ROMANCE AND TRAGEDY REVEALED IN BOWES-LYON CASE AT INQUEST

came, and was willing to give evidence if it was thought desirable. Later she came into court, but the coroner did not call on her to give evidence.

The Hon. Patrick Bowes-Lyon identified the dead man as his son, who lived with him and was a member of the stock exchange. He was 24.

TVery Agitated."

"I saw him last just before he left the house on Monday evening about 8,50," he said.

I was having dinner alone when he tame, and sat and talked to me. I saked him if he would have dinner with me, but he said "No," adding that he had put off another dinner and was going into the country to see some friends. He was very agitated that fevening. When he was dressing for dinner I went up to his room three times and asked him to come down, saying, "We'll have a bottle of champagne."

He said, "No. I cannot. I must go and see my friends in the country,"

Mr. Bowes-Lyon added that his son was in love with Miss Freda Parsons was my vou could not me and was the dead man was to blame. Mr. Tritton said hed did not mean to sat the dead man was to blame. Mr. Tritton said hed did not mean to sat the dead man was to blame. Mr. Tritton said hed did not mean to sat the dead man was what he had stated.

His heart was broken and that was all. That was the only thing. Last Friday Lady Parsons sent for my son and told him the engagement was to be broken off. He then wrote to Miss Freda Parsons, and the answer lies in the letter in your hands, Mr. Coroner. The thing that broke his heart, no doubt, is the statement, "After all that has happened I do not love you!"

On Monday night I think he made a final effort as a last hope to see if Miss Parsons would see him. Her married sister saw him. That was no good, and I suppose the boy's heart was broken and he was in despair, and this was the end.

Mr. Raiph Leslie Tritton of 31 Rutland-gate, South Kensington, said Mr. Mr. Bowes-Lyon was an intimate friend of his and had confided his personal trouble to him.

He came up to my room on Saturday inght and we played tenfits all day on Sunday, and he was in the best of moods then. He motored me down in his car to my country home on Sunday. He had been upset, but practically gave up talking about it directly we had started on our journey.

Mr. Tritton went on to say that back in London on Monday evening he received a telephone call from Mr. Bowes-Lyon between eight and nine o'clock.

His heart was broken and that was booken and tool him the engagement was to be broken in Mrs. Duncan Stevenson.

Beffect In France.

Paris, Aug. 4.—President Harding's death is taken in France as an event of the first importance. It even has placed the grave political crisis which may lead to an end of the entente in the background for the time being. The President of the Republic and the Premier transmitted expressions of sympathy to Mrs. Harding and to the U. S., and other officials and public bodies, like the Paris Municipal Council, did the same. In the sympathetic messages there was evidenced a realization that France has lost a true friend.
