

POOR DOCUMENT M C 2 0 3 5

THE EVENING TIMES-STAR, SAINT JOHN, N. B., SATURDAY, MAY 29, 1926

The Evening Times-Star

The Evening Times-Star printed at 25-27 Canterbury street every evening (Sunday excepted) by New Brunswick Publishing Co., Ltd., J. D. McKenna President.

Telephone-Private branch exchange connecting all departments. Main 2417.

Subscription Price—By mail per year, in Canada, $5.00; United States, $6.00; by carrier per year, $4.00.

The Evening Times-Star has the largest circulation of any evening paper in the Maritime Provinces.

Advertising Representatives—New York, Ingraham-Powers, Inc., 230 Madison Ave., Chicago, Ingraham-Powers, Inc., 19 South La Salle Street.

The Audit Bureau of Circulation audits the circulation of The Evening Times-Star.

SAINT JOHN, N. B., MAY 29, 1926.

KEEP AWAKE.

This week-end may be, if the people of Saint John will bestir themselves to make it so, one of the most momentous in the city's history. He Worship the Mayor has published his policy; it is straightforward, fair, easily digested. Very shortly, without a doubt, the machinery will be set in motion to give effect. The fuel is there to start the machine, but as it gathers momentum more and more will be needed.

Go home this Saturday and talk it over with your wife. Call in your friends, both of you, or go out to visit them; draw them into the discussion; make them see, if indeed they do not already understand, that it concerns them, that their active help and support is required. Plan to spread the movement amongst all with whom you will come in contact next week, your associates in work or recreation, your employees, if you have any.

Do your utmost to line up every man and woman and to exact from them a promise to do and to exact from them every local organization, retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers, everyone. Approach the Commissioner of your ward and he will know the extent of real live support he can promise His Worship. If meetings be arranged, attend them. Write to your out-of-town friends; get them to do as you are doing. Point out that the prosperity of Saint John is the prosperity of the Maritimes. Urge them to approach their own aldermen or county councillors, mayors or wardens. Get busy. This is only a local matter in the first place, but it affects every city, town and county in the Atlantic Provinces. We are fully awake now; do not close again.

And this means you.

ENFORCING CIVIC BY-LAWS.

At a recent committee meeting of the Common Council, the Commissioner of Public Safety reported that many persons in the City were illegally storing gasoline for sale contrary to one of our civic by-laws.

As Mayor White pointed out to the Commissioner, where there is a by-law the remedy for dealing with its infraction is the apprehension and conviction of the offender with the consequent imposition of the penalty provided by law.

The course of the Commissioner of Public Safety is quite clear in this instance as it is in every instance where violations of our laws are concerned. But this little incident brings to the fore the whole subject of our civic by-laws.

Through the course of years the City of Saint John has accumulated an unwieldy mass of by-laws, to which additions are constantly being made. Few, if any, ever have been repealed and yet many of these by-laws have become obsolete while many more, so far as their enforcement is concerned, are as dead as Julius Caesar.

We all are agreed that if certain conditions necessitate the passing of a law, such a law should be passed—but once it becomes a law it should be enforced. If changing conditions cause its violation to be no longer a matter of moment then the same and safe course is, not to wink at the violation, but to repeal the law. This is the only way that the respect of a community for the laws that govern the actions of its citizens can be maintained.

This leads us to the suggestion that our City fathers might be well advised to appoint a small commission for the purpose of making a thorough study of our by-laws and then submitting its recommendations to the Council for the repeal of those, the enforcement of which is found to be no longer necessary.

THE RIDDLE OF LONGEVITY.

There are precise rules for many things in life, such as playing bridge, crossing streets safely and operating motor cars, but the rules for reaching a ripe old age differ with each newly discovered centenarian who ventures to expound the reasons why he has been allowed to live.

The latest adviser upon long life is Sigmund Dringer, who has just celebrated his 100th birthday in New York. He attributes his long life to the fact that he has imbibed plenty of alcoholic stimulants and that he has always smoked.

If history repeats itself, next week we shall hear about another centenarian who will testify that abstinence from alcohol and tobacco was responsible for his ability to evade the scythe of the grim reaper.

Probably it is natural that one who thinks he has discovered the elusive elixir should wish to pass on the boon to his fellow-men, but we would suggest that until those who have lived beyond the allotted span can give us a definite programme they refrain from telling us why they are still living.

NATURE'S SWEET RESTORER.

Marshall Pilaudski has overthrown the Government of Poland and captured Warsaw. He chased the President of the Republic out of town and personally supervised the unpleasant details incidental to well and truly shooting his political opponents. And when he was offered the dictatorship he pathetically said that he could "sleep and sleep."

What a great light the pathetic sleepiness of Pilaudski throws on misunderstood history! Julius Caesar, who thrice refused the kingly crown and won the praise of Antony for putting citizenship before ambition, was in reality only sleepy. Wolesey, when he advised Thomas Cromwell to throw away ambition, was telling him, in the language of the times, to take a nap.

