Airman Got a "Sub."

The minute passed, two minutes, three minutes. We had roared over miles of sea, and still I could see the little fountain ahead.

Then I saw the submarine. She was a mile away—a big grey Fritz of the U-class, long flush deck rising toward the bows, conning tower between bow and stern, two guns, one above and one aft of the conning tower, and a straight stem. She was starting through the water at top speed, about thirteen knots, and there her bow was the little fountain.

It was caused by a thread of water striking up her straight stem and splashing into the air about five feet. It glittered in the sun.

Two men were on the conning tower, but they did not see or hear us coming. We were attacking up wind and down sun. We read part of her number, U-47, but the second numeral was blurred.

Forty seconds after seeing the "Fritz" Dickey pulled the release lever and dropped one bomb. He threw up his arm. I banked over and shot down. The bomb had detonated on the starboard side half way between the conning-tower and the stern.

The submarine heeled slowly over to port. She stopped in her own length and began to sink.

Cuckney close behind me passed over. I saw a bomb burst on the starboard side right in front of the conning-tower. Her decks were now awash. An explosion occurred in her bow and several smaller explosions between the stem and the conning-tower.

By this time I was again in position and Dickey dropped a second bomb. The bomb detonated about thirty feet away from her. Only the very top of her conning-tower was showing. And then she vanished.

The little fountain had been fatal. —From Squadron Commander T. D. Hallam's new book, "The Spider Web," and account of his own share in fighting submarines in the North Sea.

Commander Hallam is a native of Toronto.

A great market for world buyers is to be set up in Paris. The six-story building which will cost $20,000,000, will contain 5,000 shops.

The total value of forest production in British Columbia for the year 1919 will not be less than $62,000,000, against $54,000,000 in 1918, according to a preliminary survey given. Water borne shipments of lumber show an advance over the preceding year of 17,000,000 feet, while the value of pulp and paper sold increased from $10,517,250 in 1918 to $15,554,257 last year.

A gourmand has no redress against a profiteer, according to a decision handed down at Vienna. Rolf Zimmerman, a Government official, charged with profiteering against a restaurant, but hearing that he ordered soup, roast beef, roast veal, a pork chop, half a pheasant, a quarter of a fowl, two sausages with sauerkraut, three apple tarts and a fig pudding, the judge dismissed the case.

Esau Field, of Cardiff, G.B., who was found dead in his house, and was stated at the inquest to have lived alone and subsisted on dry bread, herbs and water, died on Nov. 14 last, leaving property of the value of 13,897 pounds, 11s., with net personalty 13,182 pounds, 10s. Testator left bequests "to the nephews and nieces of my own side, to be equally divided among those who are total abstainers from intoxicating drinks as beverages."

A remarkable demonstration of lifting power of a new 250-ton electric crane was staged recently in the railroad shops at Cheyenne, Wyo., when this crane lifted a complete locomotive of the Mallet type, weighing 250 tons, and shunted it back and forth over the floor of the shop as though it were only a toy, writes Eugene Ammon in the Scientific American. The crane held the huge locomotive suspended for over two hours, and finally set it back upon the tracks again.

Mayor Foley, of Thorold, Ontario, is making a heroic effort to prevent swearing in that town. In the interest of the Forward Movement he has had the town placarded with the following: "Attention! Cursing, swearing, blasphemy and obscene language are against the laws of God. It is also a violation of the laws of your country. It is the language of vulgarity. Do not forget yourself, but do all you can to prevent the use of profane talk."

War has been declared on the "glad neck" by the Irish women, and a League of St. Bridget has been established, with the warm approval of the Catholic Church, to combat immodest fashions. All members of the new League will be required to sign the following pledge: "For the glory of God, and the honor of Erin, I promise to avoid in my own person all impropriety in the matter of dress and to maintain and hand down the traditional and proverbial purity and modesty of Irish womanhood."

His Request.

Mr. and Mrs. Newbride had at last obtained a villa in the suburbs, and Mr. Newbride was hanging the pictures. There was a certain photograph of his wife which he decided must be hung up, but which was too small to suspend from the rail by a cord. He thereupon got a substantial nail and hammered it into the wall. There came a knock at the door. "It's Mr. Nexdor," said his wife, running to the window. "Your hammering has disturbed him." Mr. Newbride hastened to apologize. "Oh, I don't mind the noise," replied Mr. Nexdor, cheerily. "I only came to ask if I might hang a picture on the other end of the nail."

