

SNAP-SHOTS AT VARIOUS SPORTS

Marvin Hart knocked out three men in a saloon row the other night. About his size.

Another row in the "Tigers" jungle. There will be about 'steven Rugby teams in Hamilton next fall.

An intermediate lacrosse team for ours! It begins to look as if the national game ought to make good here this season if the question of grounds is settled satisfactorily. There ought to be enough players to make it worth while.

Manager Querre of the Tecumsehs is going to Montreal to see the Shamrocks. Now, can it be, that he is going to try and make arrangements to enter his team in the N. A. L. U.? It was hinted from this quarter that such would be the programme, but it was pooh-poohed by Toronto journalists. We'll see.

Maybe the Toronto and Tecumsehs have not been negotiating for admission to the National Amateur Lacrosse Union, but evidently the Montreal, Ottawa and Cornwall clubs think they have, says the Globe.

They may have reasons for thinking so.

Racing at Yarmouth, England, is conducted by the municipality, which owns the course. The meeting yielded sufficient profit to enable £500 to be allotted to the relief of the poor rates. Formerly the bulk of the profits when the races were under private management, were given to local hospitals and other charities. This is the second year the corporation has managed the races, but the first year's profits were devoted to course improvement—Globe.

Among the fast Winnipeg horses now in training are the following: Tor Keene, 2:04; Harold H., 2:03; Harry O., 2:06; Chestnut, 2:07; Cap Brino, 2:07; Democracy, 2:07; Hazel Patch, 2:02; Darkey, 2:10; Dalton McCarthy; Joe Interest; Master Roy, 2:14; Simple Simon, Prince Vale; Hard Case, 2:18; Elsie M.; Harry D.; Baby Kidd; Lady M.; Deverax; Bill Bailey; Go Direct; Red King; Joe Gates; Hal Patron and a number of other eligible for the 2:15 class and better.

Reginald W. Rives, the well-known coaching enthusiast of New York, has won his suit against St. John Wood, a wealthy owner of an automobile, for damages sustained by one of his horses by reason of carelessness on the part of Mr. Wood's chauffeur. The case was of long standing, for the incident on which the suit was based occurred in Central Park on March 27, 1903. Mr. Rives was driving his four to the coach Pioneer when in attempting to pass a buggy he pulled slightly to the left. At this instant Mr. Wood's chauffeur drove his machine along to pass the coach, and the machine striking the rear leader swept its feet from under it. The horse went to the ground, but was not seriously bruised. Competent testimony showed that since the accident the horse has been just like a woman with nervous prostration. Special veterinarians were employed, but the horse never got well. He was as scared of any strange noise when the specialists got through with him as when they began. He was unsafe and no account as a coach horse after that. The case went to a jury and Mr. Rives was awarded the full amount for which he sued, $250, the cost of the horse. Now that the precedent has been established of awarding damages to the owner of a horse which has been made worthless by the wrecking of his nervous system, there will probably be more suits brought on the same grounds, for it is a well-known fact that a horse may be made as worthless by fright as through physical disability.—Horse World.

The fathers of great billiardists are as fussy as the fathers of great jockeys.

Henry Simons was fined $25 by the New Orleans judges the other day for sending a horse late to the paddock. This is rather severe. The judges should know that some capsules are not as soluble as others.

Herrera and Nelson met in Los Angeles the other evening. The press agent reports that friends had to intervene to prevent them having it out on the spot. Can it be possible there's a frame-up on the fire?

In England a tournament of archers has just been finished, and in the United States the boys are clouting the leather. Cousins, you know.

Turfman Bradley refused an offer of $20,000 from Sport Gates for a 2-year-old that had never faced the barrier. At first reading one is struck with the remarkable spectacle of any man making or any other man refusing such an offer. The second reading brings a suggestion of improbability. In the interest of truthfulness let's go no farther.

The New York Giants were mobbed at Providence the other day. The champions are playing up to their mid-summer form, sure enough.

There is probably no truth in the rumor that Manager Barrow had signed the Galt team. They look too good.

Prophet Elijah Davis should have squandered a few millions on the ponies, and then his downfall would have been explained properly.

In Cincinnati the "Knockers" are to be barred from the ball grounds. It will be a lovely sight in Toronto when Ed. Barrow puts the same law into effect. The Telegram man will watch games from a balloon.

Fitz wants to fight again. Sure, there is no fool like an old fool.

A professor in Chicago is not going to tell a lie for a year, but he inadequately denies that he is going to work on the Toronto Telegram sporting page.

