C. P. R. MADE RECORD RUN TO MONTREAL

Overseas Limited Covered Distance in 10 Hours, 47 Minutes--Unforeseen Delays Told Against Winter Port, But C. P. R. Satisfied St. John's Superiority Will Be Proved.

The C. P. R. Overseas Limited, with the China mail, arrived in Montreal at 5.10 a. m. Saturday, Atlantic Standard time, having made the run from West St. John in 10 hours and 47 minutes. The British mail, which went by the I. C. R. from Halifax, arrived at 8.25 p. m. Saturday, giving an apparent advantage of eight hours and forty-five minutes to the Halifax route. However, the detention to the Empress of Ireland, due to the call at Halifax, and which is estimated at about seven hours, in taking her consideration, the time in favor of the rival port is reduced to one hour and forty-five minutes. As a first experiment the C. P. R. is said to be well satisfied with the result, as for several reasons the conditions were unfavorable to the winter port. In the first place the Empress averaged only 10 knots on the trip from Halifax owing to exceptionally heavy weather. Her running time from port to port was 18 hours 23 minutes, whereas under favorable conditions Capt. Foster expects to be able to make St. John in fourteen hours. Should the big ship, however, make the voyage in sixteen hours the difference in favor of Halifax would in all probability be wiped out.

In addition to this feature there was considerable delay in bringing the Empress to her berth on Friday owing to a schooner occupying part of her allotted space. A prominent C. P. R. official speaking of the matter on Saturday, said that the delay was in one way and another, nearly an hour of valuable time was lost. One of the lines broke in checking the way on the steamer, the result being the baggage was delayed owing to the disarrangement of their plans, and the first class passengers were also prevented for a considerable time from landing. "I think," he added, "that the company will take very good care that such a thing does not happen again."

Ald. McDougall, chairman of the board of works, in referring to the incident on Saturday, said that personally he would not have had it occur for a good deal of money. The council had allotted her the use of the C. P. R. and they were entitled to use them when they wanted them. The matter, however, rested with the harbor master, who, he understood, had been of opinion that the Empress would have plenty of room.

On Dec. 14 the Empress of Ireland is to leave St. John with fifteen thousand tons of goods, in reference to the merits of the two routes will be repeated, only in the reverse order, as the rail journey from Montreal will be by sea trip. The margin of difference has been so small in the first experiment that there is every reason to hope St. John will be able to hold its own in the winter. The matter is being followed up by the company, and it is expected that the mails can be most expeditiously handled.

OTTAWA DEBATE OPENS LIVELY

Laurier and Borden Cross Swords Over Shelburne Election

Opposition Leader Charged Fielding With Appointing Government Employees as Election Agents--Premier Tells House That He Has Asked Hyman to Reconsider His Intention to Resign Cabinet Office, But Approves His Resigning Seat.

Ottawa, Nov. 23--As soon as the house met today, Mr. Borden asked as to whether or not the resignation of Mr. Hyman, not being in due form, was effective. Although Mr. Borden knew different, he contended that the minister of finance deliberately had appointed government officials as his agents when Mr. Fielding by the hundred in blank form and he did not know to whom they had been given.

Mr. Speaker replied that the resignation not being submitted in proper form, was not effective.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated that Mr. Hyman had offered his resignation of the portfolio of public works but he asked him to reconsider the matter and therefore it was not accepted.

Mr. Laik, of Qu'Appelle, read a despatch from Montreal in which the premier of Saskatchewan complained of a scarcity of coal in the Canadian Northwest. Mr. Laik endorsed this and said that if vigorous efforts were not made there would be a national calamity.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that the government was alive to the situation and had sent Mackenzie King to the west to endeavor to secure a settlement of the strike.

In answer to Mr. Borden, Mr. Fielding said that the public accounts had been distributed and the auditor general's report would very soon be ready.

