September 11, 1936.

Dear Principal Morgan:

I think you may be interested in the enclosed address which I delivered at White Sulphur Springs last month. The audience was thoroughly representative of prominent lawyers from nearly every State in the Union.

I purposely did not give it out to the press, partly because it was not intended to be political and extracts of it might have been used as politics, but more especially, because I drew heavily from President Butler, Frank Cobb and Garret Garrett both for ideas and text, and I felt that, to publish it as mine, might border on plagiarism at quite a few points, although I did give them due credit.

It gave me the greatest pleasure to attend your installation and I sincerely trust that your first year at our great University has been one of pleasure to you. I am sorry that we have not met either in Montreal or New York in the meantime, and I sincerely hope that, when you are next in New York, I can have the pleasure of seeing you.

Faithfully yours,

A.E.Morgan, Esq.,
Principal and Vice-Chancellor,
McGill University,
Montreal, Canada.