Although the efforts of Cleveland lovers of harness racing to save the grand circuit meeting to that city is appreciated by the sport's well wishers, it is not likely that horsemen will place much reliance on the promises made for a meeting if one should be arranged. Last year the horsemen were brought to Cleveland with assurances of a meeting, only to be told on the eve of the opening day that the city officials would not permit the meeting. Of course, the men managing the meeting were not responsible for the deception, as it is generally understood certain city officials went squarely back on their promises, but it is not the same thing likely to occur again this year?

"If Sysonby is defeated this year," remarked a prominent trainer at "meepshead Bay yesterday, "it will be by a 2-year-old. Mr. Keene's great horse, from present indications, will easily prove the master of Oiseau, Tradition, Tanya, Aggie, Cairngorm, Oxford, Kiamasha, Dr. Leggo, Ram's Horn, Santa Catalina and other horses four years old and over, for he has wintered splendidly and is even more invincible now than ever before. In the autumnal races at Long Distance Sysonby may have some trouble with such 3-year-olds as H. P. Whitney's Burgomaster and Perverse and John Sanford's Mohawk II. These were the truly great 2-year-olds last season, and all come out of winter quarters ready for a long, arduous campaign. Perverse, a full sister to Stalwart, the long distance champion of 1904, may turn out to be a famous mare. She is fast, game and sound, and did not get too much racing last year. She will represent Mr. Whitney in the Tidal and Realization Stakes, but Burgomaster, unluckily, is not eligible for these big specials. Burgomaster should develop into a great 3-year-old. He has whirlwind speed and can carry weight. He has the conformation of a distance runner and his action is smooth and even. Mohawk II. will not race before Saratoga opens, but he will probably go after the Great Republic. Later on he will run in the Century and the Annual Champion if nothing happens. If Sysonby runs up against these three stars late in the year when all have become seasoned, horsemen hereabouts believe that he will have some hot work out for him. As far as the Brooklyn and Suburban handicaps are concerned it looks to me as if Sysonby should win both of them with any kind of a lucky break, as he will meet nothing in either event that can make him extend his neck. It looks as if Burgomaster would be a starter in the Metropolitan, but from what I hear Sysonby will not go to the post in that event. Mr. Whitney's colt will be fit, if he goes, as all the Whitney horses are, and he may win the big handicap at Belmont Park, as the distance is not too far for him."

Noah Brusso is said to be standing on his dignity. Better than standing on his record.

Enthusiastic Meeting Decides to Enter Intermediate Series Grounds Not Decided.

A very large number of lacrosse enthusiasts were out at the organization meeting last night, and it was decided to enter a team in the intermediate C. L. A. series. There is a large number of players available, and if the team is properly managed, there is not reason why it should not be a success. That was the opinion of all those present.

The following officers were elected: Honorary Presidents—Hon. C. S. Hyman and Hon. Adam Beck. President—Frank Babcock. Vice-Presidents—John T. Carling and F. F. McMartin. Secretary—Treasurer—F. O. Oliver. Manager—K. Casselman. Trainer—D. Lamont. Delegates to C. L. A. Convention—Frank Babcock and Harry Pickering.

Among the players present at the meeting were: Harry Pickering, Mulvey, Cowan, A. R. Pickering, W. R. Amos, Peter Leddy, Con Martin, Thos. Lawlor, R. O'Hagen, G. Wilson, F. Marshall, W. Pleasance, Sid Ladrewe, W. Oliver, E. Seale, W. Drinkwater, A. Cowan, A. Myers, H. Pearson, A. Cowan, L. Stuart and T. Doherty.

The question of grounds was also discussed at considerable length. There were many places suggested, but nearly all had drawbacks. It was also thought by many that arrangements could be made with the street railway company to play the games at Springbank, but the matter was left in abeyance.

Lacrosse ought to boom soon.

AMATEUR ROAD DRIVERS ARE ORGANIZED FOR THE SEASON

The annual meeting of the Amateur Road Drivers' Association was held last night.

The past year's work was carefully reviewed, and found to be very satisfactory. The finances were reported in a healthy condition.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Honorary President—Hon. Adam Beck. President—Mr. George G. McCormick. Vice-President—Dr. A. A. Routledge. Treasurer—Mr. W. E. Robinson. Secretary—Dr. F. L. Wood. Executive Committee—Norman Mc-

Leod, R. J. Wood, Dr. Barnes, Dr. Hughson, H. S. Wilcox and James McCartney.

The prospects for the season are said to be "the brightest ever." There will be different classes and the racing will be of the very finest.

