On personal as well as busin ess grounds we are sorry to part with Mr. Carman. while we share in what we know is the general feeling of the community-one of regret—over the departure from our midst of two promising young men.

WRECKED. -On Monday the 23rd inst., Mr. David McIntosh loaded Capt. Duggie's boat of 13 tons with 103 quintals of ood fish at St. Mary's, Shippegan Island, for Mr. Snowball at Chatham. On the same day about 5 p. m. Capt. Duggie tried to get through Shippegan Gully to lie over night in the harbor on account of the heavy N. E. roll, but the tide was going out and the wind was against him, so that the boat grounded on the bar, and eventually went to pieces. Fortunately Messrs Chas. LeSeelleur and John Foreuell of Messrs. Fruing & Co's, establishment wer able to go out in their flats and save 41 ewts., out of 103 quintals of fish, for which Mr. McIntosh expresses his warmest thanks. The loss of the cargo of fish is estimated at $248, besides a trunk of SUDDEN DEATH .- On Saturday morning last Mr. Samual R. Jardine, of Napan, drove to town and stopping in front of Mr. Roger Flanagan's store, got out of his waggon, carried some butter in, and laid it on counter. which we willingly add to the above. LITTLE JIMMIE. DROWNED SEPTEMBER 27th, 1878. Tired little hands now folded,

The river's damp upon them still, At rest the brave heart, e'er upholded By the braver boyish will. Little feet, alsa! grown weary,
Tho so young, with life's hard fight;
Little face that erst so cheery,
Now so solemn, still and white.

Little life, so quickly ended, Ere the promise of the morn Could, with manhood's vigor blended, Of the future years be born.

Little hopes, so early blighted, All their longings who may know; Or what goal the vision sighted. (Youthful dreams are never slow.) Little joys, in one forever, Little heart-throbs, stilled for aye;

Little cares, alas! now over. Little crosses laid away. Ah, "God guard thee little Jimmie,"
Might have been thy mother's prayer

Left her loving, anxious care. In thy boyhood's brave young daring, For the work which men must do; Never daunted, never caring, So thy labor brought its due.

Alone, beside the dark'ning river! With none to help thee, none to save Thy voice hush'd in the great forever, Whose sombre portals are the grave.

Heaven's ways are surely hidden, And its blessings oft seem far: And its blessings oft seem far; But we have His promise given Whose care these little children are.

Close the eye-lids-Ah! no weeping-Fold the little hands to rest;
The bright new day wee Jim keeping, In that world where all is blest.

and deranged all the world over, a steady development of new, or hitherto insignificant, articles of export has taken place. The exportation of live stock has risen in four or five years from nothing to over three millions of dollars a year; the fish export has increased during the same time by over a million of dollars; and the production and exportation of phosphates now constitute an extensive and valuable WANTED trade. But not the least marvellous is the growth of our commerce in dairy produce. Ten years ago we exported some half a nillion dollars worth of cheese, whlle last
