

Train Your Lips to Smile

When paths seem extra dreary and feet are extra weary. Then that's the time to show a bit of will!

The Glass Slipper

(Concluded)

And now, as Dorothy lay in her arms, all her love for the child rushed back. How Dorothy's sweet underlip had quivered when the thorn went in!

to a home." She paused. "I didn't look up that laundress," she owned. Mrs. Hayden did not really believe her own fairy story, but she wanted to believe it—and so she had been afraid to question the laundress.

Janet lifted shining eyes. It was too wonderful that the big thing had come at last!

"Put on my 'glass slippers,'" Janet said to the old lady. They were blue slippers, trimmed Indian fashion, with beads, they looked like glass.

A look of astonishment came into her face. "Why, child, they fit like gloves!" She caught the stocking from Janet's left foot.

"Oh, don't the girl implore. Was that foot to change everything a second time? Don't—please!" Mrs. Hayden sobbed. She had seen the instep. Smiling faintly, Janet drew her poor foot away.

Something to

His Advantage.

(By Mary Cross, in Ave Maria). "O dear! I wonder if my life will ever be anything but 'Make up the blue linen into a skirt for Alice; 'Wash the drawing-room ornaments yourself; 'Maggie says you may finish the cushion she began for the hospital bazaar, and send it in with her compliments; 'Mend the lace on that green blouse of mine'?"

And Cicely Baron laid down the letter containing those and other commissions, with a hand that trembled, and presently pressed herself, still trembling, first to her hot forehead, then to her eyes.

Mr. and Mrs. Rimmer and family had betaken themselves from Liverpool to Margate for a holiday, which, in the lady's opinion, afforded an admirable opportunity for having the house thoroughly cleaned. Of course, some one had to stay at home to see that the work was properly done; and equally, of course, that some one was Mrs. Rimmer's orphan niece, who paid the penalty of having a father who had been an indefatigable imitator of that portion of the Good Samaritan's charity which consisted in calling at an inn; consequently he had left his only child totally unprovided for,—matters of history whereof Cicely was frequently reminded by her cousin.

Mrs. Rimmer esteemed it a virtue in herself that, in spite of her brother having been a spendthrift, she had given a home to his daughter; but she laid less emphasis on the fact that Cicely

THIS SOLDIER TOOK

"DR. FOWLER'S" OVERSEAS WITH HIM.

Mr. William J. Peckard, Shanty Bay, Ont., writes: "Being a member of the C.E.F., I have had many brilliant opportunities of realizing the beneficial results derived from the proper use of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry."

Landing in England in early fall after a very wet summer brought many of us to the doctor's office, but got little, if any, relief there from dysentery and severe cases of diarrhoea. I am glad to be able to say that I never had to call on a doctor for either complaint, as I used freely the supply of "Dr. Fowler's" which I had purchased before embarking for our trip overseas. I can also say that many others can testify likewise.

When you are troubled with diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps, pains in the stomach, cholera morbus, summer complaint or any form of looseness of the bowels do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and see how quickly you will be relieved.

You can always rely on it in time of need as it has stood the test of time, having been on the market for the past 75 years.

There are so many spurious "strawberry" preparations sold we would ask you to be sure and see that our name, The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont., appears on the wrapper. Price 50 cents.

saved her the expense of a servant. The girl had "so small a sense of duty, propriety, and gratitude" that she had engaged herself to a young banker's clerk,—a misdeed exaggerated in the eyes of her relatives by the circumstances of his being good-looking, well-bred, and not much better off financially than Cicely herself. Mrs. Rimmer was fond of saying that the engagement would never come to anything; and in dark hours Cicely consoled with her, though finding consolation in the thought that, at any rate, it had brought her a good deal of happiness and all Jack's love; and she was content to wait for him, even if part of her probation were to be spent in the grave.

After the little "grumble" provoked by her aunt's letter—arriving as it did on a day when Cicely had felt rather overpowered by the amount of work already allotted to her—she reread it, wondering which of the many new tasks should be undertaken first; and then she was suddenly, incomprehensibly and irresistibly seized with a longing for woods and glens and acres of purple heather, for the scent and the sound of the sea, far away from the odors of paint and soap, and the wrangling of plumbers and charwomen. It is a long lane that hasn't a turn, but Cicely felt that into that land she had got, and, to her own astonishment, burst into tears.

This is to certify that I have used MINARD'S LINIMENT in my family for years, and consider it the best liniment on the market. I have found it excellent for horse flesh.

Customer: "But, bless my soul, what is the meaning of this—spoons, five shillings; sugar tongs, half-a-crown?"

Waiter: "Yes, sir; those are the things the lady has in her bag."

Got Heart Trouble

While in the Army.

Mr. H. Maxwell, Woodhouse, Alta., writes: "I was in the army for two years and there was little hope for me to get better. I have doctored with other doctors, but with no relief. A year ago a friend told me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I laughed at him, at the time, and told him they were only a fake, but as I got worse I thought I would try a box. I have taken six boxes, and can say that they are the first thing that helped me, and I feel as if I were a new man. I can thank them, and feel that with a few more boxes I will be well."

Whenever there are people with weak hearts, we do not know where they can find a remedy that will do so much to make the heart regain strength and restore it to a normal and healthy condition as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.
