BEAVER FLOUR
A PERFECT BLEND
OF MANITOBA AND
ONTARIO WHEAT

Manitoba wheat contains more food value than any other. It makes the most wholesome, nutritious bread and biscuits. But it contains so much Gluten (Nourishment) that the dough won't rise properly, and the bread is both heavy and gray.

Ontario wheat
does not give as nutritious bread as Manitoba wheat. But what it lacks in food value, it equals by its lightness of its Biscuits, Cakes and Pastry.
For Pastry, alone,
Ontario flour is better than any other four made of a single variety of wheat.
But there is no need to go to the expense of buying two flours.

Beaver Flour

It is both a bread flour and a pastry flour. It is a blend of the finest wheat. It contains just the right proportion of gluten to make the most nutritious Bread—the whitest Bread—and the lightest, most delicious Pastry of all kinds.

Beaver Flour also yields MORE Bread, etc., to the barrel, than any other.

No matter what other flour you are using, you are not getting the best results because you are not using the best flour.

Order a trial sack of Beaver Flour. The first baking will prove its quality.

Bringing Home the Cows.

When positions were in bloom, When the hay had filled the mow,
When the cattle were fast together,
Bringing home the cows.
What a purple blood the pasture, Kind and blessed the adieu-bow,
As we wandered close at hand,
Bringing home the cows!

Now the fat-cow bills were gilded With the light of adieu-bow, As we built our hopes beyond them,
Bringing home the cows!

How our eyes were bright with vision, What a swelling swelled our brows,
As we watched the cows, and tagged,
Bringing home the cows!

Fast the years, and through the distance, Through the memory of our eyes,
As we watched the cows, and tagged,
Bringing home the cows!

—CHAS. G. D. ROBERTS.

The Sympathy of the Silent.

The telegram announcing her daughter's death was delivered to Mrs.
Benedict at seven, and from seven until ten that morning there was a lump in Anne's throat that she could not swallow.

The sad news which had dashed over-her the wires from Mrs. Benedict's son-in-law was known to every one in town almost as quickly as it was known to Mrs. Benedict. Every one's sympathy was stirred—Anne's more than most people's—but with a difference in the result, which caused her eyes to hurt as she looked wistfully out of the kitchen window across the Tupper's narrow back yard into Mrs.
Benedict's house.

Mrs. Tupper and Hilda had gone over directly after breakfast, and had not returned. Anne had not gone.
Now from her post in front of the window she saw the neighbors coming and going. "And each of them," thought Anne, "can say just the right thing to Mrs. Benedict!"

That was the difference which hurt.
Anne well knew she would be stricken speechless in the house of mourning; therefore she stood in the kitchen and swallowed the lump that would not go down.

Presently her girl friends began to arrive at the house across the yard.
Anne counted eleven—she was the twelfth who had been entertained by Mrs. Benedict only the afternoon before, and she was the only one of the dozen who could express no sympathy for the hostess.

But had the bereaved woman known it, Anne was also the only one of the dozen who, the evening before, had left her door with no word of criticism for her, her house and her tea.

The guests had gone away together, and as they trooped round the corner, many were the comments on the events of the afternoon.

"If I were as rich as Mrs. Benedict," whispered Belle, "you wouldn't catch me cutting an ice-cream brick in layers so this you can see through them."

"And such a stiff, bare-knotted parlor!" sniffed Hilda. "I should like to get into it once with some of her money and permission to fix it up!"

"And, girls, did you notice her belt?" asked Grace Donovan. "It is worn off on the lower edge. I wouldn't be seen in such a belt, and yet I suppose she could buy out a dozen men like father!"

"Of course she could," assented Lora Hart. "But I don't long for her own belt. Catch me doing it in her place!"

So on the comments from eleven.
The twelfth said nothing. Yet the eleven were not unkind girls at heart, so the morning proved, Hilda on was hurrying about the town on errands that Anne longed to do. Belle and Lora left Mrs. Benedict at nine, and took the train to the city, leaving quite important under the weight of their errands. Grace was writing notes and sending telegrams in Mrs.
Benedict's name.

Only Anne stood idle, yet no one longed more to be of service to the stricken friend. "If only mother would come home, I could find out what needed to be done!" she thought.
But Mrs. Tupper did not come.
Therefore Anne slipped out behind the wailing hedge, and walked Hilda's dog was hurrying along with her arms full of packages.

"Tell me something I can do for her," Hilda begged Anne in a whisper.
Hilda stopped and looked her surprise. To her Anne had always seemed a little odd. "Whatever are you hiding behind the hedge for, Anne? she asked. "Haven't you been in to see Mrs. Benedict yet?"

"None of your business," Anne snapped back. "No, I haven't."
"I don't know what to say, but if I could only do things—"

"Why, Anne!" Hilda's voice grew gentle at the sight of the distress on her younger sister's face. "All that is necessary is to go in and just tell her you are sorry. It is not difficult at all, because she can't imagine one but feeling sorry she might say 'I try to share her burden, but her eyes are so dry they shine!' And Hilda hurried on.
Anne went back and sat on the door-step. It sounded so easy to do as Hilda said, and it was easy for Hilda, but not for Anne. To be sure, people, old and young, were always telling Anne their troubles, but having some one else call you in and Don't Suffer All Winter.

