LA CROSSE

Frank Babcock's Indians, the Tecumseh, held an excellent work-out last evening and will have another to-night on Tecumseh Park. The practice last night was held on the High school grounds and the team committee, "Coach" Chaplin and a number of interested spectators were on hand to watch the work. All are of the opinion that the Tecumseh are a fast aggregation.

Manager Babcock is delighted with his team and feels confident that they will win the game to-morrow afternoon at the Exhibition grounds with Wallaceburg. It will be a good game and no one should miss seeing it.

It is rumored around that Wallaceburg has signed Mooney, the fast point player, and they claim to have a good team. The Tecumseh have no outsiders from their own players.

Manager Babcock after the practice said, "I can hear the championship bee buzzing around my ears and I have to keep brushing it away for fear it will light before the season is over."

The fellow who sings his own praise is usually a soloist.

A FEW HILLOCKS.

A Recent Government Dictionary of Altitudes That Cannot Fail to Open the Eyes of Many People.

A somewhat unusual kind of Government publication, the erection of altitudes in the Dominion of Canada, has recently been issued by the Ottawa Department of the Interior. Even a casual perusal of this volume on hills cannot fail to open the eyes of many, including those of the oldest inhabitants. The heights, it need scarcely be said, are given in feet above the sea level, and the place names are arranged alphabetically in Province and territory groups.

For our purpose we shall begin with Ontario, where we are a little nonplussed to discover that the greatest altitude is reached by Tip-top hill, which is said to be 1,350 feet. This is the height of the hill of this appropriately named, but to us, wholly strange, hill is given at 2,120 feet. Next to it comes Thunder Cape, 1,950, thus soaring beyond Fort William's knoll, Mt. McKay, 1,350 feet. This must prove gratifying to the good people of Port Arthur, and correspondingly provocative to those of the other burg.

It may surprise some of us to learn that next to these come Dundalk (South Grey), 1,700, Corbett (Dufferin), 1,661, and Melancthon (the same county), 1,660, so that the elevation connecting these points forms the roof-ridge of our western peninsula. It is now in order for the Dundalkians to take advantage of the situation by the erection of a pillar or some other conspicuous monument at the railway station to inform the traveling public that "This is the highest point in southern Ontario, 1,700 feet above the level of the sea."

There are some scores of places above the thousand feet mark, but by far the larger number are in the lower hundreds, the lowest possible level being that of Bainsville, in Lancaster Township, Glengarry, 174 feet, the difference between which and 245 feet (nearly) will show the extent of fall in the St. Lawrence after it leaves Lake Ontario.

Toronto Union Station is placed at nine feet above the lake or 25 feet above the sea, and a few other points in the city are as follows: Queen street, 260; Bloor street, 371; North Toronto station, 400; Carlton street is placed at 405 feet, but this must be a mistake. Upper Canada College is given as 510; the Parliament Buildings as 356, the top of the roof as 648, and Woodlawn avenue is mentioned at 469 feet, "the highest point in the city."

But British Columbia overtops everything, even Tip-top hill, with Mount Fairweather, which, according to some authority, is 15,292 feet above the sea, while Mounts Carruthers, Cathedral, Columbia, Faily, Dawson, Deltaform, Deville, Dome, Freshfield, Goodair, Habel, Hermit, Hooker, Howe, Hungabee, La Perouse, Lefroy, Lyell, Nelson, Owen, Robson, Rogers, Sir Donald, Stephen, Thompson, Vaux and Victoria look down on scores on everything under 10,000 feet high.

The highest point in Alberta is Mount Murchison, 13,500, followed closely by Mount Bryce, 13,000, with many others ranging from 12,000 to 10,000.

Assiniboa cannot boast of anything even as far up as 5,000 feet, her best effort culminating in a nameless point which may hereafter be known as Globe Mountain, 4,625 feet in height. I suggest this name because the elevation is said to be one of the most beautiful in America, and fertile almost to its summit.

In Athabaska nothing exceeds 3,000 feet in height, except Britia Lake, strange to say, and it is 3,201 feet above the sea, but surely the surrounding land is just a little bit above this.

