WHERE IS TORONTO ANYWAY? Sir James Lukin Robinson, of the Surrogate Office at Osgoode Hall, has received from a lady in England a letter bearing the following address:

To the Chief Clerk, The Probate Office, Upper Toronto, or Mexico, Canada.

THE POET'S CORNER.

A Corner in Wheat.

An old man sat in a dingy room, And a queer old man was he; He was single in point from his elbow joint To the cap of his awkward knee.

His legs were long and his face was long, And as sad as a face could be, But his eyes were bright with a dangerous light As he hummed with gossamer glee;

"Only a penny a loaf," "Only a penny a loaf," 'Tis only a penny a loaf to the poor, But 'tis millions of dollars to me!"

He bought all the bread in the town one day And the poor man cursed and said; But little he cared how the eaters fared— He was not in a caring vein.

For the golden wheat there was made to eat To him was a thing for gain, So his features then wore a ghastly grin As he hummed a merry strain:

"Only a penny a loaf," "Only a penny a loaf," 'Tis only a penny a loaf to the poor, But 'tis millions of dollars to me!"

The poor man sat at his meagre board, With his wife and children near; Oh, they saw not, I ween, the panton lean, That gazed on their feast with a leer; And they never thought that a guest unsought That writhed of an old man queer.

Stood silent and grim in a corner dim And whispered the charge drear: "Only a penny a loaf, Only a penny a loaf, 'Tis only a penny to you, my dear, And 'tis millions of dollars to me!"

B. B. B. Stood the Test. I tried every known remedy I could think of for rheumatism, without giving me any relief, until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters, which remedy I can highly recommend to all afflicted as I was. Henry Smith, Milverton, Ont.

THE FASHIONS.

A Variety of Dossings that Will Interest the Fair-Sex. Tartan hose for ladies in wool or spun silk appear to be coming into favor for wearing with dark gowns.

This year fashion, which in general favors tall, slight figures, seems more thoughtful of those of her votaries who are gifted with a certain amount of embonpoint.

Some of the newest jerseys have watered silk revers and cuffs, or a width of soft silk coming from beneath the arm on the right side, tapering into a point and fastened at the waist on the left side.

Stripes and pinks of all styles are in vogue, garments falling in long lines, redingotes of sober outline, all tending to give length to the figure, and to conceal or attenuate any excess or stoutness.

A magnificent ball dress is of pale, silvery green satin, with long court train lined with old-rose satin, and trimmed with a bordering of Alaska sables, above which are deep arabesques of silver, gold and white embroidery. The front of the skirt is almost solid with the same embroidery.

The petticoats for this season are very tempting. One in black-striped satin and more had horizontal stripes between the moire, while another had black lace let in, with colored ribbons run through the lace. The damask petticoats are made with full flounces, elaborately embroidered.

The divided muff is a novelty, and derives its principal merit from the fact, as it is neither very useful nor very ornamental, resembling two cuffs, rather at the edge to show a contrasting lining of silk, unmarred and a member of the Masonic Order, which will take charge of the remains, awaiting instructions from the east. Deceased was ill for about a week, but for some time previous was complaining of a pain in the head. He was highly respected by his acquaintances. Mr. H. V. Fairbairn, G. T. R. agent at Point Edward, is a twin brother of the deceased, and his father is Mr. Thomas Fairbairn, of Teeswater, Bruce County.

Very Valuable. "Having used B. B. B. for biliousness and torpid liver, with the very best results I would recommend it to all thus troubled. The medicine is worth its weight in gold. Tillie White, Manitowaning, Ont."

After a housekeeper fully realizes the worth of turpentine in the household she is never willing to be without a supply of it. It gives quick relief to burns; it is an excellent application for corns; it is good for rheumatism or sore throat, and it is the quickest remedy for convulsions or fits. Then it is a sure preventive against moths; by just dropping a trifle in the bottom of drawers, chests and cupboards, it will render the garments secure from injury during the summer. It will keep ants and bugs from closets and store rooms by putting a few drops in the corners and upon the shelves; it is sure destruction to bed-bugs and will effectively drive them away from their haunts if thoroughly applied to the joints of the bedstead in the spring cleaning time, and injures neither furniture nor clothing. A spoonful of it added to a pail of warm water is excellent for cleaning paint. A little in the suds on washing days lightens laundry labour.

GEMS OF THOUGHT.

Persistence is the best school for many virtues. What sunshine is to flowers, smiles are to humanity. Poverty is in want of much, but avarice of everything.

Wit is a merchandise that is sold, but can never be bought. Sow good services; sweet remembrances will grow from them. The winner is he who gives himself to his work, body and soul.

Happiness is like the echo; it answers you, but it does not come. The future destiny of the child is always the work of the mother. He that wrestles with us strengthens our nerves and sharpens our skill.

