A Pamphlet Concerning Panopepton

Of practical interest and importance to every practitioner will be sent upon request. This pamphlet describes the method of manufacture of PANOPEPTON, its composition and analysis, and the principles upon which it is based, as a comprehensive, adequate and superior food for the sick. It also contains clinical reports of one hundred physicians—these selected simply to illustrate the wide range of usefulness of PANOPEPTON, and the various ways in which it is used for the feeding of the sick.