Read This Evidence and Begin Today to Cure Yourself With Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Scotica is neuralgia of the sciatic nerves. Its origin is generally rheumatism and is the direct result of talking cold. For this reason the disease is commonly known as "sciatic rheumatism."

There is only one thing more painful than sciatica and that is the treatment of it, as practiced. The tickling burning of the flesh is only one of the forms of "crucifixion" enjoyed by those who neglect the sciatic nerves. In a case reported here, the relief gained is but temporary.

It is a scientific fact that the majority of sciatica cases result from ex-posure to cold when the patient is in an anemic or bloodless condition, in which the nerves are literally starved.

It needs no argument to show any reason that the person that a sciatic nerve cannot be fed by the application of the outer flesh. It may depend the sciatic pain for a time but it will not cure sciatica.

Absolute rest is the best aid to proper medical treatment. Rest and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which actually make new blood and thus feed the starved nerve, will cure most cases.

Mr. H. W. Awall is one of the leading merchants of Hemford, N. S.
A few years ago he was a great sufferer from this excruciating trouble. He says:—"The attack was so severe that I had been off work for some time.
The cords of my legs were all drawn up and I could only limp along with the aid of a stick. The pain I suffered was terrible. I was in misery both day and night. Every movement caused me such pain as only those who have been tortured with sciatica know. I was treated by several doctors, but they did not help me a bit.
In fact I almost began to think my condition was hopeless, when Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills were brought to my notice. I got a half dozen boxes.
I had used the entire quantity before I found any benefit. But I was encouraged and got a second half dozen boxes, and before these were all gone every vestige of the trouble had disappeared. Not on this, but I was improved in health in every way as the result of the use of the Pink Pills.
The long sleep of pain I had suffered had left me badly run down. I can't speak too highly of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I can't recommend them too strongly to our sufferers."

Scotica is stubborn in resisting treatment and the patient often suffers for years. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do not simply relieve the pain. They cure the disease caused by poor watery blood. They actually make new blood and have therefore a direct and powerful curative effect on such diseases as rheumatism, aneurism, general debility and other effects of the grip.
As the nerves depend upon the blood for nourishment, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are unequalled for the treatment of even the most severe nervous disorders, such as neuralgia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus dance and locomotor ataxia. As a tonic for the blood and nerves they are used everywhere with the greatest success building up weak bodies and bringing the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. Sold

Wolfville Oddfellows Rally.

(From the Halifax Echo.)

Orpheus Lodge, No. 69, I. O. O. F., Wolfville, received an official visit last evening from the Grand Master of this jurisdiction, W. Stetson Rogers, of Halifax. A number of members of the order accompanied the Grand Master from Halifax, among them being, brothers J. H. Balcom, Grand Treasurer; J. H. Laidlaw, Grand Representative, and the orchestra of Mystic Lodge, No. 18, composed of 10 members under the leadership of brother Tozer. Besides the Wolfville members, quite a goodly number attended from lodges located at Win-dor, Hantsport, Kentville, and in addition, Berwick, Kingston, and even as far west as Westport were represented. Altogether the attendance was somewhat over 100. Had the Wolfville brethren been able to make satisfactory arrangements with the railway, and also if there had been sufficient notice for alighting, the lodge room at Wolfville would certainly not have accommodated those who planned to be on hand.

On the evening of the 4th inst., the Grand Representative Laidlaw followed. He particularly confined his remarks to the changes made in the ritual at the last session of the Sovereign Grand Lodge and which come into effect next July. Later on in the evening he presented the merits of the Incumbent branch, and gave twelve very practical reasons why a member of a subordinate lodge should take the higher degrees. Bro. L. has certainly been playing possum in the past, as last night he proved to the satisfaction of those present that he was quite capable of giving an oration at any time, especially on an occasion of a similar nature.

The Lodge then closed, and very rapidly it was turned into a banquet hall and the brothers were tendered an oyster supper and other good things after which speeches were in order, the opening address being a witty speech from Rev. Bro. E. B. Moore, chaplain of the Order, and shortly after one o'clock the meeting closed with a practical speech from the Grand Treasurer, Bro. J. H. Balcom, who earlier in the evening facetiously remarked that when the members wished to be put to sleep to call on him.

Special mention must be made of the orchestra that accompanied the Grand Master from Halifax, they certainly contributed very much to the evening's entertainment. They are a credit to themselves and the lodge to which they belong. The leader, however, seems of late to be somewhat unfortunate, and he is now inclined to exclaim 'save me from my friends.' Recently at a church service he was unfortunate enough to lose his overcoat. Last night someone in the hurry exchanged hats in his haste to get home before the electric light service went off duty, and unfortunately for Bro. T. the one left was not a good fit. Next time he goes out in company he declares he will rivet his boots to his feet.

Coming back to last night's meeting, it certainly was very enjoyable to the members of Orpheus Lodge, composed, as it is, of the very best citizens of the enterprising town of Wolfville.

To-night Grand Master Rogers pays an official visit to Phoenicia Lodge, No.
50, Truro, accompanied by H. I.
Hart, P. G. A.
