the Attorney-General's department regarding the extradition of fugitives from justice who escape to the United States side must strike every law-abiding peraffords a glorious opportunity for the confidence artists to operate here with the utmost abandon born of the knowledge that once out of British territory they are safe forever. Since the Times first placed the peculiar conditions before the public there has been much dissatisfaction expressed that some arrangement has not been made by which the difficulty can be bridged. The Attorneyit is capable. If a man accused of a serious crime were to escape from Victoria to New York, for instance, it would cost a large sum to bring him back. Were he to put up a fight, with financial resources behind him, the outlay involved in his extradition would be enormous. Should this expense be borne by the city, or by the provincial government, which has charge of the administration of instice in this province? The common-sense view is that the governmen should stand for it.

Mayor Barnard was approached on the subject by a Times representative to-day and firmly declined to admit that "I cannot understand the responsibility for extradition proceedings rested upon the municipality. When Coll was taken in charge at Port Angeles upon instructions from Victoria, he expressed his intention of fighting ex-
