

Ly 11th, 1835.

to Israel, whom
I was parting
s and the fields
ut I am alone ;
my spirit ; and
whether I shall Lord hath been
e written many Christian world.
and the flocks
s one forgotten
r. A commu-
ts have set to
as tho' there
or a " rock of
not one saith
I am as one
or ever to be
o me, to invite

soul, with that
oasting in the
f the unhewn
g hand hath
have remem-
nto him from
and has given
n him, I have
has given.—
in the chris-
non faith as d will of the
greatly, and
en from me,
shall be com-
eth upon the earth. and revealeth his name unto all people. For this I mourn with all diligence, and my soul slumbereth not. Day and night I sigh for his coming : my cheeks are worn with tears, and mine eyes are dim with watching. But the eyes of Judah shall be bright as the diamond stone, and his eye shall see a-far off—I have paid him all, and am free from his blood, in this moment of my life, and the blood of the prophets that is visited upon him.—Days and times will tell of things that are unknown—my soul may meet him by the water course, and my spirit embrace his love.—He is a stranger to me in person ; my acquaintance with him is from the sacred writings, and his present station in life. Could I see his name, I could not know him without an interpreter ; neither am I acquainted with his soul.

The Lord hath planted him in the earth, and no one hath been able to pluck him up by the root. His seed is in the earth, and he is a pillar in the world. I have not cursed him with a curse. He is the Lord's anointed ; and I am free from the sorrows of his name. I have not multiplied his reproaches, nor laid a stumbling stone in his way.

The blessings of the Almighty be upon him, dew of heaven, and the fat of the land.

The earth is his, and the fulness of it ;—he is the Lords, and I am the servant of Jacob's God.

Peace be with all the families of the earth.—Amen.