

it is to be understood that no advance has been made towards the embodying the clauses of the Trinidad Order in the statute-books of some of the colonies. The extent to which this has taken place, it is presumed, will be made public, if papers of the same description as those of the last year should again be laid before Parliament.

THE END