How much nicer life would be if all revolutionary leaders and embryo dictators would follow Marshall Pilaudski's technique and defer action until they could "sleep and sleep." The world at large probably would be considerably happier if they, one and all, overruled Rip Van Winkle.

This from the Journal of Commerce of Canada:

Greater Production

Greater production through a thrifty class of immigrant.

Greater production through the improvement of facilities—transportation, tariffs and other laws and regulations.

But more especially, greater production through the increased earning and saving powers of present day Canadians, particularly the rising generation.

Larger Markets

Larger markets through the increased earning and hence buying power of Canadians.

Larger markets by reason of the quality, grading and packing of Canadian products.

And larger markets through a direct appeal to and in the language of the countries with whom Canadians wish to trade.

Not at all a bad slogan.

Odds and Ends

Just Be the Best

If you can't be a pine on the top of a hill,
Be a scrub in the valley—but be
The best little scrub at the side of the hill;
If you can't be a bush, be a bit of the grass;
If you can't be a bush, be a bit of the grass;
Some highway to happier make;
If you can't be a muskie, then just be a bass—
But the liveliest bass in the lake.

We can't all be captains, we've got to be crew,
There's something for all of us here;
There's big work to do and there's lesser to do
And the task we must do is the near.
If you can't be a highway, then just be a trail;
If you can't be a sun in a star;
It isn't by size that you win or you fail—
Be the best of whatever you are.

Explaining a Banking Term.

(Montreal Gazette.)

An old dandy named John Jones, upon leaving Atlanta, Georgia, went to his bank, which was a colored institution, and had his book balanced, which showed a balance of $200.

Landing in Cincinnati, the old dandy issued a cheque on the Atlanta bank for $200 payable to a Cincinnati bank. In a few days the cheque was returned marked "Insufficient funds," whereupon the Cincinnati bank sent an inquiry to the Atlanta bank about the dandy's account and the balance they showed on the pass book, against which no cheques had been issued. The following reply was received:

"Gentlemen, We don't mean that John Jones ain't got sufficient funds, but we mean that our funds are insufficient."

Went After His Girl.

(Sault Star.)

Tommy Cassidy, 25, was walking with his girl, Mary Garbidiulla, on the pier in New York on Sunday afternoon, when she tripped and fell into the water.

Tommy pulled off his coat and called out to the people near at hand: "Folks, I can't swim, but here I go. Do what you can."

After considerable splashing and spluttering Tommy and Mary were both fished out of the water before the breath of life departed.

Tommy is 25, Mary is 22—interesting ages. Mary certainly needs someone to look after her, and next month is June.

Some Birds.

(Tara Leader.)

The wife of a Unitarian minister in West Virginia has been married three times. Her maiden name was "Partridge." Her first husband's name was "Robins." Her second husband's name was "Sparrow," and the present one "Quail." There are now two young "Robins," one "Sparrow" and three "Quails." In the family one grand-father was a "Swan," and another a "Jay," but he is dead and now a "Bird of paradise." They live on "Hawk avenue, Eagleville, Canary Islands," and the fellow who wrote this is a "Tyrone" and a member of the family.

That Would Be Fine.

(Orillia Packet-Times.)

A coal strike in Ontario is impossible, but it would be fine if someone would strike coal in the province.

Just Fun

IF, AS SOME say, we will follow the same vocations in the next world as we do in this, how's the ice man going to make ice?

GERALD: "Drink to me only with thine eyes."
GERALDINE: "Cut out your soft drinks."

There are thousands to tell you it cannot be done,
There are thousands to prophesy failure,
There are thousands to point out to you one by one,
The dangers that wait to assail you.

But just buckle in with a bit of a grin,
Then take off your coat and go to it;
Just start in to sing as you tackle the thing
That "cannot be done" and you'll do it.

A PROFESSIONAL man, who has been bored by pests, has put up a sign, which, he says, does the work. It reads:

BE BRIEF

AS MY WIFE'S BATHING SUIT.

A TOURIST who had stopped at mountaineer's cabin, noticed four holes in door of cabin.

Tourist: "Friend, I do not like to be too inquisitive, but what are the four holes in your door for?"

Mountaineer: "Well, you see I have four cats."

Tourist: "Why wouldn't one good size hole do for all the cats?"

Mountaineer: "Hell, when I say so, I mean SCAT!"

NURSE saves two people from operation," says a patent medicine advertisement. And immediately lost her job at the hospital.

RURAL people are more pleased and serene. There isn't so much chewing gum to step on out there.

AN OWL gets credit for much wisdom because he stays up all night. A man who does the same thing is called a fool.

SPRING SONG

Spring, Spring, glorious Spring,
I got a colt ad everything.
I got a colt ad everything.
Oh, I was a fool!