Mr. Pardee (West Lambton), in moving the address in reply to the speech from the throne made an exceedingly forcible, well worded and appropriate address. He did not follow the well worn path of taking the speech paragraph by paragraph but summed up the whole matter under one or two different heads, making a very effective deliverance. First, touching upon the prosperity of the country he said this was due greatly to the wise, prudent and honest expenditure on the part of the government. The expenditure was $3 94 per cent greater than in 1903, but business was greater all over Canada. There was more money coming in now than then. Trade had increased enormously, 100 1-2 per cent over 1905, revenue 100 1-2 per cent and tonnage by railways 130 per cent. The manner in which the money was expended redounded to the credit of Canada.

In respect to the tariff Mr. Pardee said that the revision was to be a compromise between the demands of the manufacturers and the agriculturists. His own opinion was that as agriculture was the backbone of the country his views were strongly with the farmers.

As to electoral corruption there ought to be an honest expression of the people at the polls. The members on both sides should not, not only by legislation but by precept, an example that there was no interference with permitting the people giving an honest vote. It was a question whether this could be done by legislation without education.

Mr. Pardee concluded with the hope that Sir Wilfrid Laurier might be spared long to proceed with the programme that he had been successfully carrying out for the past ten years.

Joseph Deane, of St. John and Terrebonne, seconded the address, speaking in French.

R. L. Borden had a bundle of newspaper clippings in front of him when he rose to reply and quoted them somewhat extensively. To show that there was extravagance he read from the remarks of head for the police station before the Canadian Club in Toronto, Mr. Courtney, who had served under many premiers, said that there was excessive expenditure on the part of the present administration. That was a warning to the people of Canada.

The leader of the opposition denied that he had used unfair criticism in regard to Mr. Fielding and the Shelburne election. He accused Mr. Farrell, speaker of the Nova Scotia legislature, of having turned back when the trial of the protest was on, and having speedily recovered after it was over. Mr. Farrell had left for his health to the United States, but was back at work as soon as the trial closed.

Mr. Borden said that Mr. Fielding had appointed two government officials to act as agents during the election. From this Sir Wilfrid Laurier had inspired the lieutenant governor of Saskatchewan to send for Scott instead of Haultain.

He touched upon some land transactions and wanted to know why the vacant judgship on the Supreme Court bench of Nova Scotia was not filled when there were able men like the member for Colchester, the attorney general of Nova Scotia and others to fill it.

After touching upon the Buckingham riots he concluded by hoping that bribery and corruption would be eliminated from election contests in Canada.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier paid a high compliment to the mover and second of the address. The member for West Lambton had established his reputation upon the floor of parliament long since, and the vigor of his expressions shows what may be expected of him and of what stuff he is made.

The premier briefly reviewed trade conditions in Canada, showing the enormous growth of the foreign trade of the dominion. In that respect we are ahead of the great American republic.

When Mr. Borden quoted Mr. Courtney as stating that the expenditure was excessive it seemed that Mr. Foster felt somewhat uneasy in his seat as he recollected the struggle with his old deputy over the big deficits which the member for North Toronto piled up at the head of the finance department. In the old days $40,000,000 might be an extravagant sum to expend while $70,000,000 might not be extravagant today. It all depends upon the ability of the people to bear the expenditure. Mr. Foster's ideas were of the Mowbray type. We are living in happier days now.

The leader of the opposition said there were no public works to show for the large expenditure. If any one looked around they would see the construction of a transcontinental railway from ocean to ocean, as well as other railways and wharves, light houses, post offices, public buildings for the benefit of the tillers of the soil.

In reference to the charge that Mr. Fielding had appointed government officials as his agents, it was not correct that parliament signed the power of attorney by the hundred in blank form and he did not know to whom they had been given. Although Mr. Borden knew different, he contended that the minister of finance deliberately had appointed government officials as his agents when Mr. Fielding by the hundred in blank form and he did not know to whom they had been given.
