Later on, when the question came up of sending the entire bridge committee to inspect the Plover Mills bridge, Councilors Oaks and Ronald again opposed the action as "an unnecessary and wasteful expenditure of county were heated ones and personalities were frequent. The object of sending a committee to the Plover Mills bridge was to learn the exact shape of work that is being done there by Contractor Samuel Pearson, and the Hamilton Bridge Company. When the contract for the bridge was first let it was agreed that Contractor Pearson, who is putting in the concrete work, should have his share of the task finished by Oct. 15, last year, under penalty of $2 a day. Owing to bad weather, scarcity of labor and the difficulty in retaining the labor after it had been procured, the work was abandoned in November, and no more done until this spring. In the meantime the Hamilton Bridge Company, which had the contract for the iron-work, desired to go ahead cn its portion, but was unable to do so on account of the concrete work being uncompleted, and therefore threatens to sue the county for damages sustained by the delay.

The concensus of opinion expressed the council was that the bridge company was putting up a big bluff, but that in all events it would be Contractor Pearson who suffered, if anybody at all. However, considerable sympathy was expressed for the contractor, and many of the councilors were in favor of not asking for the indemnity of $2 a day, amounting now to $480, and which will possibly run up to $500 before the contract is completed.

Lively Wordy War. When Councilor Oaks opposed the motion to send the entire committee to the work, instead of two or three members, Warden Hodgins, who had vacated the chair in favor of Councilor McEwen, remarked that Mr. Caks' mileage lists perhaps wouldn't stand too close examination.

"Well, if they are charging weight," retorted the other, "your bill cilor Turnbull's $5 50." "Yes, and yours would be $11," re plied the warden quickly. Councilor Sullivan said that inasmue as the county had paid "for giving Engineer Talbot an education" it seemed only proper that he and not a whole regiment should go to Plover Mills and size up the situation. "My experience with large commit tees has always shown that the matter in hand is generally left to one same in this case.

Councilor Oaks said that he had lots against a man like Talbot. The cost council last night on the tuberculosis Christian. of sending a committee would be $50 hospital, and unless the committee and at least, and it was only a "wilful council get together today the matter vaste of money.

After a long discussion,, during which nearly everybody in the council ex pressed his opinion on the matter, it was decided to send the whole com mittee to the tob.

The Tax Rate.

It was moved by Councilor Glass, econded by Councilor Hunter, that the ortion of the finance committee's first report, fixing the rate to be levied on the whole of Middlesex and Middlesex proper be reconsidered, and that it be eferred back to the committee to report. Carried This motion was the sequence of a Strong Appeal-Decide the Question Now.

An audience even larger than that of Wednesday evening, which was a record-breaker, gathered in the Jubilee Rink last night to hear Rev. Dr. Wharton deliver his gospel message. At the same time, the number of those whose hearts were moved by the evangelist's convincing arguments and earnest appeals-as shown by their readiness to rise to their feet in token of their desire to accept Christ as their Saviour-was greater than at any previous meeting.

Practical Christianity. Dr Wharton said that if any Christian should ask him to point out a Bible chapter especially suited for daily perusal, he would unhesitatingly give the fifth chapter of Romans, beginning, "I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God," etc., which he proceeded to read.