I got an awful colt in my bet,
Wed id the raid and god all bet,
We wending this poem in my bet,
Oh, I was a fool!

CAPTAIN: How can you say you're a good pilot when you admit you don't know where the sandbars are?

PILOT: I know where they ain't.

WHO'S WHO

IN THE DANG NEAR

GEORGE H. ROBERTS

In the opinion of George H. Roberts, formerly British minister of labor, who handled the transportation strike of 1919, the British general strike is merely a crystallization of Socialistic tendencies which have been growing in the labor ranks and have been becoming more prominent yearly. He is in Toronto at present.

Political associations: Labor ticket (Norwich), 1906-22; Independent ticket, 1922-1923.

Roberts was born at Chedgrave, Norfolk, July 27, 1869; married in 1885 to Anne, daughter of Horace Marshall, Norwich. Was secretary Typographical Association and president Trades Council, Norwich, joined the Independent Labor party in 1896. Member of the Norwich School Board, 1889; a local councillor of the treasury, 1915-16; parliamentary secretary to Board of Trade, 1916-18; minister of labor, 1917-18; food controller, 1918-20; contested Norwich as Unionist, 1923.

Soon After July 1.
(Toronto Globe.)

Among the forthcoming hard-times stories probably will be those about the decline in post office receipts due to the return of penny postage.

FOLEY'S PREPARED FIRECLAY FOR LINING YOUR OWN STOVE

Sold by Hardware Dealers.

Electric Cleaners
Only $45
with attachments
"Electrically at Your Service"
The Webb Electric Co.,
801 GERRAIN STREET,
Phone M. 2152. Res. Phone M. 4094

Sold by Hardware Dealers.

VOLUME!

Dodge Brothers Dealers sold over 160,000 used cars in 1925. Such enormous volume is possible only because the public recognizes Dodge Brothers Dealers as merchants who value the good will of their customers—and who therefore sell Used Cars that are sure to create good will.

THE VICTORY GARAGE & SUPPLY CO., LTD.

ST. JOHN, NEW BRUNSWICK

Show Rooms, 201 Charlotte

Service Station, 92-94 Duke

DODGE BROTHERS DEALERS SELL GOOD USED CARS

Rubbing It In

New Prison Doctor (absent-mindedly): "And whatever you do, don't attempt to go out in this bad weather."
—From Passing Show, London.

POEMS-HOME

"The Rainbow," by William Wordsworth.

WORDSWORTH was so intimate with Nature that his poetry is like a great tree, forever green. His very name is an established portion of the earth he loved—a synonym for all those manifestations of beauty which he caught and transcribed for us, all most clairvoyantly. At his best no poet can outstrip him.

My heart leaps up when I behold
A rainbow in the sky:
So was it when my life began;
So is it now I am a man;
So be it when I shall grow old,
Or let me die.
The Child is father of the Man;
And I could wish my days to be
Bound each to each by natural piety.

THE SPIRIT OF THE TIMES

IN the estimation of most of us there are such restless times as ours—such discontent with things that have been and that are. Youth rejects the philosophy, religion, social customs and morality of its fathers and is unable to decide on what to put in their places. Therefore it is dissatisfied and unhappy.

The middle aged and the old think that the trouble lies in youth and criticize its discontented attitude and think that if it would think as they thought when they were young—or as they think they thought—and accept their code all would be well.

These words of Emerson spoken 85 years ago, might well express the attitude of youth today.

"Old age begins in the nursery, and before the young American is put into jacket and trousers he says, 'I want something which I never saw before,' and 'I wish I was not I.' Is there less oxygen in the atmosphere? What has checked in this age the animal spirit which gave our forefathers their bounding pulse?"

"And truly we shall find much to console us when we consider the tendencies which have been growing in the labor ranks and have been becoming more prominent yearly. He is in Toronto at present.

Political associations: Labor ticket (Norwich), 1906-22; Independent ticket, 1922-1923.

Roberts was born at Chedgrave, Norfolk, July 27, 1869; married in 1885 to Anne, daughter of Horace Marshall, Norwich. Was secretary Typographical Association and president Trades Council, Norwich, joined the Independent Labor party in 1896. Member of the Norwich School Board, 1889; a local councillor of the treasury, 1915-16; parliamentary secretary to Board of Trade, 1916-18; minister of labor, 1917-18; food controller, 1918-20; contested Norwich as Unionist, 1923.

AND what shall our attitude be to these new thoughts—this desire to make the world a better—a more reasonable place—in which to live? We can not do better than to adopt Emerson's attitude on this point. He says: "What is the scholar, what is the man for, but for hospitality to every thought of his time? Have you day, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of today will of course at first, deride what is noble. But you who hold not of today, not of the times, but of the Everlasting, power, properly, friends? You lastingly are to stand for it; and shall be the asylum and patron of every new thought, every unproven opinion, every untried project which proceeds out of goodwill and honest seeking. All the newspapers, all the tongues of