Great men and geniuses find their true places in times and great events. The reproaches of enemies should quicken us to duty and not keep us from it. Interesting Selections of Value to Teachers and Pupils.

"What if God should place in your hand a diamond, and tell you to inscribe on it a sentence which should be read at the last day, and shown there as an index to your own thoughts and feelings; what care, what caution would you exercise in the selection! Now this is what God has done. He has placed before you the immortal minds of your children, more imperishable than the diamond, on which you are to inscribe every day and every hour, by your instructions, or by your example, something which will remain and be for or against you at the judgment."—Payson.

The grand secret (worth all the others together, and without which all the others are worth nothing and less), for inculcating and teaching virtues and graces, is that a man humbly, and with more and more silent sincerity, have them himself lodged there in the silent depths of his being. They will not fail to shine through and be not only visible, but undetachable in whatever he is led to say or do; and every hour of the day he will unconsciously and conscientiously find good means of teaching them. This present, the rest is very certain to follow. The rest is more of detail, depending on speciality of circumstances which a man's own common sense, if he is in earnest toward his aim, will better and better instruct him in.—Ex.

Their (the teachers') vocation in the country, is more noble than that of the statesman, and demands higher powers, great judgment, and a capacity of comprehending the laws of thought and moral action, and the various springs and motives, by which the child may be roused to the vigorous use of all its faculties.—Channing.

It is a conceded fact that no individual can learn for another; each must learn for himself. Assistance may be given by one person to another in learning, and often should be given. But how? Not by doing his thinking for him, for this is impossible. Not by doing the work or formulating the results for him, for this is vicious; but by using such means as will arouse mental powers of the learner to do the necessary or desired work for himself. This is the true work and the only work of teaching; to arouse conscious mental action and direct it to correct expression.—Col. Parker.

It is suggested by The School Journal that the most important definition just now needed for the forthcoming new dictionary is of the old "education." "We often hear of very successful men in business spoken of as 'uneducated.' Are they? One in mind had a thorough knowledge of men. He could read their characters, and he could read their hearts like a book. His judgment of their aims and investments was excellent. He had aggressiveness, caution, and yet was almost lavish in his outlays. He knew nothing of Greek or Latin, but was well versed in the language ways of business. As a commander of men he was unexcelled; yet he was 'uneducated.' Was he?"

To create in the scholar a patient, modest and obedient action of the whole intellectual nature is a benefit that lasts on in the personal experience, and makes an abiding element in character, opening the soul to all the light of truth. Of two graduates from college, one carries a store of things learned, the luggage of his mind. Another carries the secret of how to learn, which is the better part of wisdom, and faculties set in the order of the Maker's plan. Which will be the master of his place and the master of other men in the light of after years, who can doubt?—Bishop Huntington.

Don't Speculate. Run no risk in buying medicine, but try the great Kidney and Liver regulator, made by Dr. Chase, author of Chase's recipes. Try Chase's Liver Cure for all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Sold by James Wilson, druggist.

"A monument of Shakespeare in Chicago—We would rather do honor to Bacon."

"I would rather be a piece of presidential timber than a part of a cabinet. Somebody once asked Mr. Cobden: 'How is it you repeat the same things over so many times?' Mr. Cobden said: 'Because they are worth saying.'"

Rector's wife, hysterically. "Here's a note from those Wagshaw's! They ask me to play and sing during the evening; because, they say—they want the young and attractive women to assist as waitresses!"

A Recommendation.—Daisy (to her future auntie).—"As you are marrying into our family, I suppose you'll get your babies from Dr. Leddick. He brings all ours, and they are darlings!"

Mias Blasher—Charming weather for winter, Professor Sangroid, Professor Sangroid—Eet makes your warm. I no vore my big coat today. I vore, vat you calls, my pet-coat.

The woman—"I think the women will shortly do all the work now done by men, even to running steam engines." The man—"I think you do well around steam engines. They fire up so quickly."

Here is a sweetly suggestive advertisement in an English newspaper: "Unruly Girls Received, by a Lady of Experience. Advice by letter, 5s, with 'Hints on Management.' Hints, 8d. Birch Rods supplied. Address, etc."

Principal Grant in his speech in Kingston last night again declared for an independent party. He said he could not be claimed by either Grit or Tory, but when he saw a wrong he spoke against it.

Twelve tons of quartz from the Wahpau-patie gold mine, near Orillia, has been sent to Toronto to be crushed and assayed, and upon the result will depend the future of the mine.

Lord Allesbury has begun a suit for divorce from his wife, who before her marriage was Dolly Tester, a ballet-dancer, at the Gaiety theatre and of low origin and character.

The reports of the Minister of Crown Lands and of the Provincial Treasurer on the working of the tavern and shop license law was brought down to the Ontario Legislature yesterday.
