

The Untiring Energy

of the Wolf is proverbial. Practically no energy is required where SUNLIGHT SOAP is employed. SUNLIGHT SOAP is energy itself. The Wolf is the enemy of mankind;

Sunlight Soap

is the enemy of all dirt. It is the friend of the housewife, and is made for her profit. To the housewife it means less labour, less dirt, more leisure, and time and money saved.

SUNLIGHT SOAP does away with needless rubbing and scrubbing, and so preserves the clothes.

GIVE IT A TRIAL.

Facing Things.

By RUTH CAMERON.

Do you face things? We all know that there are some people who never look their fellow men in the eye and we know that such are apt to be unsatisfactory folks.

But did it ever occur to you that there are also people who never face things, who never look conditions straight in the eye, and that this also is a most unsatisfactory way of living? Perhaps you do not understand exactly what I mean by refusing to look things in the face. Let me illustrate: I know a young man who will not look his financial condition in the face. He has an income which varies more or less, but does not average above a certain amount. He has expensive tastes, a rather expensive wife and a household plant which is costing him more than he can afford. Altogether his expenses are decidedly in excess of his average income.

How does he get along, you ask? Well, he draws ahead on his salary, he runs into debt here and there, his family help him out, and not long ago he had a small legacy left him and he is now using that up.

Doesn't he ever worry about what he will do when that is gone? No, he doesn't, because he doesn't think about it, or, if he does, he fancies that he will find some way out. He never definitely faces the condition into which he is drifting. He never looks squarely at his income and outgo and asks himself how he can make them conform.

He pays the rent because he must. For the rest, he pays a bill here and there and lets the rest slide as long as he can. If his wife urges him to pay some particular bill, he is apt to fly into a rage, and accuse her of extravagance. Then he repents, buys her some present which he cannot afford, to propitiate her, and things go on as before.

Now and then he tries to retrench in some direction or other, but he never looks the situation squarely in the face and makes any systematic plans for changing it.

Doubtless you know this man—not in the flesh, but in the type, for there are plenty of him in every community and people who have cultivated the honest habit of looking things in the face are punished for their pains by paying in the form of higher charges the bills which such as he leave unpaid.

Of course, the financial problem is only one of the many situations which demand that we shall look them squarely in the eye. I know a girl who ruined two lives because she would not face the fact that the two young men who were in love with her had reached the stage where they could not be played with or put off any longer. Two lives, did I say? I was wrong, for one of the lovers shot her and then himself, and the trail of sorrow blighted far more than two lives.

Of course, there is such a thing as going out of your way to face troubles, but that is another story altogether. I would be the last to urge anyone to that extreme. But the other is quite as bad. For to my mind, people who go through life dodging this way and that to avoid facing situations that cry out to be faced, deserve the worst name that any man or woman can have—the name of coward.

To pickle mushrooms, wash a quart of large "button" mushrooms carefully with a piece of flannel and a little vinegar. Put them in a saucepan with a few blades of mace, a little whole pepper and ginger, a spoonful of salt and three cloves or shallots, and sufficient vinegar to half cover them. Let them stew until they shrink a great deal. When cold, bottle, and pour the vinegar over them. These are excellent, and make a good change from other pickles.

Canon Smith Retires.

On Sunday next, Rev. Canon Smith will bid farewell to his parishioners at Portugal Cove. During the many years that he has laboured as incumbent of that thriving place, he has endeared himself to his people, by whom he will be greatly missed. His devotion to duty and whole-souled interest in the spiritual and temporal welfare of his parish, have made him a pastor beloved by all. It is fitting that the closing day of his ministerial labours in that parish should be the Day of Intercession of which he was such an earnest advocate. Canon Smith will take up residence in the city next week, and his many friends throughout the country hope that the evening of his life will be a long period of peace and happiness as a reward for a life well spent in the duties of his sacred calling.