Although Manitoba is proud, she is modest, and no attempt has been made in this Province to rival the heights of British Columbia.

Duck Mountain (it must be a mountain) caps the climax at 2,600 feet. Porcupine Mountain, at 2,500, Turtle Mountain, at 2,300, and Krang Mount, at 2,200 feet, complete the record of hills over 2,000 feet above sea level.

New Brunswick's greatest altitude is Mount Carleton, 2,716; Nova Scotia's Wilkie Sugarloaf, 1,200; Prince Edward Island's Wiltshire, 305; while Quebec's Mount Logan, 3,708, and Chicobioka, 3,500 feet, must come nearly closing this review.

It may, however, be of some scientific interest to note that the so-called mountain near Montreal is not two million five hundred thousand feet in height, as is claimed by the inhabitants who reside near its base, but only 763 feet, to the very summit, in accordance with authentic records. It may also be remarked that "the mountain" at Hamilton, Ontario, and which has always been claimed to be at least ten thousand feet higher than that of Montreal, is, in reality only 628 feet above sea level, or 135 feet lower than the Montreal vertical prominence.

Tree Nursery at Guelph.

Considerable progress has been made with the tree nursery at the Ontario Agricultural College. Hon. John Dryden stated recently that in the spring of 1906 he expected they would be in a position to distribute to the farmers of the Province at least 200,000 trees of various classes.

"We have during the past ten days transplanted about 50,000 two-year-old evergreens—pine, Norway spruce, larch, etc.—and we have sown enough seed to give us 30,000 more," said Mr. Dryden. "We have also gathered enough acorns for at least 100,000 red and white oak trees, a variety of commercial timber which cannot be very well transplanted, but which grows somewhat rapidly from seed. Besides these we have several other varieties, such as maple, beech, birch, ash, and so on."

The trees are planted apart from two to four inches one way, and from twelve to fourteen inches the other way.

Here's luck to the Tecumsehs.

Babcock's Braves, the Tecumseh Indians, will cut up dog to-morrow when they meet that glass aggregation.

I see signs around town, "Keep Out The Mosquitoes Tuesday, June 26." Now for myself I try to keep them out every day.

There are a few loyal Scottish "foreigners" around these parts who purpose resenting Little Laurier's sneering insult, at the proper time.

When Lord Dundonald rode into Ladysmith at the head of the relieving force he was not told that he was a "foreigner." But Sir Wilfrid Laurier was not there.—London Free Press.

Mr. Fisher in his character of supervisor and dictator in Sir Fred. Borden's department, thought Dr. Pickle was not fit to be a major of the 13th Light Dragoons because he was a Tory, so he recommended in his place a Grit officer who had the misfortune to be deaf.

W. G. Richards stood in Harrison Hall between the hours of twelve and one and a worried look was on his otherwise pleasant visage. "Here," said he, "I came to make searches in a couple of offices and both are closed. The statute makes no pecuniary provision for such a state of affairs and I get no pay for my trouble."

Something is wrong somewhere and the cause thereof is difficult to ascertain. Nobody has had a kick to register against the Satellite for over a month and consequently that public official is free from aches and pains. What can be the matter? If some blooming idiot don't start up soon to wipe the earth with the Satellite the latter won't feel comfortable. This life is getting too tame and irksome.

EVENTIDE WEDDING.

A quiet but fashionable wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Ferguson, 34 Kirk St., yesterday, when their only daughter, Miss Mary Maude Ferguson, was united in marriage to John James Sutherland Galloway, of Souris, Manitoba. The front and back parlors were both prettily decorated and banked with palms, flowers and foliage. In front of this green bank the wedding ceremony was performed promptly at 6 p. m., by the Rev. Mr. McGillivray, in the presence of only a few on the immediate relatives.

Miss Powell, of Ottawa, was bridesmaid, and Arthur Scott, of the Traders' Bank, Toronto, assisted the groom.

The bride was attired in a wedding dress of white Duchess silk, trimmed with real Duchess lace, yoke of chiffon with lace bertha.

From seven till nine o'clock a wedding reception was held, and about a hundred of the friends of the bride called.

