

Plastic Surgery in Canada

He slices ... he scars! Tonight's the long awaited match between Hack DeNad, a third year med student and Dr. Genasher, a University Hospital prof. It's been a long season and some say tonight will be the climactic point in the plastic surgery season.

Christmas is the time for giving and man on man, what better to give someone than a new breast. Or bigger ones. Or a straight nose and no annoying crowsfeet.

Hot damn! Wouldn't life be better without stretchmarks?

Well hold on, all you men out there, don't despair. Hack DeNad or Dr. Genasher will be helping out a number of your sex, too, during tonight's match.

For instance, how about a slimming, trimming stomach bypass and tummy tuck? Why not a penis stiffener? By golly, you'll always be someone to stand up to attention.

But all jests aside, we must return to the seriousness of tonight's matchup. DeNad, not known for finesse, or a sharp blade, can speed cut with the best.

On the other hand, Genasher doesn't have real speed, but he is a precision man. Genasher can remodel an 80-year-old leper into a lithe form ready for the pages of Vogue!

Who'll win, only the final score will tell. Remember each blade-jockey gets points for quantity, difficulty and minus markers for excessive blood loss.

The referee signals ... and they're off. DeNad attempts a face reconstruct, not bad, his patient was in an acid tank accident, but hold on, that old cadger Genasher is pulling ahead — quite literally, he's grafting a new brain onto a city alderman. High degree of difficulty there, that skull is pretty tough.

DeNad has finished a breast augmentation and it seems, just a minute, yes he's transplanted a fine head of hair and chest fuzz in less than Genasher's 4:15 record.

Genasher's behind and will have to try something big. Oh my, he's being ambitious here, if it works Genasher will have the title sewn up.

Genasher is reconstructing an entire human from the scrap bin. Oh, no ... ugh ... well, I guess he won, but what a price to pay! He's fabricated a replica of Peter Lougheed.

Genasher's got it, though. Hack DeNad just got out bladed by the old man of the marble slab, Dr. Genasher. Still I've got to question the ethics behind his victory.

Also, it's worthwhile to note the Lougheed replica showed few signs of intelligence or bowel control. See you next year, folks.

DeNad brandishes blade at winner Genasher, who proudly shows his winning reconstruction.

Bears blitz

In a surprise move Athletic Director Eddie Zemaer has axed football coach Jim Donlevy. In an effort to boost the U of A's success, Zemaer has recruited famed ex-Ohio state football philosopher Woody Hayes. Zemaer says "Hayes doesn't compromise and neither do we."

Zemaer cites Donlevy being archaic in football planning. "The fans want violence, they want gore," says Zemaer, adding, "Who wants to see well-executed plays when they can see more violence on Sesame Street?"

"Students would rather see a severed limb than a pass completion, I mean, that's the only thing that'll get 'em really roaring." Zemaer goes on to explain.

He proves that gimmicks pack fans in to events, commenting "Look at Brian Heaney. Attendance at basketball games has doubled since he introduced the flaming basketball. By golly,

New look Bears ready to assert true superiority over inferior Eastern hordes.

there's no dilly-dallying with that sphere. No ball hogging either. Improves team spirit. Everyone can visit the burn clinic together."

In an exclusive interview, the Getaway tracked down Hayes in the midst of packing for the move to Edmonton.

First, we questioned Hayes on his training equipment's unusual nature. Hayes responded, "Football breeds character, and to have character you need pain. That's why I use the rack. The whips, well they're for show, you know to show the alumni I'm serious. But the hot poker, ah, now that's different. I'll just say this, no one on my team has annoying pinworms."

Hayes has other innovative training strategies. "I believe in the superior strain, the master ballplayer," he says. "He's big, well-coordinated and obeys to the letter. He makes those troublesome academics look like dirt. They should be sent to football camps for use as tackling dummies."

Next season the new look Bears should find some Lebensraum in the West conference.

ALL UNIVERSITY
FACULTY STAFF & STUDENTS
1/2 PRICE MEMBERSHIPS

at

ORONATION PARK
INDOOR TENNIS CLUB

"BUY SOMETHING DIFFERENT
THIS YEAR!"

Gift Certificates available for:

- Memberships (1/2 price)
- Lessons & Other Club Programs
- Court Time
- Equipment

PHONE: 454-3281