HAPPY FUNCTION AT NEWCASTLE,

Former Resident Presents a Basin for Park Fountain-Speeches and Music at Presentation.

Newcastle, Aug. 21.—(Special)—There was a grand time here tonight, Newcastle was out in her best, the occasion being the presentation of a basin to the fountain, the latter being a gift to the town some years ago by Mr. Thos. Russell. The fountain occupies the centre of the park and Mr. D. R. C. Brown, contributed the basin, which is a most substantial piece of work. Mayor Morrison presided at the meeting, which was held in the park, at 7 o'clock. Mr. George Brown, whose son is the donor, made the presentation speech. He said:

Mr. Mayor and guttemen of the aldermanic board of the town of Newcastle:

I have great pleasure in presenting to you, as the proper constituent authorities and representatives of the people of this town, this basin, which surrounds this fountain, a gift from my son, David R. C. Brown, now a citizen of Aspen, Color—ado, but a native of this place. It was a voluntary contribution unsolicited by any one, and was made by him in grateful remembrance of the happy days he spent in the park in his youth, and out of love for his native town.

May you and your successors in office preserve this, the people's resort, as free to all—old and young—as the waters which supply the fountain and fill its basin.

Let the children come here for pleasure, the invalid for health, and all for happiness, is the heartfelt wish of the donor.

The mayor accepted the gift in an eloquent address. Mr Thos. Russell was called on and spoke briefly, and addresses were also made by Alderman Hennessy, Rev. Messrs. Cuthbert and Brown and others. The park was beautifully illuminated and the Orange Band discoursed excellent music.

The estimated capacity of the basin is 4,000 gallons.

New York, Aug. 21—A man named Schmal went to the Presbyterian Hospital today and asked to see the body of Annie Bossick, who died as the result, it is alleged, of a criminal operation. He was shown the body, and drawing a revolver shot himself dead.

Investigation tends to show that Schmal, all the time he was making love to Miss Bossick, was taking her wages and spending them to support his wife and children, the girl not knowing he was married.

When a woman is prepared to preach, she will preach, and neither conference nor presbytery can hinder her. When a woman is prepared to move the kind of the conference of the is prepared to move in highest com mercial spheres, she will have great want woman to understand that heart and brain can overflow any barrier that politicians may set up and that nothing can keep her back or keep her down but the question of capacity.

I know there are women of most undesirable nature who wander up and down the country, having no homes of their own or forsaking their own homes, talking about their rights, and we know very well that they themselves are fit neither to vote nor fit to keep house. Their mission seems to be to humiliate the two sexes at the thought of what any one of us might become. No one would want to live under the laws that such women would enact, or to have cast upon society the children that such women would raise. But I will show you that the best rights that woman can own she already has in her possession; that her position in this country at this time is not one of commiseration, but one of congratulation; that the have never yet been appreciated; that she sits to-day on a throne so high that all the thrones of earth piled on top of each other would not piled on top of each other would not make for her a footstool. Here is the platform on which she stands. Away down below it are the ballot box and the congressional assemblage and the legislative hall.

Woman always has voted and always will vote. Our great-grandfathers thought they were by their votes putting Washington into the presidential chair. No. His mother, by the principles she taught him and by the habits she inculcated, made him president. It was a Chrismade him president. It was a Christian mother's hand dropping the ballot when Lord Bacon wrote, and Newton philosophized, and Alfred the Great governed, and Jonathan Edwards thundered of judg-ment to come. How many men there have been in high political station who would have been insufficient to stand the test to which their moral principle was put had it not been for a wife's Fredericton Business College, right and a wife's prayer that sounded louder than the clamor of partisanship! Why, my friends, the right of suffrage, as we men exercise it, seems to be a feeble thing. You, a Christian man, come up to the ballot

Sox, and you drop your vote. Right after you comes a libertine or a sot, the offscouring of the street, and the discouring of the street, and the teracts yours. But if in the quiet of home life a daughter by her industrian demeanor, a wife by her industry, a mother by her faithfulness, casts a vote in the right direction, then nothing can resist it, and the influence of that vote will throb the determines.

Sox, and you drop your vote. Right through a frivolous and dissipated life, to temporal and eternal destruction. On, woman, with the lightning of your soul strike dead at your feet all these allurements to dissipation and to fashion. Your immortal soul cannot be fed upon such garbage. God calls you up to empire and dominion. Will you have it? Oh, give to God your heart, give to God all your best energies, give to God all your culture, give to God all your through the eternities.

My chief anxiety, then, is not that woman have other rights accorded her, but that she, by the grace of A Ringing Talmagian Declaration—and your cheerfulness of demeanor gild it with splendors such as an upholsterer's hand never yet kindled.

There are abodes in the city—humble, two stories, four plain, unpapered rooms; undesirable neighborhood, and yet there is a man here distant land—not Persia, although more than oriental luxuriance crowned the cities; nor the tropics, although more than surrender it. Why? It is home. Whenever he thinks of it he sees angels of God hovering around it. The ladders of heaven are let down to this house. Over the child's rough crib there are the chantings of angels, as those that sounded over Bethlehem. It is home. These children may come up after awhile, and they may win high position, and they may have an affuent residence, but they will not until their dying day forget that humble roof under which their father rested and their mother sang and their sisters played. Oh, if you would gather up all tender memories, all the lights and shades of the heart, all banquetings and reunions, all filial, fraternal, paternal and conjugul affections, and you had only just four letters to 'spell out that height and depth and length and breath and magnitude, and stepthy of manning, you would, with streaming eyes and trembling voice' and agitated hand, write it out in these four ity-wing capitals, M-O-M-D.

What right does woman want that is grander than to be queen in such a realm? Why, the eagles of heaven cannot fly across that dominion. Horses, panting and with lathered Horses, panting and with lathered flanks, are not swift enough to run to the outpost of that realm. They say that the sun never sets upon the English Empire, but I have to tell you that on this realm of woman's influence eternity never marks. man's influence eternity never marks any bound. Isabella fled from the Spanish throne pursued by the nation's anathema, but she who is a queen in a home will never lose her throne, and death itself will only be the annexation of heavenly princiest idea of a queen, you do not think of Catherine of Russia, or of Anne of England, or Maria Theresa of Austria, but when you want to get your grandest idea of a queen you think of the plain woman who sat opposite your father at the table, or walked with him arm in arm down life's pathway, sometimes to the thanksgiving banquet, sometimes to the grave, but always together— soothing your petty griefs, correct-ing your childish waywardness, join-ing in your infantile sports, listening to your evening prayers, toiling for you with needle, or at the spinning wheel, and on cold nights wrapping you up snug and warm. And then at last, on that day when she law in the heat room dying and you lay in the back room dying, and you saw her take those thin hands with which she toiled for you so long and put them together in a dying prayer that commended you to God, whom she had taught you to trust-oh, she was the queen! The chariots of God came down to fetch her, and as she went in all heaven rose up.

You cannot think of her now without a rush of tenderness that stirs the deep foundations of your soul, and you feel as much a child again as when you cried on her lap, and if you could bring her back again to speak just once more your name as tenderly as she used to speak it you would be willing to throw your self on the ground and kiss the sod that covers her, crying, "Mother, mother!" Ah, she was the queen she was the queen.

Now, can you tell me how many thousand miles a woman like that would have to travel down before she got to the ballot box?
