ON TOP AGAIN

For the past week Ald. Archie Mc-Coig has been wearing a very idoleful expression on his face. Some of his friends whispered that the reason was he was given the worst defeat in curling that was ever given in the Chatham rink this year. To a man of Archie's calibre who is always looking to be on top this would no doubt he a sad and telling blow. The clouds have cleared away, however, and once more Archie wears the mile that won't come off. The reason for the sudden change is also brought about through curling. For some time it has been whispered around the Garner House that champion curlers of the city were to be found at this popular hotel. Greatest among these were the famius James Fleming and the matchless Chaplin. It is said that these two did most of the talking and longed for an opportunity to show what two capable curlers could do.

show what two capable curlers could do.

These stories came to the ears of Archie McCo'g, who still had the idea that there was a little curling, left in h m, and forthwith the lgame was arranged. Suffice to say that after the game Messrs-Chaplin and Fleming were not seen at their usual haunts, but Archie and Gyorge-Fielder took good care that none of their friends were long uniformed as to the result. It is said the score landed 12 to 0.

Of course the ice was heavy and considerable strong sweeping was required, and under these conditions it could not be expected that artists would be able to play against marvellous good luck—at least that is the way Messrs. Fleming and Chaplin explain it. The players were: Wainers—Messrs. F. Judson, D. A. Hutchison, Geo. Fielder and A. B. McCoig.

Losers—Messrs. James Oldershay.

Losers Messrs. James Oldershaw. John Waddell, James Fleming and Chaplin.

...... LETTER BOX

To the Editor of The Planet :

To the Editor of The Planet:

Sir,—Another subject which the citizens are becoming interested in, and one in which the Board of Health has ample opportunity for work, is the manner in which a large sportion of plumbing and ventilating is being done in this city.

All new buildings which are being constructed, and a majority of the older ones, which are being fitted up with all modern conveniences, but, sorry to say, apparently the main object, ventilation, has been overlooked.

As it is now, the plumber does his work according to the price the proprietor is willing to pay, as the city has no rules that compel him to finish the job in a sanitary way.

All will agree with me in saying that sewer gas is a breeder of disease germs, and when there is no way provided for the sewer gas. The citizen thinks if he has a krap under each plumbing fixture, he is sate, but he is not, as all traps are subject to sphonage or air pressure unless they are ventilated.

In the book of rules, regulating plumbing and house drainage in one of our neighboring cities, rule No. 7 says;

"Traps must be protected from subhardire or air negssure; and the of odis neighboring cities, rule No. 7 says;

"Traps must be protected from siphonage or air pressure; and the waste pipe leading from them ventilated by a special air pipe in no case less than two inches in diameter for water closets, which must be connected beneath the floor, as near trap as possible (where top closet is ax feet or less from soil stack they need not be vented) and not less than one and one-half inches for other traps. All vent pipes must be either of cast from galvanized wrought iron, or lead pipe, and these pipes must extend at least two feet above the roof, or fliey may be branched into a soil pipe not less than three feet above the highest fixture."

than three feet above the highest fixture."

Can this city's plumbing stand a sm'lar test?

My attention was called to the manner in which the work is being done over one of the deading dry goods stores, where the closet is about the feet away from the soil pipe stack, and between the stack and closet two two-inch pranches are taken the for sink.

Now any citzen can misswer this question. What w'll happen to the water in the traps under the sink and wash stand when the closet is flushed?

flushed?
Naturally the water is a phoned from them, and sewer gas is ullowed to pass through the teap ento the to pass through the temp sate the room.

This is one example how dieases visit our homes. In other cities they have set rules regulating plumbing and house draining, and an inspector to see that they are followed.

Just one stadement which can be easily proven to show what our city is in darkness is this: There are not one-tenth of the plumbling jobs provided with a fresh sair injet distanced to the sewer pipe, and what ventilating that is done is done with a diminished size of black from pipe or something cheaper, which is a triffe better than nothing.

Trusting that the city officials will give this a thought, and thanking you for your valuable space, I remain.

Yours truly, . C. R. BOWERS.

A HUNTING TALE

Of all the hunting stories which have been going the rounds lately. James Corbett, who manipulates the steam heating plant at the Court' House, tells the one that caps the climax. Mr. Corbett tells this story for a real true incident:

"Last fail," said he to a Planet reporter, "I was engineering in New Ontario for a dredging company. The head engineer was talking to me one day and saying what an excellent hunter he was, so we decided to go hunting together and come to some decision as to who was the better shot. He had a double barrelled gun while mene was a single one.

"We had not gone far before I was left behind. The chief engineer was a tall fellow and outwalked me. I sat down to rest and fell asleep. I woke up soon afterwards and saw directly in front of me a large rattlesmake coming towards me. Directly behind him was a fine large bear and to my right I noticed a splendid deer. I tried to shoot, but the gun exploded, and, believe me, the charge killed the rattlesmake, a piece of the barrel struck the bear between the eyes and killed him, and the lock flew to one side and killed the deer. Seven wild turkeys fell down out of the tree under which I was sitting. The kick from the gun sent me backwards and I killed five partridge and three rabbits and"—

Well then Mr. Corb-tt woke out of his dream and found the night dark, the ground' covered with dew, and himself stiff and hungry.
