Always the cookbook says:
'Sift Your Flour.'
No lumps, you see. Aerates the flour, making it lighter.
Put FIVE ROSES in your sifter.
Never soft and sticky—never lumpy, musty, woolly.
Never coarse.
Milled superfine from Manitoba's grandest wheat.
Fine, granular, very dry.
Nothing remains in the sifter—FIVE ROSES is free, heavy.
And your bread is more porous, more yielding, more appetizing.
And more Digestible.
Because the particles are finer, easier to get at by the stomach juices.
Use this very fine flour—superfina.
FIVE ROSES.

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, Nov. 19th, 1917.
NO CHRISTMAS GIFTS.
Christmas present buying is going to be even more arduous than usual this season, and one great stand-by will be no longer available. One knows that worried search for something which members of the family do not possess, and recalls the invariable solution if they are smokers—give them a pipe, cigarettes, or cigars. I have not heard of any serious pipe shortage, but the pipe will be the only recourse this year. The Tobacco Control Board is aware of the Christmas tendency, and has issued an early injunction against the selling to customers of tobacco in excess of their usual purchases. The wife who likes to give her husband cigars will find it hard to make her purchases, and firms which had been accustomed to distribute consignments of cigars among their employees will have to try something else. That something will not be whiskey, for there will be no big supply of spirit available.

PIANO SHUFFLE.
Owing to the redistribution of wealth strange things are happening in the piano world. In the homes of munition and other war workers are to be found pianos where formerly were none. Long-time possessors of pianos, on the other hand, have many of them, made over their pianos to hospitals and canteens. At the same time, the great demand for pianos is accompanied by a corresponding shortness of supply. A well-known firm of piano makers state that whereas they used to turn out sixty pianos a week, they now produce ten, and even this number was due to the fact that the oldest workers were in this connection usually the most valuable.
Wood for cases, they declared, had gone up 600 per cent, and makers were thankful to secure the old cases, fretworked and green-silk fronted, that we knew in our grand-mothers' drawing rooms. The cheaper pianos could be sold over and over again.
Since pianos are not likely to be among the first imports when the war is over, the British maker may count safely upon a long period of prosperity, during which he will no doubt further develop the qualities of his instrument. In the general reshuffle of money those who have less money do not necessarily sell their pianos, while those who have more may be safely counted upon to buy at the first opportunity this emblem of prosperity and—with the various piano players—of entertainment and pleasure.

GIRL CLERKS URGED TO EMI-GRATE.
Now the Government offices are full of young girls under 16 doing the work of messenger boys, the State is one of the principal employers of "half-timers" in the country. These girls spend about one-third of their working hours in school instruction.
The Government is anxious not to fill brought a true sense of war pageantry to their task, so that the varied naval and military elements conveyed to the sightseers a vivid idea of how the Empire is putting its weight into the great struggle. Merriness and enthusiasm greeted the two tanks—"male and female" according to the official programme—which were undoubtedly the feature of the day.

People promptly ascribed the little mishaps which overtook the "lady" to feminine perverseness. First of all she was behind time, then wobbly at the start, and on entering Gresham Street she made straight for the entrance to the Guildhall Tavern, scattering the spectators. Some coaxing brought her round, and thereafter she decorously followed her partner. Opposite the Guildhall the powerful tractor hauling one of the big German guns took the corner too fine, displacing the tackle of the gun, a howling, which had to be relegated to a side street near by. In more ways than one it was the ladies' day. Lady farm workers organized by the Food Department looked pink and charm-that no section of the mercantile marine community has carried out its war duties more faithfully than the "sparks," as the operators are commonly known. Yet they have not received any advance in pay. They start at £5 a month, and at the end of six years' service the operator in charge gets £9 a month. In the circumstances it is not surprising to learn that there is an agitation for an increase. The operators are organising to take definite action in the matter. It is understood that the Marconi Company recently issued fresh conditions of service, which have, however, been withdrawn for further consideration.

FUR COLLARS FOR MEN.
The Continental habit of the fur collar is rapidly spreading among men. Nor is it the "City gent" or the foreign planist who have encouraged the fashion. Those of our officers whose pay—or whose credit—admits of it have a passion for fur collars, and anything that has any pretence of toning with khaki serves the purpose.

Keep the Pot Boiling.
The Salvation Ladies with their plain fur caps and blue costumes and smiling faces are once again making Water Street seem more Christmassy as they invite passers by to
"Keep the Pot Boiling." Colonel O'way states the first day proceeds are quite up to previous years, and desires to thank all givers for their kind response.
Several friends have written saying they prefer to give in the pots, and thus cheer on the voluntary workers who gave their time and labours for the cause of the Poor.

WIRELESS MONOPOLY AT SEA.
For a long time shipowners have been dissatisfied about the monopoly exercised by the Marconi Company.
At present all British sea-going vessels of 3,000 tons and upwards have to be equipped with a wireless installation and from this week this must also be fitted on ships between that tonnage and 1,600 tons gross, and in addition each of the vessels has to carry two operators. As it happens there is no other concern in the United Kingdom but the Marconi Company that can make the necessary provision, and the chief complaint is that a contract for ten years and not for the duration of the war is insisted upon. Shipowners have to supply part of the apparatus and pay £130 a year for its use, whilst the cost of such operator is £120 per annum in addition to food. If the ship is destroyed before the agreement expires it is stipulated that the owners must pay £30 a year for the remainder of the period. It is generally recognized

CLOSING EXERCISES.
So great was the number of people to attend the closing exercises of Bishop Spencer College at the Casino last night that scores were not able to gain admission. Among those present were His Excellency the Governor and Miss Harris, who were accompanied by Lt. Col. Knox-Niven, Private Secretary and Capt. J. H. Campbell, A. D. C. Rev. Canon White, Rev. Canon Bolt, Revs. Brinton, Moulton, Clayton and others of the clergy.
The programme opened with Swee-dish and club drill which was performed in a faultless manner. Trisie Noseworthy followed with the recitation: "Newfoundland." The operetta, "A Rose Dream," was ably presented by a large number of the pupils. The leading characters were taken by Ardrey Chafe, Sybil Chaliker, Helen Rogerson, Jean Cowan, Reynette Mews, Beth White, Gladys Brooks, Phyllis Snow, Geraldine Nicholle and Doris Mews.
The performers one and all acquitted themselves admirably and to the delight of the audience, who were not less in showing appreciation of their efforts by hearty applause. Mr. W.
H. Stirling, who acted as instructor, is to be congratulated on the success of the affair.
Following the operetta the report of Miss Stirling, the Principal of the College, was read by Mr. B. E. S. Dun-field.
Miss Harris graciously presented the prizes to the winners and warmly congratulated them on their success.
Rev. Canon White, Bishop-Elect, proposed a vote of thanks to Miss Harris, which was seconded by Mr. J. W.
Withers and accorded by acclamation.