Mr. and Mrs. Galloway left on the 9.15 International Limited for their future home at Souris, Manitoba, where Mr. Galloway is manager of the Merchants' Bank. They will spend a short time at the St. Louis Exposition before proceeding to Souris.

The bride presented a pretty picture in her travelling costume of blue broadcloth with hat to match, of blue straw and Tuscan crown.

Amongst the guests from a distance were John Ferguson, J. F. New York, and Mrs. Wallace and Miss Galloway, Winton.

Senator Scott, in response, laid on the table the Order-in-Council dismissing Lord Dundonald. Other documents connected with the matter would be printed and distributed. In answer to Senator Loughheed, he said Lord Dundonald had already been notified by the head of the department that he was no longer in command.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell drew attention to the somewhat serious question of how the report of the subcommittee of the Privy Council got into the newspapers before it had been laid before Parliament. It appeared as if some one had evaded his obligation to secrecy. It might have been given out before it was submitted to His Excellency. The document laid on the table was not certified, and so was not as official as that given to the papers. There was nothing to show that it was approved.

Senator Scott said the Order-in-Council was approved before it was given to the papers, and there was no reason why it should not have been given to the papers before being submitted to Parliament.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell emphasized the fact that this document was given to the press before being given to the House. It was a new departure in his experience. It seemed to him as a matter of anxiety to hurl another additional insult to an eminent officer. Being "a foreigner," he supposed he could expect it. He considered the giving out of the document as a vicious principle.

Senator Scott contended that the document was not one to which Parliament was entitled to the first information. It is no way different to any other appointment or dismissal. Senator DeLoachville thought the fact that Parliament was sitting made a great difference in dealing with these matters.

CANADA'S LOSS.

The Citizen concludes a slashing article upon the dismissal of Lord Dundonald as follows: "As Dundonald is forced to leave Canada at the present time, the plans he has so carefully elaborated, and are now ready to assume tangible shape, will fall to the ground. Canada, in a militia sense, will be where it was before the large promises were made by the present Government at the colonial conference, and the program of procrastination and subterfuge will have achieved its results."

INDIGNATION AT TORONTO.

Toronto, June 15.—The dismissal of Lord Dundonald was the chief topic of discussion at the clubs last night and in business circles to-day. At the Military Club some very concrete statements were made, and of a number of officers seen this morning, none will say that Lord Dundonald's course was not a proper one to pursue from a military standpoint. There is a movement already on foot to give Lord Dundonald the greatest send-off any soldier ever received in this country when he shall take his departure. Many soldiers refused to speak for publication, but deprecated the action taken by the Government.

Col. Davidson, the senior militia officer in Toronto and commander of the 48th Highlanders, speaking of Lord Dundonald's dismissal, to-day said to the Telegram:—"It is lamentable that a man of Lord Dundonald's ability in the control of the Canadian militia force should come to such a termination. As an administrator of the Canadian forces he is the best we have ever had, with the result that the militia has been transformed into a live organization instead of being a thing in name only. I do not see how Lord Dundonald can be accused of insubordination. He had drawn attention to the attempt that has been made to create a political machine out of the militia of Canada. If this condition of affairs is allowed to materialize the responsibility rests with the public and not with this foreigner, Lord Dundonald. His dismissal under the circumstances is a thing to be resented by every self-respecting Scotchman and every militiaman. The militia of Canada will never amount to anything if politics are allowed to dominate, nor will there ever be a G. O. C. who will amount to anything who will gracefully submit to the dictates of wire-pulling politicians."

Major Robertson, of the 68th, said: "In my judgment Lord Dundonald was quite within his province from a military point of view—a man speaking as he did, without regard to the political significance of his utterances, but purely as an officer. I regret very much that so eminent a soldier, who distinguished himself in South Africa, and who has been acknowledged to be the best general we have ever had in Canada, should be styled by the Premier of Canada, on British territory, as a foreigner, and when that term was seen to be too strong, to modify it with the term stranger. This latter incident, to my mind, is the most regrettable and unfortunate affair that has ever taken place in military organizations in this country."
