on a better class of bridges and more of them, on the doing away of ferries, and in their placing putrid bridges. They ask support because they have placed on every farm better class of cattle, horses, sheep and swine than that which would have been had had no imports had been made by them, they ask support because, by a system of subsidies, have started cheese factories within the county, because they have improved the condition of farms all along the line. Many other important points might be touched upon but this list is not enough to convince the intelligent voters of York that the men who ask for their votes in support of good government are fully entitled to them.

What have the opposition to offer to the people? It is a question that has not as yet found an answer. It has been asked on the hustings, in the house and in private, but a reply has not as yet been furnished. Surely it is too much to ask the people of an intelligent county as they have served them better than ever they were served previously and to place in positions of trust those whom they know have not the ability, judgment nor capacity to formulate a program nor devise means to remedy an existing evil.

Dr. Stockton, the leader of the opposition, when asked for a platform has dodged the issue. He knows that he and his followers have no measures of economy or reform to advance, all they ask is to get into power and perhaps they may be able to carry on business for a term. It is a choice between attorney general Blair and Dr. Stockton, and where is the choice of York who will hesitate as to what vote to cast? It is a choice between a man who has promoted all departments of the public service and a man whose only claim is: "I oppose the government led by A. G. Blair." Remember Dr. Stockton's record in connection with the Maritime Bank case. The money in dispute was the garnered taxes of the common people, it had been paid in by the laborers, it was their money just as much as though it had been taken from their own pockets. Dr. Stockton went to England to protest against this money of the people being reserved for them, he said practically that the millmen, farmers, clerks, factory operators, etc., must pay this $35,000 over again, that through no fault of their own they must pay this tax. Attorney general Blair said this is the people's money; I am here to defend them; they have placed me in power to see that they are not wronged. Dr. Stockton said you cannot prevent us from taking this money out of the pockets of Mr. Blair said he could and did. All know with what pleasure the news came over the sea that Mr. Blair had won the case before the highest tribunal of the British empire, where he had been forced to go to save the people from an injustice.

What would the people of all eastern York and Sunbury do but support the man who has placed the Fredericton bridge where it is. Who saved them more in ferry fees than pays their taxes yearly, who in spite of all the obstructions placed in his way by many of those who are yet opposed to him fought the battle almost alone and gave the people a very substantial token of his interest in their welfare? What should the people do but support a ticket composed as the government ticket is of men whose constant endeavor has been the improvement of the roads so that now York is said to surpass in its road system that of any state in the Union?

Why should the farmers support the government? Because it is the first legislature that has ever improved stock and farm appliances and disseminated information broadcast through the land. Other governments have promised much to the agricultural population but it ended in promises, all reforms are the work of the present government and their enemies will so admit.

We have seen that the opposition have no policy. Have they any superior ability? If not why should they receive support? When Attorney General Blair was in opposition he placed his platform before the people; when he was placed in power he completed these reforms, the most difficult being the abolition of the council which has been well and faithfully performed.

STAY ON THE FARM.

Instead of leaving for a less respectable position in the city. He had always approved of holding an exhibition in connection with agriculture. It was an object lesson for all. There a farmer could see and learn what must be done to him. He would congratulate the exhibitors on the fair then being held as it was an educator to all agriculturalists who took part in it. He looked forward to the most successful results to the province from the establishment of holding an exhibition in connection with agriculture. It was an object lesson for all. There a farmer could see and learn what must be done to him. He would congratulate the exhibitors on the fair then being held as it was an educator to all agriculturalists who took part in it.

THE EXHIBITION

Address Presented to His Honor.

HIS REPLY.

The Horse Parade a Magnificent Spectacle.

HOW THE EXHIBITS WERE PLACED.

The Crowds, etc.

The second provincial exhibition, under the auspices of Agricultural Society No. 24, was formally opened at two o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. A guard of honor from the C. R. L. headed by the band, formed an acceptable escort to his honor, Sir Leonard Tilley, who was driven to the platform where he was met by President Willey, several of the aldermen, Revs. Alexander, Fyfe, Roberts and Montgomery, officers of the 71st, T. H. Collier, M. P. P., while around the platform were clustered an immense crowd eager to hear Sir Leonard's address.

The Address.

To His Honor, SIR SAMUEL LEONARD TILLEY, C.B., K.C.M.G., LL.D., Lieutenant Governor of the Province of New Brunswick:
MAY I PLEASE YOUR HONOR:
One year ago, at the opening of the first agricultural exhibition held under the management of Agricultural Society No. 24, it was the pleasant duty of those representing this society at that time to come your honor and to thank you for your attendance upon that occasion. The society, through its president and executive, desire, no less heartily today, to extend to your honor our sincere thanks for your distinguished presence upon the opening of our second agricultural exhibition.

The material interest to the country of the development and improvement of all the lines of agriculture has frequently been emphasized by both the Parliament of Canada and the Legislature of our province; and these bodies have on many occasions expressed their approval of the laws which have been enacted to encourage the farmer to study the more skillful and scientific systems of labor in his pursuits. We are aware of the competitive age in which we live, and recognize in the opportunity which the farmers of our province may be largely benefited by a comparison of methods and their corresponding results.