Among the new-comers will be Dr. Hughson, of Delaware, who will have a pair of good ones, and Dr. Taylor, of Toronto, who will have a well-known horseman and has presided in the "Judge's" stands for some years. Both these gentlemen are decided acquisitions to the horse fraternity of the city.

DIFFERENT STYLE

OF GREAT BATTERS

Lajoie Slugger, While Willie Keller Is a Deliberate Place Hitter.

A New York baseball writer, asked to tell who is the better batter, Lajoie or Keeler, answered that there is so much difference in their style and results that it is impossible to compare them.

Lajoie is a slugger, a long-distance hitter. Keeler is a place hitter, although at times, frequently, in fact, he lines 'em out.

The big Cleveland stickler is a natural-born ball player. This is true not only at the bat but in the field. He plays short or second base in the absence of all known rules for the covering of the positions. But, like the horse, he never figures it out, he gets there just the same.

It's the same way with the stick. He lurches at anything and generally gets it. He doesn't think anything about it. All balls look alike to him. I've seen him when the bases were occupied and the pitcher was trying to walk him, reach out for the fourth ball and slam it to the fence.

Keeler is as deliberate as a chess player. There's a mental diagram that goes with everything he does at the bat. If scientific batting has the bugs on the plain swipe, then little Willie can sit in the high chair and feed crumbs to the grocer.

But it is results, not how they are obtained, that go to make up the joy and the bank rolls in this vale of golfing.

From the spectacular point of view—and this view has to be considered—Lajoie is more popular than Keeler.

The fan likes the long swipe. He likes to see the ball disappear on the distant sky line. Larry gives them action. And it is action they pay the big round dollars at the gate to see.

Very few can appreciate the fine points of Keeler at the bat at a critical moment. There is nothing showy about him. And you can't expect to see any mad enthusiasm over a measly little dribble down the base line that goes so slow neither the backstop nor the pitcher can get it, even if the dribble eventually brings in a run.

Keeler is a past master of the bunt, and the bunt is more full of results than the long hit. But it will never draw any cushions from the stands.

EASTERN SEASON OPENS ON MONDAY

Ten Thousand Dollar Handicap the Chief Attraction—Upset at Benning.

New York, April 11.—The Metropolitan racing season opens at Aqueduct next Monday with the $10,000 Carter handicap, at seven furlongs, the chief attraction. From a formidable list of entries a field of 20 or less will go to the post.

Rosenberg, which has 129 pounds, is an improbable starter, however, unless Dave Johnson, his owner, changes his mind at the last moment. The big horse has not shown the required quality in his workout and today it was reported he would be pointed for the Metropolitan. It looks, therefore, as if August Belmont's Lord of the Vale, with 120 pounds, would be the actual top weight. This horse is in great shape just now and John Whalen, who has prepared him for the Carter, thinks it will be an easy victory for him.

Ram's Horn may go, but there is nothing definite yet about him. The Shields' doubtless will start Ormonde's and the Albemarle stable is sure to be represented either by Santa Catalina or Bohemia, both good mares. Whichever is sent to the post will be heavily backed if he goes and the track is fast. Race King at 100 pounds is not to be overlooked, and Disobedient, Ben Hodder and Workman, which have been racing at the winter tracks, are also to be reckoned with.

UPSET AT BENNING.

Washington, April 11.—The upset of the day at Benning was in the sixth event. Peter Paul was a starter in the fourth, with McDaniel in the saddle and 97 pounds up. He finished in the rack at odds of 8 to 1. In the sixth he was started again with 107 pounds up. McDaniel the second time being equal 8 to 1. He got away from the post fourth, went up to third on the turn and won easily.

OPENING AT NASHVILLE.

Nashville, Tenn., April 11.—The Cumberland Derby, at a mile and an eighth, with $2,000 added, was the feature event of the opening day at Cumberland Park. Fred Cook's bay filly, Minnie Adams, was an easy winner.

She was favorite in the betting and rushed to the front at once, setting the pace to suit herself, and finished well in hand.

Debar was second, two lengths back and Hamilton was third. Kercheval was the only other starter.

DODD'S TRIPLE PLAY

Many a good winter's tale comes out of Cleveland says the New York Press. At a session of fans there a few days ago several members of what is known as the "Red Gang" got to telling stories of unassisted triple plays. Darby O'Brien, who was with the St. Joe team of the Western League last season, related the following:

"I made a triple play once, but you fellows don't know much of it, because such plays are common in the Western League. It was a peculiar one at that. We were playing Des Moines on the day in question. We had a green man named Wilcox at short, and several of our best players having been let out to reduce the salary list, Well, along in the fifth inning, Wakefield was on third and big Rossman on second with Higginson at the bat. He took the last throw, and I touched the sack and two were out and then I hustled for third and beat Wakefield to the bag."

