CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Wheat was weak early today in the face of bullish news, but rallied later on an export demand, September closing %c to %c higher. Corn and oats each closed to %c lower; provisions closed htly changed. Primary receipts were 1,046,000 bushels, compared with bushels last year. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 377 cars, against 242 last week and 281 a year ago. Local receipts numbered 325 cars, 15 of contract grade. Advices from the spring wheat territory were to the effect that rains had done serious damage to wheat in shock, some of it very serious. The domestic flour trade was said to be in a flourishing condition. I timated receipts tomorrow—Wheat, 115 cars;

RIFLE MATCHES

Last Day of the O. R. A. Shooting at the Long Branch Ranges.

Long Branch Rifle Ranges, Ont., Aug. 24.—Yesterday, the concluding day of the O. R. A. meeting, witnessed a continuation of the high scoring of the previous day. The conditions were good, with a strong wind from the southeast, but fairly steady. The scoring was better than last year. By holding the second stage of the Corporation of the City of Toronto match yesterday, instead of today, as scheduled, the meeting closed a day earlier. Capt. C. N. Mitchell, R. O., won the gold medal and $25 in the second stage of the Cor-poration match, with 129 out of a possible of 133. In the El Padre Needles competition, several double possible have to be shot off. The 48th High-landers' team won the Tait-Brassey cup, with a score of 572. In this match the Grenadiers had their three teams in the prize list, taking second, fourth and fifth prizes. Miss Bibby, of Dun-das, who took part in last year's match, was again a competitor, and put on 89 in the Tait-Brassey match out of 105. She will probably figure in the prize list. Scores:

DUFFIELD ESTATE

The Late William Duffield Said to Have Left No Will-Courts Must Decide as to Payment of Succession Duty.

Detroit, Aug. 23. - A special dispatch in the Free Press of this city says: A peculiar turn has arisen in the will case of the Ontario Government against the estate of the late William Duffield, president of the gas company, of London, Ont., who died last September, as detailed in last Sunday's Free Press.

Two weeks ago his successor in the presidency of the gas company, his son, also named William, and one of the three heirs, developed typhoid fever, which had a fatal termination, and he was buried yesterday. He was 39 years of age and unmarried, living with his mother. His death was entirely unexpected till towards the end, when he was unable to direct the disposition of his affairs. Apart from his share as one of the three heirs of his father, he was rich in his own right prior to the death of his father. Search has failed to show that he made a will, and two heavy life insurance policies that he carried are payable to his father, who predeceased him by a year. They thus become a part of the estate of his father, which all goes to the mother and remaining son. Whether this amount of insurance will be taxable by the province under the succession tax law is a novel point raised in the already complicated situation, and it opens the door for any amount of argument on both sides.

The mother and remaining son are masters of the situation so far, and as long as they do not choose to reveal the exact state of affairs, will probably remain so.

A rich harvest is in sight for the lawyers in any event, but how the government can compel the survivors to tell the exact financial position is the puzzle. The gas company, which they own, is a very valuable property, but it pays or has paid a very small dividend. The reason for this is that the company is compelled by the terms of its franchise to pay a certain percentage to the city after 10 per cent has been paid out of the surplus earnings. The dividend has never reached that sum, as the president, general manager and secretary-the father and two sons-voted to themselves salaries large enough to absorb all the earnings. leaving only a moiety of dividends on the stock. The case promises to be a cause celebre in the Canadian courts.

UNUSED TO THE CLIMATE

A Frenchman Finds Canadian Weather Had a Bad Effect on His Health.

St. Eustache, Que., Aug. 20.-August Dubois landed here from France, a perfect stranger to the weather conditions prevailing in this country. The food also differed from that to which he had been accustomed, and his heart being weak, the change had a serious effect upon it. He went to a medical man who did him no good. He went to others with a similar result in each

"I had to go to Montreal," he says, "to work for the Grand Trunk, and in that city met a man who was suffering the same thing as myself, but had started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. He told me they were doing him good. He was kind enough to give me a few of them. I felt myself much better. I procured a box and in fifteen days felt like a different man."

Steel Workers Want an Increase Over Last Year's Scale.

Toronto Men Take Hamilton Brass-Workers' Places-30,000 Coal Miners Idle.

Toronto, Aug.24.-The Toronto Trades and Labor Council last night decided to fight the manual training movement. The members of the council believe that manual training in the schools will simply be giving children a superficial knowledge of the use of tools. HAMILTON BRASS WORKERS

Hamilton, Aug. 24.-There was another development in the case of the strike at the Hamilton brass works yesterday. Warrants were issued for the arrest of three striking employes on the charge of watching and besetting the premises-the same charge that nine men were committed for trial for on Wednesday. One of the men, James Gray, has been arrested. Application was made for bail and refused by Magistrate Jelfs. The trouble arose over the company hiring Toronto men to take the places of strik-

THE STEEL WORKERS. Detroit, Aug. 24 .- When the conference between the steel companies and the executive committee of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers broke up in Detroit a week ago, no agreement had been reached on the new wage scale, the men demanding more than in previous years and the companies refusing to yield. According to the New York Commercial the situation is now very critical, and a big strike may take place in the near future. The old schedule expired July 1. The companies want to pay the same wages as they did last year, while the men think they are entitled to an advance. The matter is now being voted upon in the various lodges and a decision may be reached in two or three weeks.