We regard the great advances made in dairying in several parts of the province as evidence of a more rapid development in the future of that important industry throughout the country. The beneficial results and the progress given to the various departments of agriculture by the efforts of last year have been so marked that the industry has been encouraged, although laboring under considerable difficulties, to assume the responsibility of the second exhibition. This province and the Dominion at large are again the subjects of congratulation, and we congratulate you on the success which it has pleased a kind and beneficent Providence to bestow upon the exhibition.

It is our wish that your honor convey to the people of this province the successful accomplishment of the great philanthropic institution which she has inaugurated, and that many happy years may be granted to her, whose charitable works and Christian influence have, from the beginning, been so successful devoted towards the amelioration of the suffering and the needy.

His Honors Reply.

Sir Leonard thanked Mr. Willey and the gentlemen associated with him for the very cordial welcome extended to him on the occasion of his visit. He expressed his pleasure to be present and to take part in the exhibition. He said reference had very properly been made to the assistance given to the farmers by the Dominion and provincial governments. Both governments have endeavored to give all assistance especially in reference to agriculture. Assistance was necessary on account of the strong competition in farm products and in-fertile lines of farm industry, caused by greater railway facilities and enterprise in agriculture so that all parts of Canada and the provinces in fact were rivals in farm work to a far greater extent than fifty years ago. It was proper that their predecessors should do more than their predecessors did to assist this important industry. Encouragement has been given in the establishment of creameries and cheese factories, in the importation of stock and in general farm information with the economic administration of affairs. The success of the farmer depended largely upon the proper discharge of the duties of the Dominion and provincial governments in Canada who have been successful in farming and to those who have failed because they did not properly administer their affairs. Information and appliances with reference to stock and feeding have been made many.

where they would otherwise fail. In all parts of agriculture success depended upon education and economic management with respect to information or farm topics the farmers are much in advance of those of fifty years since. There being strong competition the farmer should be able to do more. Farm work has now become a profession. It requires almost as much application and study as it does to get a learned profession. He had always looked upon the agriculture as a man occupying a respectable position but it has been exalted during late years on account of the information and knowledge required. He hoped that it would still increase so that farmers and their sons would learn the profession and that it would be one of honor. He believed that cases that more of them would be willing to

able to succeed
instead of leaving for a less respectable position in the city. He had always approved of holding an exhibition in connection with agriculture. It was an object lesson for all. There a farmer could see and learn what must be done to him. He would congratulate the exhibitors on the fair then being held as it was an educator to all agriculturalists who took part in it. He looked forward to the most successful results to the province from the establishment of holding an exhibition in connection with agriculture. It was an object lesson for all. There a farmer could see and learn what must be done to him. He would congratulate the exhibitors on the fair then being held as it was an educator to all agriculturalists who took part in it.

The display of fancy work and home manufactures far surpassed anything yet seen in Fredericton. It was more artistic with better combinations and shows that the result of drawing and practical needlework in the schools is beginning to have an effect.
The cheese exhibit—home and factory made—shows what New Brunswick can do in these lines, and this important industry can not be too much stimulated.
A. M. Gibson, Marysville, took first prize for foals of 1891.
Isaac Feabody took first with his four year old standard bred stallion.
Thos. H. Colter, M. P. P., showed an Arabian colt that captured first, also one taking first prize in the Holsteins.

Lot has been cast in this country amidst such cheerful surroundings.
You referred, he said, in flattering terms to himself and his services which had now covered a period of forty years. He believed that the reference was too flattering and far beyond his deserts but his time could not be so long, of which he had remembered every day. The death of the late Sir William Ritchie left him the only surviving member of the legislature that has been here in 1851. These reminders he said told him that he must soon depart but he desired while he lasted to do all in his power to aid the agricultural and other industries of this province.
On behalf of Lady Tilley he thanked the society and president for their reference to her and the work in which she is now deeply engaged. Her heart had gone out in sympathy for the sick and suffering and all her efforts were directed to the building of the reformatory. Being the wife of the lieutenant governor she felt that showing humanity had a double claim upon her. She had depended upon the support and sympathy of the people and these had been freely given her. He wished the society and its efforts were fully entitled to all success financially and socially and declared the exhibition formally opened.

King's-creamy look first in creamery butter. This product was much admired and deservedly so.
Among the many visitors to the show was Miss Barrett of the Canadian department of the World's Fair commission. She is visiting the Maritime Provinces for the purpose of selecting fancy work for the Canadian exhibit.
Although the city was crowded, yet everything passed off very quietly. Some little quarreling took place, but was little compared with smaller crowds of years ago. Woodstock, St. Stephen and St. John turned out in full force. The C.E.R. brought many visitors and altogether made up a multitude.
Perhaps one thing that was especially noted was the absence of any friction in the working of the show. All the complaints were of the weather. As a result, made his special department as good as possible, and no wrangling nor discord was known.
Messrs. Wiley, C. Murray, F. B. Edgecombe, G. Dibble, A. S. Murray, M. Tennant, A. D. Thomas, J. H. Reid, and all the others down through the ranks can feel that they did all in their power to make the exhibition a success and they pronounced success. The bad weather spoiled the races in great measure, but those that were contended were good heats and were fairly well patronized.

