If New Year's eve night-wind blow south,
It betokeneth warmth and growth ;
If west, much muck and fish in the sea ;
If north, much cold and storms there will be ;
If east, the trees will bear much fruit,
If north-east, flee it man and brute.

EPIPHANY—Twelfth Day.

Catgut shrinks in wet weather, and thus the strings of violins and guitars shrink and snap before rain. The old-fashioned weathervane consisted of a man and woman so fixed before a house that by the contraction of the catgut on the approach of wet weather, the woman entered it, while will be found to rise above the mark before rain, and sink below it as the weather becomes fair.

If St. Paul's day (25th January) be fair and clear,

It does betide a happy year ;

But if it chance to snow or rain,

3rd Sunday after Epiphany.

Then will be dear all kinds of grain.

If clouds or mists do dark the skie,

Great store of birds or beasts shall die.

CIRRUS.

downwards, fine weather, wind or drought. If cirrus clouds form during fine weather, with a falling barometer, it is almost sure to rain.

Cirrus Clouds consist of long, slender filaments, either parallel or divergent, which look like locks of hair ("mares tails"). They are generally very high up, sometimes covering the face of the sky with thin transparent gauze. If their under surface be horizontal, and their fibres point upwards, they indicate rain ; if