"And you have the nerve to call that a triple play unassisted?" asked Bill Bradley.

"Sure," replied O'Brien.

"Get out your book, leaguer," retorted Bradley. "Wilcox gets an assist for bouncing the ball to you. And to think that you called him a greenhorn. I never saw any better head in the big leagues."

And even the goldfish looked at Bill reproachfully.

A Peculiar Inning

One of the most peculiar things ever noted by the writer was played in the Detroit-Cincinnati series, says Joe S. Jackson, in the Detroit Free Press. It was Detroit's batting half of the third round of Sunday's contest. Six men faced Overall. Every one of them made first base, only two scored, and yet but one was left on the bases.

Cobb opened the inning, and got to first on a pass. Schaefer singled to right, Cobb went to third on the hit, but Schaefer tried to take two on it without the advantage of Cobb's big lead, was out at second. Odwell to Delehanty to Corcoran. McIntyre singled to Cobb home. He made third when Odwell hit to center. Sam was second out on an attempted steal. Then Coughlin drew a pass. Lindsay sent up a little fly that Higgins misjudged. McIntyre scoring, and Coughlin going to third base. There were thus two over, two on and two down.

O'Leary, the seventh batter, did not get a chance to hit, as Lindsay and Coughlin tried a double steal, and Bill was nipped at the plate.

Ready to Wrestle Parr or Adamson

The following challenge has been received by The Advertiser sporting editor, together with a deposit of $25 to bind the match. The sporting editor will be glad to make whatever arrangements are necessary for the bout.

Here is the challenge:

"Glenvale, April 9.

"Sporting Editor of The London Advertiser.

"Dear Sir,—I notice in the columns of your paper of a recent date that you had a wrestling match in your city.

"Now I have a man by the name of McMahon whom I will back against either Adamson or Jim Parr for any part of $250 and gate receipts, winner to take all, at a catch-as-catch-can style, best two out of three falls to win, his falls to count, strange hold barred.

"I will also enclose a money order for $25 to prove to you my means business. This shall go as a forfeit for my appearance, and to form part of the side bet, just as the other parties wish.

"I remain yours respectfully,

JOSEPH E. REID.

"Manager of McMahon."

and others that were once owned by Hildreth.

Another owner ably represented by material is Barney Schreiber. Dr. Gardner, who has been asked to carry 112 pounds, which is seven pounds above the scale as required by the Western Jockey Club, is undefeated as a 2-year-old to date and may be sent after additional honors.

Schreiber has made attempts to secure Radtke for the Montgomery, but has failed, as J. O. Keene, who owns Red Leaf, a handicap candidate, will start Red Leaf with Radtke up.

In Dr. Gardner's Deutschland and Nealon Schreiber is represented by a trio that will have many supporters should they appear among those present at the post.

Little Scout, winner of the 1904 Montgomery handicap, was assigned 111 pounds for this year's race, and has been showing creditable trials. He has shown promise for the future, particularly soft soil at the course and so has Jake Sanders, Henry McDaniel's candidate.

Others being pointed for the Montgomery either at the local training grounds or out of town are Clint De Witt's Gold Rose, 106; C. R. Ellison's Lady Navarre, 101, and James Reddick, 97; J. S. Hawkins' Hyperion II, 8; C. Hildreth's Logistilla, E. D. Miller's Gold Ethelred, C. E. Rowe's First Mason, M. H. Tichenor & Co.'s Good Luck, H. B. Wittenberg's Retropaw and Cutter and lesser lights of the western handicap division.

SONS OF ENGLAND CAPPET- I A L SEASON WOUND UP

HURDLER BREAKS HIS LEG.

Cambridge, April 11.—J. K. Stone, a Harvard junior, and the most promising candidate for the Harvard track team, broke his leg in practicing taking the hurdles on Soldiers Field this afternoon. Stone had warmed up and started over the hurdles on a time trial. He went along nicely until he took the last hurdle. He sailed over that neatly, but when he landed fell in a heap. He tried to rise, but could not do so. An examination showed that he had sustained a double fracture of the thigh bone, half way between the knee and the hip.

He defeated Morningstar 500 to 222, and in doing so made 137 caroms in his seventh inning, which is the high run of the tourney up to date.

In his last three innings Schaefer made 166 points with 67.94 and an unfinished run of 5. His average was 18.14-27. Morningstar played a good picky, uphill game, but he was outclassed. His average was 8.25-26 and his high runs 49, 32 and 30.