The Horse Parade

Attorney General Blair, His Honor Sir Leonard Tilley and several others with ladies stood on the platform and saw the horse parade. There were fully one hundred and fifty equine beauties led around the circuit and all were led in praise of the display. No one thought that the central portion of the province could show such a collection of stallions, mares, geldings, colts and fillies. It was difficult to decide who had the right to first class prize. Willey, Gephry, Aurora, Sir Peter, Knight of Chester, Kearney, Charles and all famous trotting and working stables had representatives. The parade exceeded the most sanguine expectations.

The Exhibits.

As you entered the show grounds the first object likely to attract your attention was the tent erected by the W. G. T. U. where refreshments of the best kind were served. Near this tent was a larger refreshment tent run by Mr. Lindsay, and busy he was kept with his supply of assistants. The old building was devoted to roots, poles and graine. Here also everything that can be produced in the garden or field had a place, and everything was of the best. Mr. Ryan made a fine display of bristles and brushes. Henry Butler showed a beautiful double set of driving harness, with blankets, collars, bits, buttons and everything connected with harnessing or trotting stables, all of the best workmanship and best manufacture. The foals also showed in the building were well assorted and of many varieties. There were several coops of pigeons and rabbits, while coops of ducks, geese and turkeys displayed the best that was to be seen in these lines. The C.P.R. Manitoba exhibit was very fine, and was made up of grasses, with paintings and sketches illustrative of the country. The flower show made by Miss Rose, was well worthy a visit, many comments being made by the ladies respecting the beauty and the quality of the flowers. Here were many of the best specimens of the best of the kind. The exhibit was well worth a visit, many comments being made by the ladies respecting the beauty and the quality of the flowers.

The ultra-oppositionists who have professed being longing for an opportunity to "get at" Blair and his government will now have an opportunity. But since the election of this session it has been their record during the past three sessions. That record has been one of weakness and incapacity, without any particular desire except unreconciling opposition to government measures.—St. Croix Courier.

The ticket formed to support the government in Charlotte will be found in another column. The gentlemen who form the ticket of this section are all good men and have served the country in a public capacity satisfactory to the people.—St. Andrews Beacon.

Some of the Premier Blair's munificence in a way of battle with it, and his opponents in reading it will find that the coming contest will be no mere dress parade.—St. John Telegraph.

The government can with confidence point to its policy and ask a new mandate at the hands of the people. From the showing of this section it can be perceived evidence support and judging from the increased tally accumulating that realization will be greater than the anticipation.—Moncton Transcript.

From what we can learn from our exchanges the electoral outlook is anything but encouraging to the opposition in the government throughout the province. In the great majority of the counties, the party is in about the same condition as it is in Northumberland, without leaders, organization or candidates. Owing to this the opposition of all good men in each of the large majority of the supporters of the present administration.—Chatham Advance.

No opposition candidates have been declared in York. No good and thoughtful reason can be given why there should be no opposition felt to be in mind that those who are stirring up an opposition feeling are playing into the hands of Dr. Stockton, and are advancing schemes detrimental to the interests of York and of the whole province. As for their platform and they are as dumb as an oyster and not half so savory.

OBITUARY
Deaths in the City and Vicinity.
On Thursday, Oct. 4th, Wellington Merrieth, one of the old and much respected residents of Douglas passed away to his rest the age of seventy-seven.
The seven year old son of G. Fred Fisher died this morning at 8 o'clock. He was recovering from a severe illness when he suffered a relapse. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at four o'clock. It was a bright little fellow and the bereft parents feel the loss deeply. They have the sympathy of all.
The many friends of that estimable lady were pained to learn of the death of Mrs. G. R. Ketchum, at her residence, Ashland, Me., of typhoid fever, on Monday evening. Her remains were brought to her former residence, Upper Woodstock, on Tuesday evening, and were followed by an unusually long procession of sorrowing friends to their last resting place in the parish burial ground on Wednesday morning.
Mrs. Robert Abernethy, of Nashwaak died on Saturday evening at six o'clock. Deceased was a daughter of the late Benjamin Hanson and a sister of Ed. Hanson and Mrs. William Lewis of St. Marys. She was about seventy years of age. Her funeral, which was largely attended took place on Monday at half-past two, the interment being at the C. of B. burying ground, Durham. The Rev. Mr. Parkinson officiated.

PRESS OPINIONS.

No statement of opposition policy has been made public. The only basis on which an estimate of what may be expected from them can be formed is their record during the past three sessions. That record has been one of weakness and incapacity, without any particular desire except unreconciling opposition to government measures.—St. Croix Courier.