SERIOUS STRIKE IN WALES. New York, Aug. 24.-Because the general manager of the Taff Vale Railway refuses to meet representatives of a labor union, not a pound of coal is moving at Cardiff, and 30,000 colliers are idle, says a cablegram to the Herald from London. This railway is the main avenue through which the great stream of Welsh steam coal flows down to Cardiff. The bulk of the steam coal used by the British navy and merchant marine is carried from the mines to the coast by the Taff Vale Railway. The strike on this railway, if not speedily terminated, must have a disastrous effect on shipping, and seriously embarrass the admiralty, at a time when steam coal is a very precious article. No better time could have been chosen by the labor union leaders to stop this great coal carrier. Welsh steam coal has already touched record prices, and the admiralty only a few days ago was forced to pay an exorbitant price for 250,000 tons. In an article on the effect in the United States of the coal supply situation in England, the Herald says: Railways, coal operators, steamship, and sailboat lines and shipbuilders, owners and brokers, are all making aggressive preparations for taking advantage of the situation.

A BOYCOTT.

San Francisco, Aug. 24.-The Building Trades Council, representing 28 trades organizations, has ordered a general boycott of all the goods turned out by nine-hour planing mills. The action is the result of mill owners declaring that under no circumstances will they consent to arbitration to accede to the demands of theemployes for an eight-hour workday.

STEPHEN CRANE'S WILL.

New York, Aug. 24. - The will of Stephen Crane, the author, probated in England, was presented in Surrogate Howell's court at Goshen yesterday. Mr. Crane bequeaths his household goods and furniture at his former home in England to his wife, and allows her all the royalties from his books and writings as long as she lives. The will provides for the education of Stephen Crane, a son of E. H. Crane, of Port a brother of the deceased. The er of the property is equally etween his brothers, Judge W. divide and E. H. Hospital Ward for New Treatment.

Sun Kills Germs-Bacilli Destroyed by Exposure to Intensified Rays-Idea From Denmark.

The Princess of Wales has established a ward in the London Hospital, in Whitechapel, for the treatment of lupus and other eruptive skin afflictions by the light system successfully used in Denmark under Dr. Finsen. The entire treatment is based upon the theory that light contains chemical properties which, applied under the Toronto University Senate Announces right conditions, will destroy disease germs. The Finsen treatment is only a practical extension and amplification of the idea on practical lines. A visitor at the Princess of Wales wards in the London Hospital gives the following description of the treatment there:

The Finsen method consists treating the superficial bacterial diseases by the concentrated chemical rays of light. There is no more certain fact than that the sun is a great destroyer of germ life. Experiments have shown that on days of bright sunshine at noon in July and August the sunlight will kill certain bacilli in plate cultures in an hour and a half, while an electric arc lamp of 25 amperes will destroy them after eight or nine hours' exposure.

MUST/CONCENTRATE RAYS. But even the strongest summer sunlight is of no use unless some means is found of so concentrating the rays on to the diseased part that its healing effect will be greatly augmented. The patients are exposed to sunlight in the summer when the sky is bright and on dull days to the light of electric are lamps of from 50 to 80 amperes.

The apparatus has to make the light stronger, but it is also designed with a view of cooling the rays, so that they do not burn the skin. It consists of a lens made up of a plain glass and a curved one; between the two is a light blue and weak ammoniacal solution of as the ultra-red, red and yellow rays of the spectrum) have a particularly strong heating effect, while their germkilling power is insignificant. These, then, are cut off by the lens, the strength of the blue, violet and ultra-violet rays, which have a destroying influence on bacteria, hardly impaired by passing through the blue liquid. TUBES LIKE TELESCOPES.

In the center of an iron ring is the are lamp, and radiating out from this are four tubes for the concentration of the light on the four patients. These tubes, which look like telescopes, are fitted with lenses of quartz. Between the lenses there is distilled water, to cool the rays by absorbing the heating ones. It should, however, be mentioned that the light rays as concentrated by the instruments described above are still too warm to be applied to the skin without hurting it get over this difficulty the skin has to cooled in order to avoid burning, and this is done by means of a curious little dish. This is a plate of quartz whole plate is pressed against the Cold water is made to run into one of the tubes and out of the other, and in this way the skin is cooled so that it can stand the strongest light. In the treatment of lupus a small area of the skin is exposed to the light either of the sun or of the electric arc for about an hour every day.

SUNLIGHT NOT RELIABLE. Numerous as the practical applications of electricity are at the present time, there can be no nobler use of the mysterious force than the production of heat for the treatment and cure of disease. The Finsen apparatus at present in use at London Hospital makes use of electricity for the production of light rays. The open air sunlight treatment has been tried, but Princess of Wales Establishes | fine weather cannot always be relied upon during the English summer, and, therefore, the indoor treatment will be most generally employed. The nurse in charge the new lupus ward says that already, although the beds were only lately available for patients, a great many sufferers have benefited to a great extent from the treatment. A careful record is kept of all the cases, and photographs are taken showing the condition of the patient both before and after a course of treatment.