Peace Manoeuvre.

"You always play the phonograph during meals."

"Yep," replied Farmer Corntossel, "Tain't that we care for the music, but we want to do everything possible to keep the summer boarders from talkin' about the League of Nations."

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Ready and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth); then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, this mixture saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. And "don't accept anything else." Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Can.

Bought His Home Town.

Remarkable Career of a Poor Yorkshire Boy.

Thirty-seven years ago he left Huddersfield with less than $1 in his pocket; to-day he virtually has completed a transaction making him, at a cost of $5,000,000, owner of the greater part of that Yorkshire town.

That is the remarkable achievement of Sam Copley, a banker of London. He is a short and sturdily built man of sixty years, yet, despite the strenuous life he has lived, he looks many years younger. Although he has been away from Yorkshire so many years, there is no mistaking his accent, and Copley is as proud of it as anything he has achieved in his life. He remembers with relish that when a lad living with his father, a barber in Berry Brow, outside Huddersfield, he was known as the "Young Terrier," always in mischief.

Copley made his fortune in Australia. He says: "When I was a boy everyone in Huddersfield was cursing landlording. Ever since I have always thought that if I were rich enough I would buy Huddersfield and free it, and now I think the opportunity has come. It was at the suggestion of my friend, Wilfred Dawson, a well-known stock broker of Huddersfield, that I gave the corporation an offer of the property I bought. If the corporation does not accept the offer I shall give every man in Huddersfield the opportunity of becoming the owner of his own freehold property."

"This buying of the Ramsden estate is just one of those changes in social conditions in England to which we are now getting accustomed."

"There was a period of slavery, then a period of serfdom and then a period of landlord and tenant. To-day is the period when people are going to own their own their own freeholds, which is one of the greatest ties to keep men at home, and satisfied men will always fight for home."

Didn't Work Both Ways.

The workman has something to say to the complaint that he drops his tools whenever the whistle blows. A short time ago a young fellow began work in a big engineering shop and, being of a conscientious disposition, he used to work fifteen to twenty minutes overtime in order to finish what he was doing. Imagine his surprise on pay day, when he found that a quarter of a day's pay had been deducted owing to his being one minute late one morning. He protested that he had worked nearly a quarter of an hour overtime that day, but his protest was in vain. He now understands why the other workers used to smile at his gratuitous efforts.—Christian Science Monitor.

A Recantation.

It will be remembered that during the first months of the war 93 famous German Professors, literary men, artists and musical composers addressed to the learned professions of other countries a pamphlet containing sweeping denials of the stories of atrocities charged against German soldiers and officers in France and Belgium. Quite recently a famous German Pacifist, Dr. Hans Wehberg, communicated with all those who had signed the document in order to learn what their opinions are now at the end of the war. The main denials were, that Germany caused the war; that she had criminally violated Belgium's neutrality; that any Belgian's life or property had been touched save in self defence; that the German soldiers had behaved brutally at Louvain; that the German conduct of the war had infringed the law of nations, and that a fight against German militarism was not also a fight against German "kultur."

This famous manifesto was prepared by a small group of men in Berlin. In his enquiries Dr. Wehberg found that fifteen of the signers have since died. Some others were ill and could not reply, and some others preferred to keep silence. Thus out of the original 93 only 55 answers were received. Of the 55 only 16 defended their signature, among them being a son of the great Wagner. Thirty-nine others admitted they would by no means stand by everything they had signed. One of them declared he was willing to withdraw altogether. Another said that "in view of my deviation at that time from personal trustworthiness, for the rest of my life I take warning against the rash herd-instinct which has made fools of men for thousands of years." It begins to look as though a few Germans at any rate have had the experience of a change of heart.—Acadian Recorder.

Publicity Promotion.

"My dear," said the caller, in a stage whisper, "it came to me in strict confidence and you mustn't breathe a word to a living soul! It is the most sacred communication. Promise me? Well, they say that—"

And as she left the house five minutes later she smiled and said to her inmost self:

"Well, thank goodness, now I've got THAT published!"
