TORONTO PAIR ECHOES.
Toronto Telegram: Can nothing be done to kill off exhibition tramps? One girl in the women's building took at least $100 in prizes. She is showing both at Ottawa and London. Her livelihood is made by exhibiting at fairs. She and others are the cause of deterring many who might be exhibitors from entering for competitions. Would it not be wise to prohibit the same individual from entering for more than three competitions?

A lady visitor, while making the round of the women's building, met with a surprise. She found a piece of lace she had made tickled first prize and exhibited as being the recipient of a purse and hymn book on the occasion of his leaving Ottawa, where he has been the boys' secretary in the same institution there.

DANCE IN NEW FACTORY

Mr. D. S. Perrin Entertains Employees and Friends—500 There.

The new factory of the D. S. Perrin Company was a scene of gaiety last night when the third floor was given over for dancing, about five hundred people being present. With all this great number there was no crowding, for the room was the length of the building, or from Dundas to Carling street. It was a magnificent place to dance and the floor was well waxed. The music was given by a band of twenty-five men, who were nicely decorated for the occasion while about the room were paced electric fans.

In the center was erected a temporary platform where was seated Dayton & McCormick's full orchestra. The music was excellent and the programme was a most enjoyable one, lasting until almost 2 o'clock. Mr. Perrin, who gave the dance to his employees and their friends was present to participate in the evening. Those who had been invited to the dance were: Mrs. Evans, J. T. May, Chas. McNeill, W. J. Knott and T. W. McFarland.

AT THE THEATRES

Miss Mayhew In Show Girl

Makes Hit at the Grand

Vaudeville at Opening Performance of the London.

Whitney's "Show Girl," that tumultuous and fascinating bit of femininity, came to town yesterday for a three nights' engagement at the Grand. She is the same old "Girl," loaded to the ger-tips with fun and frolic, quite as charming and graceful as of yore, and if the reception accorded her by a crowded house last night is any criterion, has lost nothing in popularity.

Since its last appearance here the play has been remodeled to some extent. Fortunately it is of the elastic type of drama with which liberties can be taken more or less freely. Some of the comedy work which formerly fell to the male members of the cast has been transferred to the female members, notably Miss Stella Mayhew, who is being featured in the production. For this alone the changes were well worth while. Miss Mayhew is good.

In fact, Miss Mayhew is very good. She is a natural comedienne, possesses spontaneity, vitality and excellent stage presence. She possesses the happy knack of getting into an intimate relationship with her audience. Miss Mayhew made an instantaneous hit last night, and her performance in Act II, carried the house by storm. Dainty Josephine Floyd, well-known to Londoners, and with whom Miss Mayhew is in the audience, got all there was to be extracted out of a small part, and danced and sang her way into the affections of the audience. Messrs. Mylie, Forrester and Haigh were funny, though there can be no greater compliment than to say that they were sweet, toned, rounded and mellow, if lacking in strength, and of course caught the gallery in a very happy mood.

Perma Melrose, as Cecelia, sang acceptably, while the Faust Sisters, did an admirable acrobatic stunt. The entire production was mounted and costumed with the well-known lavishness of the Whitneys, and will be presented to-night and tomorrow afternoon and evening.

"QUINCY ADAMS SAWYER"

"Quincy Adams Sawyer," in play form, will be a welcome attraction at the Grand for three nights and Saturday matinee, commencing Sept. 17. The popularity of the famous New England novel of the same title has resulted in great attendance. It is a play of New England home life, full of all the feelings and sentiments that are natural to such life. The young man from whom the book and the play have their titles is a wealthy young Boston lawyer, who grows to be country for his health.

He finds a beautiful woman, a blind girl, who wins his love, and their courtship and devotion is very beautiful.

THE LONDON'S OPENING.

The London Opera House opened last night with Perry, Odell and Dees Vaudeville Company, and a good audience attended. Manager Harvey has provided an excellent attraction for the week, and before the engagement is over the several acts will have become very popular. Encore were frequent last night, and they were well deserved, for the reason that all of the turns were excellent. The programme is a long one, some eleven acts making a continuous performance of the programme a long one. Some of the features of the programme were presented at Springfield Park this season. Miss Christie M. Jones, the corset, and the young man from whom the book and the play have their titles is a wealthy young Boston lawyer, who grows to be country for his health.
