CLIPPED TO PLEASE.

It is easier to "keep up" with your work than to "catch up" when once you have fallen behind.

"Do the bees give honey twice a day, like the cows?" asked a small city girl on her first visit to the country. Known Women.

A witty reply is never so charming as when directed by love. Was there ver a more exquisite bon mot than that of Lydia Maria Child? When her husband said he wished that he were as rich as Croesus, in order that he might be able to give her a life of ease, she laughingly replied

"You are Croesus; you're king of Lvdia!"

Rachel, the actress, made some very pretty speeches. A young girl of 17, at the dawn of her brilliant career, she was introduced to Chateaubriand, says the Saturday Evening Post. The venerable poet said to her, in a melan-

"How sad it is to think, mademoiselle, that such as you should be born as we are about to die!" "Sir," she replied, "there are some

Over Confidence.

It was at Manila, a day or two before the fomous colloquy between Admiral von Diedericks and the British captain of the cruiser Immortalite, in Louis Quatorze, such a "cataract of which the former asked what attitude the latter would assume in case trouble arose between the Germans and the Americans, Chichester replying that information on that point could best be obtained from Dewey. On this occasion Dewey was dining with Chichester, and over the nuts and wine they got swapping stories. The host expressed his admiration of the confiience of victory exhibited by the Yankee sailors, and his guest replied that there might be too much confidence in one's ability to win a fight. The Englishman did not see how that could be, and Dewey proceeded to illustrate his remark with a little anecdote. Said

"An old friend of my grandfather's up in Vermont, lent some help to his that long after they are cured of their the carelessness or bad manners of country's cause in the war of 1812 by fitting out a fine privateer. He took command of her himself, having had some experience in sailoring, and called her the New Jerusalem. She was a smart little barkentine, and mounted 6 12-pounders and a 16-pound pivot gun forward. In the course of the first voyage she took two or three prizes of no great value, and two months or so elapsed before she got a whack at something really worth cap-

"It was on a foggy morning, in the region of the tropics, the wind having died down to a mere catspaw, that she sighted the royals and gallant stuns'ls of a huge merchantman carrying the British flag. It was a spectacle to nake any piratical person's mouth water. The privateer, being to windward. The privateer, being to windward, rept up to the prey, herself unobserved in the mist, and presently hove to within half a cable's length of her.

'Heave to, or I'll sink you,' yelled my grandfather's friend, thinking gloatingly of the silks and laces, with who knows what other spoil, he was going to take back to Vermont.

"There was no reply, and just then a puff of wind blew away some of the fog, revealing instead of a merchantman, a full-fledged line-of-battle ship with rows of frowning ports.

with rows of frowning ports.

"I was about to say,' shouted the commander of the privater, 'that, while inviting you to surrender, in case you don't want to do so. Iwill.'

"And be did," said Dewey "which will serve to illustrate my meaning when I say that too much confidence in warfare is not always a good thing. Your very good health, Chichester.'

Poetry vs. Prose. They were sitting on the front porch after dinner, enjoying the evening breeze. Gazing at the canopy of heaven thickly studied with glittering stars, Mr. Pondering exclaimed:

"How utterly incomprehensible is the vastness of nature! Each glittering orb we now behold is a world of great er magnitude than our own. How wonderful are the eternal laws which hold this universe of worlds in their unchanging orbits, and—"

"Yes," interrupted Mrs. Pondering, suddenly giving voice to her train of thought, "and the man didn't leave us half enough ice to-day, and I'm sure the beefsteak will spoil before morn-ing. Did you order those mackers ing. Did you order those mackerel ow?"-Chicago News.

"You identify these goods as your property, do you?" asked the magistrate.

"Yes, your honor," replied the merchant. Impressively, "I do. I don't mind the loss of the goods, your honor, but I want to see that wretch punished for his simplicity. At the price at which I am seeking those articles he could have bought them cheaper than he could steal them!"—Chicago Tribune

Mrs. Lily Heckert, of Bartlesville, Cherokee Nat., Ind. Ty., writes:

Dr. Pierce's medicines cure you in the privacy of your home, and Mrs. Heckert's case is only one of thousands that have been cured after the doctors failed.

STOMACH LAUNDRY

Physicians' Offices of recent years have Become One.

Patients Swallow a Flexible Rubbe Tube and they Like it so well that the Doctors have hard Work to Get Rid of Them.

Within recent years those physicians who have made a specialty of diseases of the stomach have become convinced that the only satisfactory method of treating a great variety of stomach troubles is by washing out the stomach. This little performance is carrled out by means of a flexible soft rubber tube, swallowed by the patient At the other end of the tube is a rubber funnel, and when the stomach tube has reached the stomach warm water or some medicated fluid is neur ed in, and the stomach is subjected a thorough cleaning.

Disagreeable indeed the process is at first. Indeed, for the first few times of the introduction of the tube the patient has often to be held down forcibly to his seat. Then, curious to state, the dyspeptic gets used to the stomach tube and even begins to like it. The cranks express such a longing for it trouble they go on using the stomach pump once, twice or even three times a day. They haunt the physician's office and become his bugbear during his office hours. Then finally, when the medical man puts his foot down and flatly refuses to pass the tube any more, they procure a stomach pump for themselves and use it before a looking glass.
